

"TICKET" HAS BEEN CANCELLED.

Famous Railroad Dog of Utah
Lays Down Beside His Daughter and Expires.

TRAVELED ALL OVER THE STATE

Would Board the Train for Ogden,
Lick All the Dogs in Town
And Come Home.

"Ticket," the famous railroad dog of Salt Lake is dead. He apparently died of a broken heart after going blind from the result of a fight with another dog. For the first time in his checkered career Ticket was beaten by an opponent. This undoubtedly preyed on his mind; he recognized that he was growing old and getting out of the running, so after quietly laying down beside his daughter, "Ticket II," he expired.

There is not a conductor between here and Pocatello, Salt Lake and Nephi but who knew Ticket when he was in his prime. Whenever city life palled on him Ticket would board a baggage car and rattle out the country all day long. Once in a while reports would come from Ogden that Ticket was licking all the dogs in town. A few days later he would appear in the Short Line ticket office as a victor, and would proceed to lick D. R. Gray's brindle bull pup out of the office and then settle down close to the steam heat radiator with a grunt of canine satisfaction.

Ticket was born April 4, 1887, in San Francisco. At the tender age of four months he was brought to this city by Chester Nason, the famous ticket agent at the depot. Ticket was a small, hardy grown out of puppydom when he took to boarding the Garfield beach train on his own responsibility. Upon arriving at the beach he would go to the cook at the restaurant, who never failed to respond with a section of discarded T-bone. From this time on he became a regular vagabond, and would roam over the country all day long. At first there was a tendency to throw him off the trains, but since he persisted in boarding them again he was allowed to travel at his pleasure.

Another feature of Ticket's career was that he never missed a dog and pony show when it came to town. Accompanied by his daughter, the traveling passenger agent for the Short Line, Ticket would go to the show, sit on a reserved seat beside the railroadman and apparently enjoy the performance.

One of the most unique stunts performed by this dog was New Year's eve five years ago, in Mr. Nason's bachelor apartments, when there was a choice collection of spirits present. One of the guests tested Ticket's palate with a saucer full of champagne. Ticket sampled the fluid, pronounced it good and wagged his tail for more. He got it. Later he appeared on Second South street in a bawdy state of intoxication. His antics attracted the notice of a patrolman, who came over to investigate, to immediately lost a section of his trousers.

During the last three years Ticket made his headquarters with Andrew Matheson, the expressman who stands outside the Rock Island local agency. Every dog on the west side early grew to respect this English bulldog, but during the process Ticket created a lot of trouble for Mr. Matheson, who in constant hot water because of his pet's pugilistic attributes.

Ticket is dead, but his daughter, a faithful of her father, reigns in his stead. She is not yet a year old and to date has not exhibited any propensities which would entitle her to the title of the Railroad Dog of Utah, which was so proudly borne by her sire.

R. G. BRIDGE BURNS.

Tristate at Thompson's goes under, Delaying All Trains Today.

Traffic on the Rio Grande is somewhat demoralized today, owing to the burning of a wooden bridge near Thompson, on the main line. A force of carpenters and track men were rushed from Green River and Helper with indications that by this afternoon repairs will be running again. In consequence of the delay Nos. 5 and 1 came near "dying" on the road.

THEY ARE TRAVELING.

World's Fair Instead of Hurting the West Brings More Passenger Business.

The prediction made that the world's fair this year would have the effect of playing havoc with the passenger earnings of western roads does not seem to be a correct prophecy. Despite the approach of tight times, passenger traffic is very flourishing not only on eastbound business routes, but also. Yellowstone park business never before gave such promise and this week opened up strong while the number of people going through to the coast, especially by way of the coast, is increasing. It almost would appear that the world's fair is a means of stimulating business. Hundreds of people from the west are going east on the fair while a big percentage of the eastwarders after doing the fair are coming west. Another feature is that the summer migration to Europe is not so marked this year as heretofore and the eastwarders generally show a disposition to become better acquainted with the scenic and other interesting features of the United States.

Wisconsin Central Trust.

New York, June 4.—No effort will be made to extend the voting trust of the Wisconsin Central railroad, which lapses on July 1. The trust was created in July, 1899, and was to run for approximately five years unless it should be terminated by an earlier date by the action of the trustees themselves. An official circular has been sent to the stockholders notifying them to deposit their trust certificates on and after June 15 for conversion into stock. It is not known who will control the railroad after the dissolution of the trust.

BIBLE WRITTEN IN 78.

Multiples of This Figure Recur Significantly in New Testament.

The phenomena of the figure 7 and its multiples, occurring in the New Testament, have been touched upon by Ivan Panin, a Russian student of the Bible, who for a number of years has made his home at Grafton, Mass. This significance of the "seven" group will be laid out even upon the superstitious who are outside the pale of scriptural points, and, as Mr. Panin has shown them, their relations of their groupings to the first 11 verses of the New Testament must suggest that they were scarcely chance.

For instance, in these first 11 verses of Matthew, the vocabulary consists of 49 words, or seven sevens; of these words are nouns—28, or four sevens, which begin with vowels, and 21, or three sevens, which begin with consonants.

This distribution by sevens between vowel words and consonant words justly might have been deemed accidental but for the fact that of the 49 words 42 are nouns—six sevens—and seven are verbs—seven sevens. "Of the 42 nouns there are 35 proper nouns, or five sevens, while seven are common nouns. Of the 35 proper nouns four sevens are male ancestors of Jesus and seven are not such. Not only then is the distribution of the 49 words of the vocabulary by sevens as between vowel words and consonant words but also as between the parts of speech."

As a further and absolute proof that these phenomena of the sevens are not accidental Mr. Panin points out that the 49 words of the vocabulary show 14 words that are not used but once, while 35 of them, or five sevens, are used more than once. His conclusions after an exhaustive arrangement of the "seven" features are that "Not even the choice of the languages in which the Scriptures were written was made without marked numerical design at the threshold of the subject."

SUMMER SCHOOL OPENS MONDAY.

Big Attendance Looked for Out of Utah's Fifteen Hundred Teachers.

EXCEEDINGLY STRONG ARRAY.

That is What the Pedagogic Force
Will be—Great Opportunity to Educators of City and State.

The State Summer Normal Institute will begin on Monday next and continue until June 18 at the University of Utah. Over 1,600 letters of invitation have been sent out to the trustees of the state and as there are about 1,500 teachers in the state, most of whom appreciate the importance of the year's course, an unusually large attendance is expected.

The institute is held at the request of the city and county superintendents in various parts of the state. The demand for such a meeting has been quite general and believing that it will be well attended and patronized, Prof. William M. Stewart, the head of the state normal, has obtained the very best talent available.

Dr. Vincent, one of the principal lecturers, is among the foremost educators of the United States, and the dean of Chautauqua, the greatest of all summer schools. He is regarded as the probable successor to Dr. Harper of the Chicago University. Miss N. N. and others who will be here are likewise eminent in their respective sides of the profession.

Utah teachers cannot afford to miss this institute. It will be as strong as any held in America this summer. It will be instructed by lecturers who know the needs of the teachers, and who will talk from that standpoint. The training school will be in full operation, so that all teachers may see just what is being done. There will be a course of lectures in Barrett hall and at the University during the institute, some in the afternoon and others in the evening. The first of these will be by Dr. Vincent, on "Children vs. Growups," at Barrett hall, Monday evening at 8:30.

Following is the daily program: From 9 to 10 a. m.—Manual training, first grade, Mr. Tipton; clay modelling, etc., third grade, Miss Herman; hand work, fourth grade, Miss Kimball; art, fifth grade, Mr. Stephens; cooking, eighth grade, Miss Wheeler; hand work, Miss May; primary reading, Miss Vincent; music, Miss Brinton; grammar grade history and geography, Miss Youngberg; nature study, Mr. Weir; domestic art, Madam Root; intermediate and grammar grade reading, Miss Newlin.

From 10:15 to 11:15 a. m.—Kindergarten, Miss May; white studies, model school, second grade, Miss Sampson.

From 11:30 to 12:30 p. m.—Kindergarten, continuation, Miss Sholes; constructive work, 4th grade, Mr. Scott; sewing, 5th grade, Mrs. Madam Root; art, Mr. Stephens; primary history and geography, Miss Youngberg; hand work, Miss Sampson; Manual Training, Mr. Tipton; Nature Study, Mr. Weir; 6th grade, Arithmetic, Prof. Stewart; Child Study, Miss May; Language, (primary first week, Mr. McKnight; Language, (high grade second week, Mr. McKnight; Intermediate Grammar Grade Reading, Miss Newlin.

Pedagogy, (first week at 1:30, second week 2:30), Assembly; Room, Museum building.

The time and place of lectures are the same as heretofore published in the "News."

WENT THROUGH RUSSIA.

Utah Man Tells of a Trip Into the Heart of Czar's Domain.

J. A. Hendrickson of Logan, who recently returned from a mission to Scandinavia, tells an interesting story of conditions in Russia just before the outbreak of the present war. Mr. Hendrickson visited the realm of the czar last December, and he says that at that time the Russians were very bitter towards the Japanese and were just as sure they could whip the Japs as the Americans were that they could whip the Spaniards. The result of the war has demonstrated their overconfidence and utter inability to cope with what they at first regarded as an inferior foe.

Mr. Hendrickson spent seven months in Norway as president of the Christiania conference, to which field he was appointed by President Francis M. Lyman, after the conclusion of the European war with his wife and family. The latter returned home last September, where he took up missionary work and was instrumental in gaining the goodwill of the people. He was very popular, many of whom had been very hostile to the "Mormons" before that. After being released he visited London and was there during a great anti-Mormon demonstration, just outside Finsbury Town hall, this taking place while the Elders were holding a meeting in the place named. At this latter meeting the Earl of Epsbury was present and afterwards expressed himself as much pleased with the doctrines presented by those who spoke. The outdoor meeting caused quite a stir for a season, but the Elders were not molested in the least. Leaving London Mr. Hendrickson took the steamship Majestic for New York, and arrived in Washington in time to witness the adjournment of Congress and to hear the closing sessions in the Smoot case.

An experience he will not soon forget occurred on the Baltic sea, while he was enroute to Russia. The steamship Wellamo, on which he was a passenger, ran aground and overturned, but fortunately no lives were lost, although all had the life jackets strapped about them, when the boat was successfully floated to deep water.

TRAVIS IS CHAMPION.

The American's Victory Over English Experts Caused Sensation.

London, June 4.—No international sporting event for a long time has created the interest that has been manifested by Travis' victory. In discussions of the play at Sandwich, in long editorial and commentaries, all the newspapers this morning pay tribute, hearty and un-

According to Travis' superb play. Mingled with expressions of keen disappointment that America has succeeded in wresting the championship from England and Scotland of the peculiarly national game are questions whether the event will not compel some revision of Anglo-Scottish ideas regarding golf.

Admitting that Travis' style of play is more scientific than British players are accustomed to see, his personality, his clubs and his method are all carefully analyzed with a view to finding if any lesson can be learned. The wish is generally expressed among him pitted against the best professionals.

The Morning Post, editorially, asks what Scotchman like Andrew Lang, who formerly protested against Englishmen invading their ancient game, will say to American domination. "If we are not mistaken," says the Post, "the United States will claim are long to have something to say as to the rules of the game. There is talk already of the innovation in style playing, and Travis' well earned success shows that a younger generation is knocking at the door."

BUDDY RYAN BEATEN.

Jimmy Gardner, Brother to George, Too Much for Him.

Chicago, June 3.—Buddy Ryan, a Chicago lightweight, was beaten so badly in a fight tonight with Jimmy Gardner of Lowell, Mass., that the referee stopped the fight in the sixth round to save Ryan from further punishment. It was Gardner's fight all the way. By constant left jabbing, which Ryan was unable to avoid, Gardner wore his opponent down until in the fourth round he had Ryan staggering all over the ring. And of the round saved Ryan from a knockout at this time. A stomach blow early in the fifth took Ryan off his feet, and he lay on his back for a moment. Only by constant clinching that he managed to last out the round. Gardner went in to knock Ryan in the sixth round, and in less than a minute had Ryan on the verge of collapse. The referee saw Ryan in a corner to save him from serious injury.
