

LUNCHEON ON THE HOHENZOLLERN.

President and Prince Speak in Praise of Each Other.

CABLEGRAMS FROM KAISER.

Health of Miss Roosevelt is Brisk—Freedom of New York Given His Highness—At the Opera.

New York, Feb. 25.—From Shooters Island the president and prince went to the Hohenzollern, where luncheon was served.

Before luncheon on golden bracelet, in which is set a small picture of Kaiser Wilhelm, was presented by Prince Henry to Miss Alice Roosevelt. The bracelet is studded with diamonds and other precious stones. It was the gift of the emperor.

Prince Henry, acting in behalf of his brother, the emperor, made a very brief address on presenting the bracelet to Miss Roosevelt, and she in return accepted the gift with a few words, in which she expressed her thanks and appreciation of the gift. The prince addressed the president as follows:

"Mr. Roosevelt, you are here on board as guest of his majesty, the German emperor, and I really believe that it is the first time that a president of the United States has ever been on board one of his majesty's ships. Please do it may not be the last time. I wish to thank you heartily for the reception I have had, from the first day I landed up to this moment, and it is my sincere and certain impression that there is a strong feeling of personal friendship arising between us. May it extend to the benefit of our two great nations. I propose, three cheers for Mr. Roosevelt."

These were given with a will, and the national anthem was played. The president arose directly to answer, saying:

"I wish to express my hearty thanks for the kind words your royal highness has expressed on my behalf, and I wish you to understand that it is no empty compliment when I say that your royal highness has already won a good place in our affections and good will. I highly appreciate the fact that his majesty, the German emperor, has sent you to the American people, and I thank you personally that you have taken a step which not only must knit closer together the great nations whose friendship means so much for the future welfare of the entire world. To express finally a personal wish of my own, I look forward with great desire to the day on which I shall be your guest in your capacity as admiral on board of one of your own battleships."

The prince expressed his thanks to Miss Roosevelt. In the first place for the truly graceful way in which she performed the ceremony of christening the yacht. "My sailors are said to be superlatively good, and I shall be turning to Admiral Evans, he said: 'I believe, Evans, we are not, but however this may be, there will be a happy future to this craft from the fact alone (turning to the builder of the yacht) she was built by the hands of artists and was at her first appearance on the water linked with the name of a lady. My sailors are used to speak of our ship as 'her,' and we treat our ship like our wives. I think to the health of Miss Alice Roosevelt."

During the luncheon cablegrams were received from the Kaiser by Prince Henry and President Roosevelt and Miss Alice Roosevelt. Miss Roosevelt desired to reply at once, so the president asked for a pad and pencil. He began to write the message, and had written a few words when Mrs. Roosevelt smilingly took the pencil from him and added a few words. She then passed the pad and pencil to Miss Alice, who completed the message.

The cablegram to the emperor was the joint production of the president, his wife and daughter. The luncheon was finished about 3 o'clock. At the peak of the luncheon the president and Mrs. Roosevelt entered a carriage and were driven to the Twenty-third street ferry. They went to their special train, leaving Jersey City at 3:55 p. m. for Washington.

The president's departure from the Hohenzollern was preceded by a pretty ceremony. The president's flag flying at the peak was hoisted down and the sailors cheered while the band played "The Star Spangled Banner."

Soon after the president had left the gangway on the arm of Levi P. Morton. The former governor, with Miss Roosevelt and Miss Morton, then went to the Morton house.

BRAIN FOOD

Is of Little Benefit Unless it is Digested.

Nearly everyone will admit that as a nation we eat much meat and too little of vegetables, fruits, grains, and other foodstuffs which are rich in food value.

For business men, office men and clerks, and in fact everyone engaged in sedentary indoor occupations, grains, milk and vegetables are much more healthful.

Only men engaged in a severe, outdoor manual labor can live on a heavy meat diet and continue in health.

As a nation, meat once a day is sufficient for all classes of men, women and children, and grains, fruit and vegetables should constitute the bulk of our food.

But many of the most nutritious foods are difficult of digestion, and it is of no use to advise brain workers to eat largely of grains and vegetables where the digestion is too weak to assimilate them properly.

It is always best to get the best results from our food that some simple and harmless digestive should be taken after meals to assist the digestive organs, and several years experience have proven Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to be a very safe, pleasant and effective diet and a remedy which may be taken daily with the best results.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can hardly be called a patent medicine, as they do not act on the bowels nor any particular organ but only on the food eaten. They supply what weak stomachs lack, people disassimilate, and by stimulating the gastric glands increase the natural secretion of hydrochloric acid.

People who make a daily practice of taking one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal are sure to find all stomach troubles means perfect health.

There is no danger of forming an injurious habit as the tablets contain absolutely nothing but natural digestives: cocaine, morphine and similar drugs have no place in a stomach medicine, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are certainly the best known and most popular of all stomach remedies.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and after a week's use note the improvement in health, appetite and nervous energy.

Prince Henry, with several of his officers, boarded the navy yard tug Victor and went to the Battery, where he was to land to afterward receive the freedom of the city.

Freedom of New York.

New York, Feb. 25.—An immense crowd had assembled in Battery park to do honor to the prince and his suite. As the prince stepped ashore he was greeted by the mayor's secretary and as the party consisting of the prince, Ambassador von Holleben, Consul-General Buzen, Admiral Van Sant and the legation attaches, walked into Battery park a tremendous outburst of cheering.

As the carriages containing the party were driven rapidly up Broadway the throng which lined the sidewalks stood at the windows of the tall buildings gave the occupants a rousing welcome. At Wall street an avalanche of flowers and bouquets was hurled at the prince, who took it in good part, and saluted the throng.

The mayor and members of the citizens' reception committee were awaiting the prince in the "governor's room." Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, one of the reception committee, appeared in the full uniform of a major-general. Among the others present were Gen. Anson G. McKee, Gen. Chas. F. Roe, Cornelius N. Bliss, Oscar S. Strauss and Carl Schurz. Following the prince and his suite were Admiral Evans, Gen. Corbin, Ambassador von Holleben and other members of the suite. All were in full uniform, the prince wearing the German admiral's uniform, with a wide orange sash and decorations.

The mayor received the prince just after he crossed the threshold of the "governor's room" and they shook hands. The members of the suite grouped themselves about, and Gen. Sickles and Carl Schurz were specially presented to the prince. The board of aldermen having been officially notified of the arrival of the prince, President Cantor of the borough of Manhattan carried the president and Mrs. Roosevelt to the "governor's room" and they were presented to Prince Henry. The entire party started for the chamber.

The prince's suite preceded him and took seats at the right of President Forney of the board of aldermen. As soon as they were seated the prince entered on the arm of President Cantor, who formally introduced him to the board of aldermen and President Forney. President Forney briefly acknowledged the introduction. The prince was led to a place at the right of President Forney, his two attendants standing at his right, while the mayor moved to the left of President Forney.

Princess Henry, with several of his officers, boarded the navy yard tug Victor and went to the Battery, where he was to land to afterward receive the freedom of the city.

Freedom of New York.

New York, Feb. 25.—An immense crowd had assembled in Battery park to do honor to the prince and his suite. As the prince stepped ashore he was greeted by the mayor's secretary and as the party consisting of the prince, Ambassador von Holleben, Consul-General Buzen, Admiral Van Sant and the legation attaches, walked into Battery park a tremendous outburst of cheering.

As the carriages containing the party were driven rapidly up Broadway the throng which lined the sidewalks stood at the windows of the tall buildings gave the occupants a rousing welcome. At Wall street an avalanche of flowers and bouquets was hurled at the prince, who took it in good part, and saluted the throng.

The mayor and members of the citizens' reception committee were awaiting the prince in the "governor's room." Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, one of the reception committee, appeared in the full uniform of a major-general. Among the others present were Gen. Anson G. McKee, Gen. Chas. F. Roe, Cornelius N. Bliss, Oscar S. Strauss and Carl Schurz. Following the prince and his suite were Admiral Evans, Gen. Corbin, Ambassador von Holleben and other members of the suite. All were in full uniform, the prince wearing the German admiral's uniform, with a wide orange sash and decorations.

The mayor received the prince just after he crossed the threshold of the "governor's room" and they shook hands. The members of the suite grouped themselves about, and Gen. Sickles and Carl Schurz were specially presented to the prince. The board of aldermen having been officially notified of the arrival of the prince, President Cantor of the borough of Manhattan carried the president and Mrs. Roosevelt to the "governor's room" and they were presented to Prince Henry. The entire party started for the chamber.

The prince's suite preceded him and took seats at the right of President Forney of the board of aldermen. As soon as they were seated the prince entered on the arm of President Cantor, who formally introduced him to the board of aldermen and President Forney. President Forney briefly acknowledged the introduction. The prince was led to a place at the right of President Forney, his two attendants standing at his right, while the mayor moved to the left of President Forney.

Princess Henry, with several of his officers, boarded the navy yard tug Victor and went to the Battery, where he was to land to afterward receive the freedom of the city.

Freedom of New York.

New York, Feb. 25.—An immense crowd had assembled in Battery park to do honor to the prince and his suite. As the prince stepped ashore he was greeted by the mayor's secretary and as the party consisting of the prince, Ambassador von Holleben, Consul-General Buzen, Admiral Van Sant and the legation attaches, walked into Battery park a tremendous outburst of cheering.

As the carriages containing the party were driven rapidly up Broadway the throng which lined the sidewalks stood at the windows of the tall buildings gave the occupants a rousing welcome. At Wall street an avalanche of flowers and bouquets was hurled at the prince, who took it in good part, and saluted the throng.

The mayor and members of the citizens' reception committee were awaiting the prince in the "governor's room." Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, one of the reception committee, appeared in the full uniform of a major-general. Among the others present were Gen. Anson G. McKee, Gen. Chas. F. Roe, Cornelius N. Bliss, Oscar S. Strauss and Carl Schurz. Following the prince and his suite were Admiral Evans, Gen. Corbin, Ambassador von Holleben and other members of the suite. All were in full uniform, the prince wearing the German admiral's uniform, with a wide orange sash and decorations.

The mayor received the prince just after he crossed the threshold of the "governor's room" and they shook hands. The members of the suite grouped themselves about, and Gen. Sickles and Carl Schurz were specially presented to the prince. The board of aldermen having been officially notified of the arrival of the prince, President Cantor of the borough of Manhattan carried the president and Mrs. Roosevelt to the "governor's room" and they were presented to Prince Henry. The entire party started for the chamber.

The prince's suite preceded him and took seats at the right of President Forney of the board of aldermen. As soon as they were seated the prince entered on the arm of President Cantor, who formally introduced him to the board of aldermen and President Forney. President Forney briefly acknowledged the introduction. The prince was led to a place at the right of President Forney, his two attendants standing at his right, while the mayor moved to the left of President Forney.

Princess Henry, with several of his officers, boarded the navy yard tug Victor and went to the Battery, where he was to land to afterward receive the freedom of the city.

Freedom of New York.

New York, Feb. 25.—An immense crowd had assembled in Battery park to do honor to the prince and his suite. As the prince stepped ashore he was greeted by the mayor's secretary and as the party consisting of the prince, Ambassador von Holleben, Consul-General Buzen, Admiral Van Sant and the legation attaches, walked into Battery park a tremendous outburst of cheering.

As the carriages containing the party were driven rapidly up Broadway the throng which lined the sidewalks stood at the windows of the tall buildings gave the occupants a rousing welcome. At Wall street an avalanche of flowers and bouquets was hurled at the prince, who took it in good part, and saluted the throng.

The mayor and members of the citizens' reception committee were awaiting the prince in the "governor's room." Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, one of the reception committee, appeared in the full uniform of a major-general. Among the others present were Gen. Anson G. McKee, Gen. Chas. F. Roe, Cornelius N. Bliss, Oscar S. Strauss and Carl Schurz. Following the prince and his suite were Admiral Evans, Gen. Corbin, Ambassador von Holleben and other members of the suite. All were in full uniform, the prince wearing the German admiral's uniform, with a wide orange sash and decorations.

The mayor received the prince just after he crossed the threshold of the "governor's room" and they shook hands. The members of the suite grouped themselves about, and Gen. Sickles and Carl Schurz were specially presented to the prince. The board of aldermen having been officially notified of the arrival of the prince, President Cantor of the borough of Manhattan carried the president and Mrs. Roosevelt to the "governor's room" and they were presented to Prince Henry. The entire party started for the chamber.

The prince's suite preceded him and took seats at the right of President Forney of the board of aldermen. As soon as they were seated the prince entered on the arm of President Cantor, who formally introduced him to the board of aldermen and President Forney. President Forney briefly acknowledged the introduction. The prince was led to a place at the right of President Forney, his two attendants standing at his right, while the mayor moved to the left of President Forney.

Princess Henry, with several of his officers, boarded the navy yard tug Victor and went to the Battery, where he was to land to afterward receive the freedom of the city.

Freedom of New York.

New York, Feb. 25.—An immense crowd had assembled in Battery park to do honor to the prince and his suite. As the prince stepped ashore he was greeted by the mayor's secretary and as the party consisting of the prince, Ambassador von Holleben, Consul-General Buzen, Admiral Van Sant and the legation attaches, walked into Battery park a tremendous outburst of cheering.

As the carriages containing the party were driven rapidly up Broadway the throng which lined the sidewalks stood at the windows of the tall buildings gave the occupants a rousing welcome. At Wall street an avalanche of flowers and bouquets was hurled at the prince, who took it in good part, and saluted the throng.

The mayor and members of the citizens' reception committee were awaiting the prince in the "governor's room." Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, one of the reception committee, appeared in the full uniform of a major-general. Among the others present were Gen. Anson G. McKee, Gen. Chas. F. Roe, Cornelius N. Bliss, Oscar S. Strauss and Carl Schurz. Following the prince and his suite were Admiral Evans, Gen. Corbin, Ambassador von Holleben and other members of the suite. All were in full uniform, the prince wearing the German admiral's uniform, with a wide orange sash and decorations.

The mayor received the prince just after he crossed the threshold of the "governor's room" and they shook hands. The members of the suite grouped themselves about, and Gen. Sickles and Carl Schurz were specially presented to the prince. The board of aldermen having been officially notified of the arrival of the prince, President Cantor of the borough of Manhattan carried the president and Mrs. Roosevelt to the "governor's room" and they were presented to Prince Henry. The entire party started for the chamber.

The prince's suite preceded him and took seats at the right of President Forney of the board of aldermen. As soon as they were seated the prince entered on the arm of President Cantor, who formally introduced him to the board of aldermen and President Forney. President Forney briefly acknowledged the introduction. The prince was led to a place at the right of President Forney, his two attendants standing at his right, while the mayor moved to the left of President Forney.

Princess Henry, with several of his officers, boarded the navy yard tug Victor and went to the Battery, where he was to land to afterward receive the freedom of the city.

Freedom of New York.

New York, Feb. 25.—An immense crowd had assembled in Battery park to do honor to the prince and his suite. As the prince stepped ashore he was greeted by the mayor's secretary and as the party consisting of the prince, Ambassador von Holleben, Consul-General Buzen, Admiral Van Sant and the legation attaches, walked into Battery park a tremendous outburst of cheering.

As the carriages containing the party were driven rapidly up Broadway the throng which lined the sidewalks stood at the windows of the tall buildings gave the occupants a rousing welcome. At Wall street an avalanche of flowers and bouquets was hurled at the prince, who took it in good part, and saluted the throng.

The mayor and members of the citizens' reception committee were awaiting the prince in the "governor's room." Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, one of the reception committee, appeared in the full uniform of a major-general. Among the others present were Gen. Anson G. McKee, Gen. Chas. F. Roe, Cornelius N. Bliss, Oscar S. Strauss and Carl Schurz. Following the prince and his suite were Admiral Evans, Gen. Corbin, Ambassador von Holleben and other members of the suite. All were in full uniform, the prince wearing the German admiral's uniform, with a wide orange sash and decorations.

The mayor received the prince just after he crossed the threshold of the "governor's room" and they shook hands. The members of the suite grouped themselves about, and Gen. Sickles and Carl Schurz were specially presented to the prince. The board of aldermen having been officially notified of the arrival of the prince, President Cantor of the borough of Manhattan carried the president and Mrs. Roosevelt to the "governor's room" and they were presented to Prince Henry. The entire party started for the chamber.

The prince's suite preceded him and took seats at the right of President Forney of the board of aldermen. As soon as they were seated the prince entered on the arm of President Cantor, who formally introduced him to the board of aldermen and President Forney. President Forney briefly acknowledged the introduction. The prince was led to a place at the right of President Forney, his two attendants standing at his right, while the mayor moved to the left of President Forney.

Princess Henry, with several of his officers, boarded the navy yard tug Victor and went to the Battery, where he was to land to afterward receive the freedom of the city.

Freedom of New York.

New York, Feb. 25.—An immense crowd had assembled in Battery park to do honor to the prince and his suite. As the prince stepped ashore he was greeted by the mayor's secretary and as the party consisting of the prince, Ambassador von Holleben, Consul-General Buzen, Admiral Van Sant and the legation attaches, walked into Battery park a tremendous outburst of cheering.

As the carriages containing the party were driven rapidly up Broadway the throng which lined the sidewalks stood at the windows of the tall buildings gave the occupants a rousing welcome. At Wall street an avalanche of flowers and bouquets was hurled at the prince, who took it in good part, and saluted the throng.

The mayor and members of the citizens' reception committee were awaiting the prince in the "governor's room." Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, one of the reception committee, appeared in the full uniform of a major-general. Among the others present were Gen. Anson G. McKee, Gen. Chas. F. Roe, Cornelius N. Bliss, Oscar S. Strauss and Carl Schurz. Following the prince and his suite were Admiral Evans, Gen. Corbin, Ambassador von Holleben and other members of the suite. All were in full uniform, the prince wearing the German admiral's uniform, with a wide orange sash and decorations.

The mayor received the prince just after he crossed the threshold of the "governor's room" and they shook hands. The members of the suite grouped themselves about, and Gen. Sickles and Carl Schurz were specially presented to the prince. The board of aldermen having been officially notified of the arrival of the prince, President Cantor of the borough of Manhattan carried the president and Mrs. Roosevelt to the "governor's room" and they were presented to Prince Henry. The entire party started for the chamber.

The prince's suite preceded him and took seats at the right of President Forney of the board of aldermen. As soon as they were seated the prince entered on the arm of President Cantor, who formally introduced him to the board of aldermen and President Forney. President Forney briefly acknowledged the introduction. The prince was led to a place at the right of President Forney, his two attendants standing at his right, while the mayor moved to the left of President Forney.

Princess Henry, with several of his officers, boarded the navy yard tug Victor and went to the Battery, where he was to land to afterward receive the freedom of the city.

with Admiral Evans behind him. When they had taken their places President Forney said:

"Your royal highness, Prince Henry, it is my special honor to request his honor as well as that of New York to join you the resolution passed by this body, granting you the freedom of the city."

Thereupon the mayor formally presented the resolution and in a speech spoke of the charter granted the city of New York by Gov. Donagan in 1656, and added:

"The freedom of the city, which is now to be conferred upon you, has not very often been granted in our history. If it be now, in fact, but a form of words, it is a form that signifies high regard and the genuine friendship for him upon whom it is bestowed."

"Mr. Mayor, I am most grateful for the kind reception I find here in this house, as well as for the very kind words you express on this occasion. I am fully aware of the fact that it is an exception that a member of the freedom of the city of New York may add that I am proud of it. It is the first time which many from the Old World going over to the New World meet and see. It is in the city which has been the asylum for many of my countrymen. It is an aware of the fact—the center of a center of commerce. I was deeply touched by the reception which I found on the day of my arrival, as well as today, when I drove to the city hall. All of you know perfectly well that I am not here on my own behalf, but that I am here on behalf of his majesty, the emperor of Germany, my beloved sovereign and brother."

"I am sorry that I cannot pay you for all the enjoyment I have found, but I think I am quite safe in saying that I may offer you the friendship of his majesty the emperor of Germany, and I agree with you, Mr. Mayor, that I have not come here to create a friendship, but to carry on the old friendship which has existed between our two nations, and which I hope may remain the same in the future. I wish to thank you once more, and conclude with my heartfelt thanks for the kindness and for your offering me the freedom of the city of New York. I wish to add that I wish the city of New York everything that is good for the future and every possible good wish for the citizens of New York."

After the prince had made his reply he was applauded for some minutes, and the official ceremony came to an end. The royal party went to their carriages, and with squadron A as an escort, drove up Broadway through a line of enthusiastic people to Thirty-fourth street and thence to the Hohenzollern, which was reached at 5:30 o'clock. Along the route a number of people on the yacht the prince was given a continuous ovation, and the American and German crowds were everywhere.

At 6:15 the prince, his suite and Admiral Evans drove to the Metropolitan club, where they were the guests at the dinner of the mayor, with the presidential delegates and a number of dignitaries. There were no formal speeches. The list of toasts were:

"To the president of the United States," "Star Spangled Banner."

"To the emperor of Germany," "music, German national hymn."

"To his royal highness, Prince Henry of Prussia," music, German naval hymn.

Prince Henry was present tonight at a gala performance given in his honor at the Metropolitan opera house. The prince did not arrive at the opera until 9:30, and the first act of "Lohengrin," with which the program was opened, was nearly finished, when he reached his box. The royal visit was enthusiastically received by the large audience present, and he bowed his acknowledgments repeatedly.

Princess Henry, with several of his officers, boarded the navy yard tug Victor and went to the Battery, where he was to land to afterward receive the freedom of the city.

Freedom of New York.

New York, Feb. 25.—An immense crowd had assembled in Battery park to do honor to the prince and his suite. As the prince stepped ashore he was greeted by the mayor's secretary and as the party consisting of the prince, Ambassador von Holleben, Consul-General Buzen, Admiral Van Sant and the legation attaches, walked into Battery park a tremendous outburst of cheering.

As the carriages containing the party were driven rapidly up Broadway the throng which lined the sidewalks stood at the windows of the tall buildings gave the occupants a rousing welcome. At Wall street an avalanche of flowers and bouquets was hurled at the prince, who took it in good part, and saluted the throng.

The mayor and members of the citizens' reception committee were awaiting the prince in the "governor's room." Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, one of the reception committee, appeared in the full uniform of a major-general. Among the others present were Gen. Anson G. McKee, Gen. Chas. F. Roe, Cornelius N. Bliss, Oscar S. Strauss and Carl Schurz. Following the prince and his suite were Admiral Evans, Gen. Corbin, Ambassador von Holleben and other members of the suite. All were in full uniform, the prince wearing the German admiral's uniform, with a wide orange sash and decorations.

The mayor received the prince just after he crossed the threshold of the "governor's room" and they shook hands. The members of the suite grouped themselves about, and Gen. Sickles and Carl Schurz were specially presented to the prince. The board of aldermen having been officially notified of the arrival of the prince, President Cantor of the borough of Manhattan carried the president and Mrs. Roosevelt to the "governor's room" and they were presented to Prince Henry. The entire party started for the chamber.

The prince's suite preceded him and took seats at the right of President Forney of the board of aldermen. As soon as they were seated the prince entered on the arm of President Cantor, who formally introduced him to the board of aldermen and President Forney. President Forney briefly acknowledged the introduction. The prince was led to a place at the right of President Forney, his two attendants standing at his right, while the mayor moved to the left of President Forney.

Princess Henry, with several of his officers, boarded the navy yard tug Victor and went to the Battery, where he was to land to afterward receive the freedom of the city.

Freedom of New York.

New York, Feb. 25.—An immense crowd had assembled in Battery park to do honor to the prince and his suite. As the prince stepped ashore he was greeted by the mayor's secretary and as the party consisting of the prince, Ambassador von Holleben, Consul-General Buzen, Admiral Van Sant and the legation attaches, walked into Battery park a tremendous outburst of cheering.

As the carriages containing the party were driven rapidly up Broadway the throng which lined the sidewalks stood at the windows of the tall buildings gave the occupants a rousing welcome. At Wall street an avalanche of flowers and bouquets was hurled at the prince, who took it in good part, and saluted the throng.

The mayor and members of the citizens' reception committee were awaiting the prince in the "governor's room." Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, one of the reception committee, appeared in the full uniform of a major-general. Among the others present were Gen. Anson G. McKee, Gen. Chas. F. Roe, Cornelius N. Bliss, Oscar S. Strauss and Carl Schurz. Following the prince and his suite were Admiral Evans, Gen. Corbin, Ambassador von Holleben and other members of the suite. All were in full uniform, the prince wearing the German admiral's uniform, with a wide orange sash and decorations.

The mayor received the prince just after he crossed the threshold of the "governor's room" and they shook hands. The members of the suite grouped themselves about, and Gen. Sickles and Carl Schurz were specially presented to the prince. The board of aldermen having been officially notified of the arrival of the prince, President Cantor of the borough of Manhattan carried the president and Mrs. Roosevelt to the "governor's room" and they were presented to Prince Henry. The entire party started for the chamber.

The prince's suite preceded him and took seats at the right of President Forney of the board of aldermen. As soon as they were seated the prince entered on the arm of President Cantor, who formally introduced him to the board of aldermen and President Forney. President Forney briefly acknowledged the introduction. The prince was led to a place at the right of President Forney, his two attendants standing at his right, while the mayor moved to the left of President Forney.

Princess Henry, with several of his officers, boarded the navy yard tug Victor and went to the Battery, where he was to land to afterward receive the freedom of the city.

Freedom of New York.

New York, Feb. 25.—An immense crowd had assembled in Battery park to do honor to the prince and his suite. As the prince stepped ashore he was greeted by the mayor's secretary and as the party consisting of the prince, Ambassador von Holleben, Consul-General Buzen, Admiral Van Sant and the legation attaches, walked into Battery park a tremendous outburst of cheering.

As the carriages containing the party were driven rapidly up Broadway the throng which lined the sidewalks stood at the windows of the tall buildings gave the occupants a rousing welcome. At Wall street an avalanche of flowers and bouquets was hurled at the prince, who took it in good part, and saluted the throng.

The mayor and members of the citizens' reception committee were awaiting the prince in the "governor's room." Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, one of the reception committee, appeared in the full uniform of a major-general. Among the others present were Gen. Anson G. McKee, Gen. Chas. F. Roe, Cornelius N. Bliss, Oscar S. Strauss and Carl Schurz. Following the prince and his suite were Admiral Evans, Gen. Corbin, Ambassador von Holleben and other members of the suite. All were in full uniform, the prince wearing the German admiral's uniform, with a wide orange sash and decorations.

The mayor received the prince just after he crossed the threshold of the "governor's room" and they shook hands. The members of the suite grouped themselves about, and Gen. Sickles and Carl Schurz were specially presented to the prince. The board of aldermen having been officially notified of the arrival of the prince, President Cantor of the borough of Manhattan carried the president and Mrs. Roosevelt to the "governor's room" and they were presented to Prince Henry. The entire party started for the chamber.

The prince's suite preceded him and took seats at the right of President Forney of the board of aldermen. As soon as they were seated the prince entered on the arm of President Cantor, who formally introduced him to the board of aldermen and President Forney. President Forney briefly acknowledged the introduction. The prince was led to a place at the right of President Forney, his two attendants standing at his right, while the mayor moved to the left of President Forney.

Princess Henry, with several of his officers, boarded the navy yard tug Victor and went to the Battery, where he was to land to afterward receive the freedom of the city.

Freedom of New York.

New York, Feb. 25.—An immense crowd had assembled in Battery park to do honor to the prince and his suite. As the prince stepped ashore he was greeted by the mayor's secretary and as the party consisting of the prince, Ambassador von Holleben, Consul-General Buzen, Admiral Van Sant and the legation attaches, walked into Battery park a tremendous outburst of cheering.

As the carriages containing the party were driven rapidly up Broadway the throng which lined the sidewalks stood at the windows of the tall buildings gave the occupants a rousing welcome. At Wall street an avalanche of flowers and bouquets was hurled at the prince, who took it in good part, and saluted the throng.

The mayor and members of the citizens' reception committee were awaiting the prince in the "governor's room." Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, one of the reception committee, appeared in the full uniform of a major-general. Among the others present were Gen. Anson G. McKee, Gen. Chas. F. Roe, Cornelius N. Bliss, Oscar S. Strauss and Carl Schurz. Following the prince and his suite were Admiral Evans, Gen. Corbin, Ambassador von Holleben and other members of the suite. All were in full uniform, the prince wearing the German admiral's uniform, with a wide orange sash and decorations.

The mayor received the prince just after he crossed the threshold of the "governor's room" and they shook hands. The members of the suite grouped themselves about, and Gen. Sickles and Carl Schurz were specially presented to the prince. The board of aldermen having been officially notified of the arrival of the prince, President Cantor of the borough of Manhattan carried the president and Mrs. Roosevelt to the "governor's room" and they were presented to Prince Henry. The entire party started for the chamber.

The prince's suite preceded him and took seats at the right of President Forney of the board of aldermen. As soon as they were seated the prince entered on the arm of President Cantor, who formally introduced him to the board of aldermen and President Forney. President Forney briefly acknowledged the introduction. The prince was led to a place at the right of President Forney, his two attendants standing at his right, while the mayor moved to the left of President Forney.

Princess Henry, with several of his officers, boarded the navy yard tug Victor and went to the Battery, where he was to land to afterward receive the freedom of the city.

Freedom of New York.

New York, Feb. 25.—An immense crowd had assembled in Battery park to do honor to the prince and his suite. As the prince stepped ashore he was greeted by the mayor's secretary and as the party consisting of the prince, Ambassador von Holleben, Consul-General Buzen, Admiral Van Sant and the legation attaches, walked into Battery park a tremendous outburst of cheering.

As the carriages containing the party were driven rapidly up Broadway the throng which lined the sidewalks stood at the windows of the tall buildings gave the occupants a rousing welcome. At Wall street an avalanche of flowers and bouquets was hurled at the prince, who took it in good part, and saluted the throng.

The mayor and members of the citizens' reception committee were awaiting the prince in the "governor's room." Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, one of the reception committee, appeared in the full uniform of a major-general. Among the others present were Gen. Anson G. McKee, Gen. Chas. F. Roe, Cornelius N. Bliss, Oscar S. Strauss and Carl Schurz. Following the prince and his suite were Admiral Evans, Gen. Corbin, Ambassador von Holleben and other members of the suite. All were in full uniform, the prince wearing the German admiral's uniform, with a wide orange sash and decorations.

The mayor received the prince just after he crossed the threshold of the "governor's room" and they shook hands. The members of the suite grouped themselves about, and Gen. Sickles and Carl Schurz were specially presented to the prince. The board of aldermen having been officially notified of the arrival of the prince, President Cantor of the borough of Manhattan carried the president and Mrs. Roosevelt to the "governor's room" and they were presented to Prince Henry. The entire party started for the chamber.

The prince's suite preceded him and took seats at the right of President Forney of the board of aldermen. As soon as they were seated the prince entered on the arm of President Cantor, who formally introduced him to the board of aldermen and President Forney. President Forney briefly acknowledged the introduction. The prince was led to a place at the right of President Forney, his two attendants standing at his right, while the mayor moved to the left of President Forney.

Princess Henry, with several of his officers, boarded the navy yard tug Victor and went to the Battery, where he was to land to afterward receive the freedom of the city.

Freedom of New York.

New York, Feb. 25.—An immense crowd had assembled in Battery park to do honor to the prince and his suite. As the prince stepped ashore he was greeted by the mayor's secretary and as the party consisting of the prince, Ambassador von Holleben, Consul-General Buzen, Admiral Van Sant and the legation attaches, walked into Battery park a tremendous outburst of cheering.

As the carriages containing the party were driven rapidly up Broadway the throng which lined the sidewalks stood at the windows of the tall buildings gave the occupants a rousing welcome. At Wall street an avalanche of flowers and bouquets was hurled at the prince, who took it in good part, and saluted the throng.

The mayor and members of the citizens' reception committee were awaiting the prince in the "governor's room." Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, one of the reception committee, appeared in the full uniform of a major-general. Among the others present were Gen. Anson G. McKee, Gen. Chas. F. Roe, Cornelius N. Bliss, Oscar S. Strauss and Carl Schurz. Following the prince and his suite were Admiral Evans, Gen. Corbin, Ambassador von Holleben and other members of the suite. All were in full uniform, the prince wearing the German admiral's uniform, with a wide orange sash and decorations.

The mayor received the prince just after he crossed the threshold of the "governor's room" and they shook hands. The members of the suite grouped themselves about, and Gen. Sickles and Carl Schurz were specially presented to the prince. The board of aldermen having been officially notified of the arrival of the prince, President Cantor of the borough of Manhattan carried the president and Mrs. Roosevelt to the "governor's room" and they were presented to Prince Henry. The entire party started for the chamber.

The prince's suite preceded him and took seats at the right of President Forney of the board of aldermen. As soon as they were seated the prince entered on the arm of President Cantor, who formally introduced him to the board of aldermen and President Forney. President Forney briefly acknowledged the introduction. The prince was led to a place at the right of President Forney, his two attendants standing at his right, while the mayor moved to the left of President Forney.

Princess Henry, with several of his officers, boarded the navy yard tug Victor and went to the Battery, where he was to land to afterward receive the freedom of the city.

Freedom of New York.

New York, Feb. 25.—An immense crowd had assembled in Battery park to do honor to the prince and his suite. As the prince stepped ashore he was greeted by the mayor's secretary and as the party consisting of the prince, Ambassador von Holleben, Consul-General Buzen, Admiral Van Sant and the legation attaches, walked into Battery park a tremendous outburst of cheering.

As the carriages containing the party were driven rapidly up Broadway the throng which lined the sidewalks stood at the windows of the tall buildings gave the occupants a rousing welcome. At Wall street an avalanche of flowers and bouquets was hurled at the prince, who took it in good part, and saluted the throng.

The mayor and members of the citizens' reception committee were awaiting the prince in the "governor's room." Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, one of the reception committee, appeared in the full uniform of a major-general. Among the others present were Gen. Anson G. McKee, Gen. Chas. F. Roe, Cornelius N. Bliss, Oscar S. Strauss and Carl Schurz. Following the prince and his suite were Admiral Evans, Gen. Corbin, Ambassador von Holleben and other members of the suite. All were in full uniform, the prince wearing the German admiral's uniform, with a wide orange sash and decorations.

The mayor received the prince just after he crossed the threshold of the "governor's room" and they shook hands. The members of the suite grouped themselves about, and Gen. Sickles and Carl Schurz were specially presented to the prince. The board of aldermen having been officially notified of the arrival of the prince, President Cantor of the borough of Manhattan carried the president and Mrs. Roosevelt to the "governor's room" and they were presented to Prince Henry. The entire party started for the chamber.

The prince's suite preceded him and took seats at the right of President Forney of the board of aldermen. As soon as they were seated the prince entered on the arm of President Cantor, who formally introduced him to the board of aldermen and President Forney. President Forney briefly acknowledged the introduction. The prince was led to a place at the right of President Forney, his two attendants standing at his right, while the mayor moved to the left of President Forney.

Princess Henry, with several of his officers, boarded the navy yard tug Victor and went to the Battery, where he was to land to afterward receive the freedom of the city.

Freedom of New York.

New York, Feb. 25.—An immense crowd had assembled in Battery park to do honor to the prince and his suite. As the prince stepped ashore he was greeted by the mayor's secretary and as the party consisting of the prince, Ambassador von Holleben, Consul-General Buzen, Admiral Van Sant and the legation attaches, walked into Battery park a tremendous outburst of cheering.

As the carriages containing the party were driven rapidly up Broadway the throng which lined the sidewalks stood at the windows of the tall buildings gave the occupants a rousing welcome. At Wall street an avalanche of flowers and bouquets was hurled at the prince, who took it in good part, and saluted the throng.

The mayor and members of the citizens' reception committee were awaiting the prince in the "governor's room." Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, one of the reception committee, appeared in the full uniform of a major-general. Among the others present were Gen. Anson G. McKee, Gen. Chas. F. Roe, Cornelius N. Bliss, Oscar S. Strauss and Carl Schurz. Following the prince and his suite were Admiral Evans, Gen. Corbin, Ambassador von Holleben and other members of the suite. All were in full uniform, the prince wearing the German admiral's uniform, with a wide orange sash and decorations.

The mayor received the prince just after he crossed the threshold of the "governor's room" and they shook hands. The members of the suite grouped themselves about, and Gen. Sickles and Carl Schurz were specially presented to the prince. The board of aldermen having been officially notified of the arrival of the prince, President Cantor of the borough of Manhattan carried the president and Mrs. Roosevelt to the "governor's room" and they were presented to Prince Henry. The entire party started for the chamber.

The prince's suite preceded him and took seats at the right of President Forney of the board of aldermen. As soon as they were seated the prince entered on the arm of President Cantor, who formally introduced him to the board of aldermen and President Forney. President Forney briefly acknowledged the introduction. The prince was led to a place at the right of President Forney, his two attendants standing at his right, while the mayor moved to the left of President Forney.

Princess Henry, with several of his officers, boarded the navy yard tug Victor and went to the Battery, where he was to land to afterward receive the freedom of the city.

Freedom of New York.

New York, Feb. 25.—An immense crowd had assembled in Battery park to do honor to the prince and his suite. As the prince stepped ashore he was greeted by the mayor's secretary and as the party consisting of the prince, Ambassador von Holleben, Consul-General Buzen, Admiral Van Sant and