

UNIVERSITY OF UTAH.

Salt Lake City—Attorney James H. Moyle addressed the students at chapel on Wednesday. His theme was "A student's possibilities." The musical features of the program were two duets entitled, "Say once again I love you," and "Come to me," by Mrs. Joseph Wood and Instructor Best.

Miss Rosalie Cope will go to Los Angeles. In the summer Miss Harold goes to Ohio, and Miss Jones to her home in St. Paul.

For fourteen years past the Salt Lake Business College and for seven years past the Latter-day Saints Business College have been the two foremost institutions in the intermountain west for the training of young men and women in business branches and for securing positions for their graduates.

BRIGHAM YOUNG ACADEMY. On the evening of May 12, President Cluff will lecture under the auspices of the Ogden Sunday school association on the authenticity of the Book of Mormon.

Provost—Word is received that a large delegation of students from the Beaver branch will attend the Summer school, beginning here June 1 and ending July 10.

In the Riverside Miss Etta Power goes to Chicago. Miss Clay goes to visit in the east. Miss Cora Eaton goes to California.

Miss Lena Manning of the Grant goes to Oakland, California, to spend the summer.

Miss Palmer and Miss Cohn will spend the summer on the coast.

It was with heartfelt sorrow that news was passed among the corps of the dead of Miss Irene Elarth, formerly a city teacher.

Misses Mann and Jennie Chaffield will spend part of the vacation visiting in Wyoming.

Mrs. Lillian O. Brook will spend the summer with her mother in Indiana.

Miss Fannie Buckner will spend the vacation in Baker, Oregon.

L. D. S. UNIVERSITY.

The school and friends took an outing to Provo today on a special train over the R. G. W. They will return tonight, reaching the city at 11:45.

The visit of Patriarch James S. Smith was an event of unusual interest this week; and the meeting and dinner given on Wednesday in his honor were of the highest order.

Mrs. Eliza M. Stevenson and Mrs. Jesse M. Smith have presented to the school a life-size picture of James Sewell Smith, the founder of our new theological library. It is handsomely framed and will be placed over the theological bookcase.

Our ladies' basketball team went to Ogden yesterday to play with the team of the Weber Stake academy. Instructors Ardella Hittner and Freeman Bassett accompanied them, the former as chaplain and the latter as referee for the game.

The Home Art club under the direction of Instructor Margaret K. Miller, gave the faculty a delightful reception on Thursday evening at the home of Miss Irene Miller of Murray, and incidentally furnished a practical demonstration of the real value of home training in the school.

An incident of the Murray runaway and faculty spill-out that was not divulged by any of them has come to light. After the badly scared pedagogues had picked themselves up and started out to walk the remainder of the distance, some youths standing in a row on a neighboring barn roof, saluted them with a well-known college yell: "Faculty, faculty, rah, rah, rah!" The faculty had to laugh in the midst of their calamity.

Several valuable additions have recently been made to the library. The funds were obtained from the Frederick Ward and Prof. Clark lectures. A complete Shakespeare in 20 volumes, the Hudson edition, now supplies a long felt want. Other sets for work in general literature are Craik's English Prose, five volumes, and Ward's English Prose. Still other books have been ordered and are now under way.

The walls in room 23 of the Lion House are completely covered by drawings representing the best work of the two classes in art under Instructor Fairbanks. Every one interested in art, especially our own students, should inspect this exhibit. The pen and ink drawings and the illustrative work deserve special mention.

The kindergarten department in the Lion house, where over 40 little ones receive daily training under the guidance of the Misses Elmina and Leona Taylor, presents a very pleasing and attractive appearance. The supervisor is Mrs. Kesler. Nine young ladies are here studying the art of teaching in kindergartens. The little folks are now engaged in the spring work, making gardens and studying the farmer and his home. During the winter the various trades and professions have been studied and whole cases of doll's furniture, shoes, and implements, all made by the children, are on exhibition. The department presents a very flourishing appearance.

"Good quality, worthy your lordship" —Shakespeare Gorham Silver is emphatically of good quality worthy of your lordship and of all people of good taste. This is due to its admirable design and workmanship, its sterling quality and its moderate price.

Sunday Normal school last Sabbath and made some interesting and effective remarks to the students. Elder Eggeston is always a welcome visitor.

The ball given by the student body last Friday night had a large attendance, and the association netted a neat sum in consequence. Mr. Dalquist and Miss Davis carried off first prize for waiting. Mr. Webb and Miss Finlayson carried off second prize.

It is now almost settled that one of the new teachers next year will be Mr. Charles E. Maw, of Plain City, Weber county. Mr. Maw graduated in the '97 class, taught school for a number of years, and has since been attending Stanford university, where he graduates this year.

No doubt the Weber Stake academy is gratified at the fact that their girls evened up matters with this institution. The defeat sustained by the basketball team of that school, the girls made a noble retaliation by defeating our girls last Saturday in a well played game. Score, 7 to 9.

Students in English D are now reading, as the series of classics prescribed during the course, "Macbeth," "Vivian of Walsley," and Burns' "Representative Poems." Prof. Nelson is making use of the recitation period in oral criticisms before the class of their recent descriptions of a spring morning.

At the request of President Cluff, Miss Nellie Schofield called a meeting of all the students who expect to graduate from the high school this year. An organization has not yet been effected, as the number that came to the meeting was only a fraction of those who intend taking out diplomas.

The L. D. S. U. athletes are to meet the students of the academy next Saturday in track athletics. Arrangements are being made to meet these visitors from our sister institution at the depot and escort them to the grounds. A banquet, a literary program and afterwards a dancing matinee, are among the incidentals provided for the occasion.

Of all the grotesque female costumes that the wardrobe of our grandmothers might furnish, if on exhibition, the score of girls belonging to the Hinderarten have found the most unique and decked themselves therewith for he play next Friday night. Their youthful faces peep out from these ancient frills and furbelows like jennies in the spring time. The photographer has already fixed the picture for all time, and it is reproduced in this week's White and Blue.

The Summer school circular is now being mailed to the teachers of the state. On the front page is the announcement that Mr. Thomas C. Trueblood, M. A., professor of reading, elocution, and oratory in the University of Michigan, will be the lecturer. Prof. Trueblood is one of America's foremost teachers in his line. His students are among the greatest orators and elocutionists of our nation. He will particularly adapt his work to reading and expression in the district schools, and aside from this, he will give special work in elocution and oratory for the personal advancement of the teachers.

"Come and see the National Women's Husband Seekers' Debating society of the M. Y. A., assisted by Mr. B. E. Young of Salt Lake City, in a college hall, Friday evening, May 1." Such is the announcement on a streamer at the west entrance of the college building. It will be noticed that the name of this production grows in length with each announcement. It was postponed last week, not for the reason named in last week's notes, but out of consideration for the recent funeral of Mr. Young's father. By the enthusiasm manifested among the students at present, it will evidently be one of the taking entertainments of the season.

It is now believed that the entire force of teachers constituting the Utah county institute will become members of the academy summer school. The attractive features for them is the work of Prof. Eastmond in manual training and drawing. Prof. Eastmond has been director of these subject in the county during the year and teachers have been able to take work under him during the institutes, but this has only served to whet their appetites. At a recent exhibition the products of every district in the county in manual training was collected in the Parker school of this city, and made a most enviable showing in this new branch of educational work. Considering the recent awakening on this subject, no doubt there will also be many teachers from other counties here to study Prof. Eastmond's methods.

Prof. Caleb Tanner, accompanied by two men from Spanish Fork, made an official visit last Saturday to Strawberry valley with a view to measuring the flow of water out of that natural reservoir. They succeeded in getting on to the divide, but found the snow waist deep after that, and still soft, so that they had to return with their mission unfulfilled. They intend making another trial in the near future.

Mr. Hyrum Vance is one of the students of the academy who finds the old school the most attractive place as soon as district school vacation comes. He has been teaching in the Kanab High school with Prof. Horn, and got through a month sooner than his principal. As while a student, so now Mr. Vance is chiefly interested in the work of the music department.

Prof. Hickman was not able to attend his classes during Monday and Tuesday, and when he came on Wednesday his right arm was in a sling. The professor sustained very painful injuries last Friday afternoon from a fall in the gymnasium. Like Mr. Woolley, he was exercising on the flying rings when the accident occurred, which fractured his shoulder blade, and otherwise in-
