Which for Neatness of Design, Thoroughness of Combustion, Capacity of Oven, Economy in the Use of Fuel and Uniformity of operation, place them as the best Stoves in the market.
They have been constructed specially for the use of our Western Bituminous Coal (for which all stoves of Eastern manufacture are so ill adapted). Enlarged Flues insure a perfect draft; the plates that line the fire chamber are unusually heavy, and combine certain peculiarities in their construction which give these Stoves superiority over all others in the consumption of their smoke, thus saving a large per centage of fuel.

A FEW WORDS TO THE PUBLIC

CERTAIN Agents of Organ Makers visiting this city have been representing that their instruments are fully as good as the Mason & Hamlin Organ Co's make. Being Mason & Hamlin Organ Co's General Agents for Utah, we beg to say that we are prepared to prove, beyond all possibility of a doubt, that their instruments are superior in every respect to those of any other make.

The Company's sales are over two hundred per week, being nearly double that of any other Organ Factory in the World. Wherever they have been exhibited, they have uniformly won the highest awards at Industrial Fairs, including the Medal at the Paris Exposition.

On application, we will furnish the testimony of nearly one thousand musicians, including the most prominent Organists, Pianists, Composers, Musical Conductors, Directors of Opera etc., in America and Europe, who declare that they are superior to all others.

We have the testimony of Joseph H. Ridges, Esq., builder of the Salt Lake Great Organ; Professors George Careless, John Tullidge and O. Pratt, Jr.; C. J. Sundback and Ben. Judson, Makers and Repairers of Organs and other reed instruments, and many other musicians in the Territory, to the superiority of these Organs, to whom we beg to refer all persons who intend purchasing.

We have sold over one hundred Organs, and many of our customers, from all parts of the Territory, have written us enthusiastically in their praise. We have been offered the Agency of many of the principal makers, including all the Organs introduced in this city up to date, and have had five leading organs placed side by side of those of the Mason & Hamlin Organ Co., and the unanimous verdict of our home musicians was that they were much inferior to those of our company. We did not accept the Agency of any of them, although offered much more liberal terms, and being well assured that we had the best, and could recommend them as such.

So soon as we discover a better Organ, we shall try and secure it, as we are only dependent on the Company we represent so long as their instruments are the leading ones in the Market.

To accommodate those persons whose circumstances prevent their paying the full amount at once, we offer our Organs on a small cash advance, and the balance in Eight Monthly Installments, ranging from $9.00 to $14.00 per month, according to style. The Organs are delivered on payment of the cash advance.

Send to us for Illustrated Catalogues, giving description of each instrument and prices.

THAT LITTLE CHURCH ROUND THE CORNER.—A great deal has been said and written in the papers about "That little church round the corner," the one to which the reverend Sabine of New York after refusing to read the burial service over the body of the late Mr. Holland, the comedian, simply because he had been an actor, recommended his friends to take him, bids fair to become one of the leading churches of the metropolis. Mr. Helmbold, the famous advertising chemist of New York, offers $5,000 to a fund to "make the little church around the corner, the grandest in the city of New York."
Good actions invariably bring their own reward.

The Bristol, Va., Times, says the following remarks were once made to a congregation by the Rev. James Axley, a celebrated preacher of the Methodist Church, in East Tennessee:

It had been noised abroad that Mr. Axley would preach on the morning of the following Sabbath. The famous divine was a great favorite; with none more so than Judge White. At the appointed hour, the judge, in company with a large congregation, was in attendance.

The services were begun by another preacher, at the close of whose address Mr. Axley rose, and stood silently surveying the congregation. All were hushed in expectation. Every eye was riveted on him. He then began:—

"My friends, it is very painful, but a necessary duty, for a minister of the gospel to reprove vice, misconduct, and sin, wherever found; and be assured I will not shrink from the duty on this occasion.

"And now," continued the speaker, pointing with his long finger, "that sandy-haired man, sitting yonder by the door, who got up and went out while the brother was preaching, and staid out so long; who got his boots full of mud, and came in and stamped the mud off at the door, making such a noise that nobody could hear the preacher;—that man thinks I mean him.

"No wonder that he thinks so. It is a disgrace to the State that he should have grown up here and have no better manners. Now, my friend, I advise you to go home and learn how to behave yourself before you again come to the house of prayer. But I do not mean him.

"And now," pointing again to his mark, "that little girl about the middle of the floor—I should judge her to be about sixteen years old—with flowers inside of her bonnet; she that was giggling and laughing and chattering all the time the brother was speaking;—she thinks I mean her.

"And she ought to think so. I am sorry for any parents that have brought up a girl to her age without teaching her to behave modestly and properly; they are to be pitied. Little girl, you have disgraced your parents as well as yourself. But I do not mean her.

"And now, that man on the bench in the corner, who is looking up as bright as if he had never been asleep in his life, and never expected to be, but who was nodding and bowing and snoring all through the sermon;—that man thinks I mean him.

"And, indeed, he may well think so. My friend, the house of God is not intended for a place of sleeping. When you want to take a nap, go home, take off your clothes, and go to bed, there is the place to sleep, not in church. But I do not mean him.

And thus he went on, fixing his dark eye on each offender, till he had pointed out nearly every man, woman, and child who had in any respect deviated from strict propriety, ending each reproof with "I do not mean him," or "I do not mean her."

Judge White, sitting on the front bench, just in face of the preacher, was all the time enjoying the fun wonderfully. He laughed, he rubbed his hands, he chewed his tobacco with the greatest vigor. As each new offender was brought up, he chewed more and more violently till the floor before him became a puddle.

"Now," said the preacher, drawing himself up with a severe look, "I suppose you want to know who I do mean. I mean," said he, pointing his finger true as the needle to the pole, "I mean that filthy tobacco-chewer, sitting on the end of the front seat. Look at those puddles on the floor! A toad would be poisoned in them, and think of the sisters' dresses being dragged through such pollution!"

Judge White's laughter was checked as suddenly as if a thunderbolt had fallen. Every eye in the congregation was instantly fastened on him. He has averred that he never afterwards dared to chew tobacco in church.

TO KEEP HORSES' HOOF'S CLEAR OF SNOW.—The following simple method, recommended to keep the hoofs of horses free from balls of snow, may be useful just now:

To prevent balls of snow on horses' feet, let the hoof and fetlock be well cleaned, and then rub with soft soap previous to their going out in the snowy weather. This will effectually prevent balls of snow from collecting on the foot, which will sometimes cause the animal to fall, and if not, make his progress doubly toilsome.
