FIGHTERS WHO OWE MUCH TO MANAGERS

Cites the Case of Nelson, McGovern, Britt and Others-What Brady Did for Jim Corbett,

"Will Billy Delancy make a world" heavyweight champion out of Al Kaufmann?" asks Biddy Bishop in the San Francisco Bulletin.

"Or will A! Kaufmann prove to be se far ahead of the average amateur as to make Billy Delaney more famous than he is

In other words, will the manager make the fighter, or will the fighte make the manager? These are questions Left Hook asked a few months back, and as far as is known were never answered to the satisfaction of the swrit-

It is necessary that every fighter It is necessary that every fighter should have a manager and a manager can hardly expect to do business at the fistic game without having a fighter. Both are a sort of necessary evil to each other. Many fighters would be as dead as mackerel if it were not for the hustling managers who are continually plugging and boosting their cause and securing matches for them. On the other hand many fighters are working uner hand many fighters are working uner hand many fighters are working uner hand many fighters. bingging and boosting their cause and securing matches for them. On the other hand many fighters are working under managers who are absolutely of no use to them. There are lots of fighters who owe their fame to their hustling managers, and then there are managers who would never have been heard of had it not been that the were butted in with boxers who had already acquired much prominence through the efforts of managers who had preceded them.

Take the case of Billy Nolan, for instance. He would never have been heard of had, it not been that he was butted in with Battling Nelson. Nolan was working for a salary in a Butte poolroom in the capacity of sheet writer, and later he was interested in a boxing club in the Montana town. Just one or two contests in which he worked with Nelson brought him out prominently, and not because of any brilliant nently, and not because of any brilliant work on his part as a handler of boxers. Sam Harris was largely responsible for Terry McGovern being the most talked of and best advertised boxer of his time, while Al Herford is just as much responsible for the prominence atmuch responsible for the prominence attained by the lightweight champion of the world, Joe Gans. Billy Brady did much for Jim Corbett and assisted largely in placing Corbett to the front as a champion. Johnny Dunn did a lot for Matty Matthews and helped him gain prominence, but still it is a question whether Matthews would have made good if he had not had the proper material in his makeup. However, it was the opportunities Matthews needed and Dunn gave them to him, without which he may have lived in oblivion. Jimmy Britt would not have acquired his present high standing in pugilism had it not been that he was properly handled and boosted, and it is almost a cinch that Battling Nelson would not be where he is today had it not been that tittle Teddy Murphy placed him.

be where he is today had it not been Murphy got him his first fight in San Francisco and this started him. Nelson should have a warm spot in his heart for Murphy. It is true that it was up to the Dane to make good, which he did in swell fashion, but the fact remains that the boy manager procured the opportunity for the Dane, else he might now be boxing around the bushes in Illinois.

With two runs already counted in the fateful third, Manager Jones started to substitute Walsh for White. There was a hurried consultation and Jones gave White another opportunity. The next two St. Louis men to face the Chicago pitcher hit safely. Tom Jones for a double and Koehler for a home run. The following is from "Tad" in New York: Not having seen his name in print for over a week, Mr. R. Filzsimmons, he of the red top, awoke yesterday morning and issued a challenge to Marvin Hart.

He not only desires converse with the Kentuckian, but he also wishes the latter to wager much coin to prove his right to the litle of heavyweight champion of "What's Left."

The story, started by Murphy's friends, is based upon the statement that Nolan "has made so many enemies on the coast that the clubs have declared that Nelthat the clubs have declared that Nelson cannot get any more bouts if he keeps Nolan as his manager." It sounds very much like another knock from the upper ten of local first circles. In Nelson's case it is "loving Nolan for the enemies he has made." HE LAXATIVE OF KNOWN QUALITY There are two classes of remedies: those of known quality and which are permanently beneficial in effect, acting gently, in harmony with nature, when nature needs assistance; and another class, composed of preparations of unknown, uncertain and inferior character, acting temporarily, but injuriously, as a result of forcing the natural functions unnecessarily. One of the most exceptional of the remedies of known quality and excellence is the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., which represents the active principles of plants, known to act most beneficially, in a pleasant syrup, in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to contribute their rich, yet delicate, fruity flavor. It is the remedy of all remedies to sweeten and refresh and cleanse the system gently and naturally, and to assist one in overcoming constipation and the many ills resulting therefrom. Its active principles and quality are known to physicians generally, and the remedy has therefore met with their approval, as well as with the favor of many millions of well informed persons who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual experience that it is a most excellent laxative remedy. We do not claim that it will cure all manner of ills, but recommend it for what it really represents, a laxative remedy of known quality and excellence, containing nothing of an objectionable or injurious character. There are two classes of purchasers: those who are informed as to the quality of what they buy and the reasons for the excellence of articles of exceptional merit, and who do not lack courage to go elsewhere when a dealer offers an imitation of any well known
