SENATE SESSION WAS ORATORICAL

At One Point It Closely Resembled Meeting of City Council.

WAS LOVE'S LABOR LOST

bebate Arose Over Experiment Farm. Investigation and Matter Rests Now Where It Was Before,

The staid, conservative state senate has at last done that for which it delights to think lightly of the lower source. It has forgotten that it is stald, that it is conservative, that debuting is had I run, and it has turned itself loose in open session for a "give-andisks" debate of a full hour's length. There was nothing to start the debate It was just one of those stampoded moments in which there is a general kicking over the traces and a trolle of wild assertion before the senators can find it practicable to settle down to helr usual decorum and move along besether as a happy family. Not for other as a happy family. Not for years has such a debate graced the chambers of the upper house. Senators who tired of the ennui of their cham-bers in the meantime have been siroll-Senatora bers in the incanouse when they wanted to encounter the real zephyrs of ora-

bry. But yesterday afternoon John Y. Smith said something. Then Senator Wilson said something. That caused Senator Badger to remember that he had an item or two he would like to express, and in rapid fire order, Sena-tors Hulaniski, Kuchler and Bullen were drawn into the vortex of debate.

LIKE A COUNCIL SESSION.

Few of the speeches were noticeable Few of the speeches were noticeable for their calmness. The subject in dis-pute was the matter of investigating the Central Utah Experiment farm, lo-cated near Lehl. President Gardner of the senate read a portion of the gov-emor's message referring to the need for this investigation, and asked to what committee it should be referred. Senator Wilson moved that a special contrittee be appointed to do the in-cestigating, since he said, some memvestigating, since he said, some mem-ber of a committee already in existber of a Committee arteady in selfish mo-tives. "For instance." he said, "if I was on that committee and saw a chance to move the farm into Wasatch county I might try to do so." John Y Smith then arose to remark that he thought Wilson's statement of the possibility of his working to get the farm into Wasatch county unfitted him for committee service. That brought Wilson to his feet on a question of personal privilege to deny the instituation. Hulaniski thought that the committee on public institutions would be the proper place to refer the matter. Bad-ger thought the committee on agriculand irrigation would be more aptwo and driggation would be more ap-propriate, and this brought forth an amendment to the Wilson motion, then a substitute to the motion, and then a substitute to the substitute. At this juncture Kuchler ontered the seld with a paragraph from the min-utes showing that the entire message of the governor had been referred to apprepriate committees, this matter in-ciuded, under the title of "all matters pertaining to the Agricultural college."

WERE NOT SATISFIED.

Badger and Wilson were not satisfied with the explanation of Kuchler and persisted in supporting Wilson's origin-al motion. Hulaniski was then brought with the his feet to read the two new memhers a lesson in "senatorial courtesy." He protested that lifting this matte marily from the committee already having it under consideration was an afront, a slap in the fact, and a bad arront, a shap in the thet, and a bas precedent. Badger arose to disagree with him, but on a final vote which was held after the debate had proceed-ed up hour. Badger and Wilson stood almost alone, while the rest of the senators stood with Hulaniski. The vot-bug left the matter where it had pre-viously been reposing—in the hands of e committee on public institutions. After the session was concluded, Dr. John A. Widtsoe of the Agricultural college was asked what the nature of the trouble was at the farm, and whether an extensive investigation was I don't anticipate that a serious condition will be developed." said Dr. Widtone. "I am responsible for the du-mand for investigation. I called the matter to the attention of the gover-sch, myself, and it is not because of so, myself, and it is not because the source of the lisat in one end of a row, for instance, may be in very different soil from a the in another part of the same row. I doubt if it will be necessary to move the farm far. We could get along very nicely with a strip of land farther up on the bench, using part of the present furm. That's all there is to the investi-sation matter." gation matter.

vide Complete Information.

Senator Sevy of Panguitch has figured it out that when he gets a tax notice on his property he would like at the same time to hear if this property has been sold for taxes in previous years. For that purpose he has in-troduced a bill in the senate providing that fay notices shall entry a woord of that tax notices shall carry a record of previous sales for taxes, when still un-redeemed. The bill is as follows: That section 2549 of the Compiled Laws of Utah, 1907, bc, and the same is hereby, amended to read as follows: "On or before the second Monday of May, the assessment book, together with the map book and statements, must be delivered to the county treas-

House is Divided in Sentiment Regarding it as a Hollday.

The fate of senate bill No. 2, by Badger, designating Lincoln's birthday as a legal holiday in this state, will be settled in the house seasion today. Yessection in the house season today, res-terday the measure came up on third reading and after an hour spent in oratory for and against the bill, the measure was defeated by a vote of 21 to 10, with ubsent 14. Representative Thormpson, who first voted in favor of the measure before the vote was one the measure, before the vote was an-nounced changed his vote to no, and then moved for a reconsideration of the neasure this afternoon. As several committees were absent visiting public institutions, the vote was not, in Mr. Thompson's estimation, a conclu-sive one, and for that reason he moved to reconsider, and the matter will again come up before the house for dermination today.

When the matter was brought up in its regular order, several house mem-bers took occasion to utter eulogies upon the geat man whom the bill sought to honor in the remembrance of binstitution of the remembrance of sought to honor in the remembrance of his natal day. Representatives Clegg, Murdock, Morris and Pope, while rev-ering Lincoln's memory, thought it would be burdening the statute books with too many holidays and form a bad precedent to place the 12th of February in the statutes as a state holiday. Representatives Archibald, H. A. Mc-Millin, E. C. Ashton, J. J. Cannon and others favored the passage of the bill,

Is it any reason, because a man can break a law either by taking a drink or taking other people's property, without being prosecuted, that we should coun-tenance saloons where drunkenness is encouraged or institutions for the train-ing of thieves? We are warmed by Mr. George "to stop the habit of treating." That is just what we think we can do most effectively by closing the sa-loon.

Is not the saloon built upon the very foundation of treats? Is not it an insti-tution where that "snake-in-the-beer" strong and secure there will be no loop holes in it.
