PAVING PROCRASTINATION.

Delay in Work of Improving South Temple Continues = Another Plan.

Instead of opening bids for the east South Temple street paving this afternoon as was advertised, the board of public works will spend much of the time at its meeting in discussing another plan for the paving which, it is said. is agreeable to the property owners in that street who have been protesting against the plan adopted by the counagainst the plan adopted by the coun-cil. The plan which the board has dis-covered is suitable to the protesting property owners is similar to the one proposed by former City Engineer L. C. Kelsey. It will call for a retaining wall separating the upper and the lower sides of the street and will be a much more expensive plan than the one agreed upon by the council. It is thought that it will be impossible to get all of the property owners to agree to it on account of its excessive cost.
