LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

THEATRE.—We learn that an excellent house assembled last evening to see the Purdy, Scott and Fostelle Minstrels, and that they were loudly applauded. This evening they appear again. For the little ones there will be a matinee to-morrow. They will no doubt be highly amused by the clever performances of the troupe.

LOST.—A few days since a poor woman named Elizabeth Davis, lost, somewhere between the Meat Market and the 15th Ward, a leather purse containing $15 15 in greenbacks. The finder will confer a favor on Mrs. Davis by leaving the same at this office.

RECOVERING.—Brother James Needham, who has been suffering for some time with a severe affection of the lungs, is now on a fair way for recovery, and it is expected he will be able to be around again in a few days.

THE JUDICIAL MUDDLE.—Judge McKean of Utah goes to Washington immediately to explain the muddle which has arisen from his decisions, which have brought about the difficulty relative to Court expenses. Some Congressmen have refused to appropriate a cent for these expenses without an explanation. The original cause of the difficulty grew out of the decision some time ago, by which the District Court of the Territory was held to be exclusively a United States Court, instead of a Territorial Court for Territorial business, and a United States Court for United States business—as it has always been considered in all the Territories. If it is exclusively a United States Court, of course the Territory has nothing to do with the payment of its expenses, and refused to pay them. As the expenses have always been divided, the accounting officers at Washington refused to pay them. Hence the trouble. Judge McKean made this decision in order to rule out of Court the Territorial Attorney General and Territorial Marshal, who were Mormons, holding that the United States Attorney and Marshal were alone entitled to act in summoning jurors and prosecuting indictments.—Carson Register.

A FANATIC.—A Salt Lake correspondent of the San Francisco Chronicle says, "We find a fanatic on the Supreme bench of Utah in the person of Judge McKean."

ERICSON SNOW PLOW.—It turns out that the dispatches received here with regard to the employment of the Ericson snow plow were mere fabrications. Mr. Ericson, in response to a dispatch from one of the officers of the U. P. road, took his plow to Ogden on Wednesday morning. On arriving there, however, intelligence was received from Wasatch that there was no snow on the road between Ogden and that point, that the blockade was virtually opened, and that, consequently, there was no use for the snow plow. Mr. Ericson was assured, however, that it would have a trial whenever an opportunity occurred.

THE TRAINS.—A Bitter Creek dispatch says no trains for the west have passed there up to 10 a.m., that two trains east from Green River have arrived at Bitter Creek. Trains coming west are expected about two p.m. They are west of all blockade and if they get to Bitter Creek this p.m. they should reach Ogden in the morning.

THE CONVENTION.—Next Monday the Constitutional Convention is expected to assemble in this city. The object of the Convention is to prepare a constitution and constitution with a view to the admission of Utah as a State in the Union, choose delegates to carry the same to Congress, and do all and everything that may be considered necessary or advisable upon such an important and popular occasion to further the purpose thereof, which purpose is to aid the natural and proper development of the community and to secure the full rights and privileges of American citizens to the members thereof, which they do not enjoy under the Territorial form of government and, so far as appears, they cannot enjoy except through a State government. The pettifogging and pitiful objections to the holding of the Convention, expressed by the Governor and also manifested by a small clique of Judases, political adventurers, and other ambitious, unscrupulous, and intriguing individuals, are scarcely worthy of notice, much less of serious comment. They are so very narrow, bigoted, illiberal, and mean, exhibiting such a corrupt desire to manipulate and control the public affairs of the Territory, contrary to the well known and emphatically expressed wishes of the people, and this in a country the fundamental political doctrine of which is the sovereignty of the people.

In the convention will be assembled delegates from every county in the Territory, who may fairly be presumed to understand the feelings and wishes of their constituents upon the important subject concerning which the delegates will be convened. The expression of the Convention may therefore be safely taken as the expression of the desires of the people, and as such it will have a rightful claim upon the respectful attention and careful consideration of Congress and the public at large, and the judicious action of the former body, the representations, or rather misrepresentations, of a small and heterogeneous minority of growling and whining malcontents to the contrary notwithstanding.

From our knowledge of the character and sentiments of the people at large throughout the Territory, we are satisfied that the Convention will adopt what we have termed a constitutional constitution, one that will be a credit and an honor to them, and one that Congress can not, with the least shadow of reason, reject upon its merits as a republican form of government. This is all that Congress can constitutionally require, and Congress is as much bound to act constitutionally as the people are.

We do not imagine for one moment that the Convention will knowingly stultify itself by adopting any provision that will involve unconstitutionality or the sacrifice of sound principle. There is sadly too much of that prevalent already in high places in the nation. It is the business and the glorious privilege of Utah to stand forth boldly and unflinchingly, even if singly, solitarily, and alone, and maintain inviolate the principles of the Federal constitution, the principles of freedom, the principles of civil, political, and religious liberty, the right and privilege of every man or woman to develop his or her own agency untrammelled, provided he or she do not infringe upon the rights of others, the right and privilege of every man to worship his God according to the dictates of his own conscience, if not interfering with the exercise of the same right and privilege by others.

The times are ripe for the spectacle of a great and noble people manfully defending and living up to the true principles of liberty. An ensample of this kind is greatly needed to act as a check to the very general corruption of the day, to allure the better natures of the people therefrom, to inspire them with renewed confidence in truth, honesty, honor, integrity, and to furnish a new and irrefragable demonstration that righteousness is the right foundation for true greatness and unfading honor.

GONE.—By the Corsican Brother of Feb. 14, we learn of the death of Mr. Patlip Lynch, of the Gold Hill News, the day previous, after an illness of several months. Says the Register—

"Those who knew him intimately regarded him as 'a square man,' honest and fair, possessing many virtues that the public at large scarcely gave him credit for."

A FIGHT.—C. A. Loomis, who keeps a saloon on East Temple Street, and a man who had been employed as bar tender by him, but whom he had lately discharged, entered into a fight on the street yesterday afternoon. Both parties were arrested and were instructed to appear before Justice Clinton this morning at 10 a. m. The ex-bar tender answered the summons, and was fined $10, but Loomis did not.

Mr. Loomis is one of the saloon keepers who are endeavoring to run their establishments in defiance of the city ordinances, by refusing to pay licence.

A BIG DIVIDEND.—A few days since the Moroni, Sanpete, Mercantile Co-operative Institution declared a dividend for the last six months, which amounted to eleven dollars on each share of twenty dollars. Notwithstanding this result, we are informed, by Brother John Kirkman, that goods have been sold there exactly at Salt Lake prices, although they had to be hauled such a long distance from this city. The large profits have arisen from the goods being sold for grain in Moroni and the shipping of the grain, in large quantities, to markets where it could be sold for a good price for gold.

In future the Co-operative Association there will probably modify the existing dividend by selling the goods still lower, or allowing a higher price to the people for their grain, and thus spread the benefits still further to non-share-holding consumers. The institution is the most commendable and useful which showers its benefits on the greatest number of people.

MISLAID.—A notice handed in yesterday afternoon, of the death of a man in the 10th Ward, was inadvertently mislaid. If furnished with another copy we will publish it.
