RUSSELL PLATTS

Nine-Year-Old Lad Killed by a Short Line Train.

STEPPED IN FRONT OF IT.

Was Struck by Engine Pilot and Killed Instantly Occurred Near Beck's Hot Springs.

Russell Platts, the 9-year-old son of Charles Platts, a bricklayer, residing on Seventh East near Calder's Park, was instantly killed by an Oregon Short Line engine yesterday afternoon near Beck's Hot Springs. The accident happened shortly after 4 o'clock and from all accounts it was due to the youngster stepping in front of the southbound passenger train while watching the Rio

Grande train approaching. Russell, in company with his brother David and several other boys, went out to Beck's yesterday afternoon for the pose of bathing in the pool out re. All the boys with the exception of ussell went into the water. The little walked on to the Rlo Grande track which parallels the Oregon Short Line at this point. As both trains approach-ed at racing speed Russell stepped off the Rlo Grande track onto the Short Line rails. His brother shouted to him and he saw his peril just as the train swooped down on him. He stumbled over the rall and the next instant the pilot struck his head and threw him ino the weeds about 20 feet distant. The skull was bad'y crushed, but otherwise body was not mutilated. The engineer, Abel Priest, saw the lad's canger and promptly reversed, but the distance was so short that it was impossible to avert the accident. The train stopped a few lengths beyond the place where the boy was struck and Brakeman William Wheeler picked up the little body and carried it tenderly baggage car. After the remains had been brought to the city the coro-ner was notified and the body removed to Evans' undertaking parlors. It was me time before the body was identiled when the sad news was imparted to the heartbroken parents by Dr. Wit-

Engineer Priest was greatly upset ver the lamentable accident, but apparently be promptly did all that lay power to save the boy from The distance was so short that the best engineer who ever held a lever could not have stopped the train in WEEKLY CROP BULLETIN. Plenty of Water and Crops Generally Doing Well.

Slightly cooler weather with an access of cloudiness prevailed during the week. Local thunderstorms were frequent on the 19th, 11th and 12th, severe in the mountains, but generally light in the valleys. Considered as a whole, the week was very favorable on growing crops, and all vegetation made

Fall wheat continues to bloom. The crop will generally be light, and in some localities can be considered almost a failure. Spring wheat and oats are looking well and the prospects continue promising. Some few correspondents report the stand of spring wheat as beig very uneven. Alfalfa continues to lossom, and cutting has now generally begun. Beet thinning is about completed, although still in progress in some localities. The crop presents a good appearance and the prospects are ing. Fruit, as a whole, is in fine condition and good yields are generally in-dicated. Corn is coming up, but its growth has been somewhat retarded by cool nights. Potatoes are up and looking well. Strawberries are ripenin and some are being marketed. Gar-den truck continues to do well and feed on the range is very good. Irrigation purposes is reported as being very plentiful over the entire section, the heavy showers in the mountains having materially increased the supply.

ENJOYABLE SONG RECITAL. That by Mrs. Martha Royle King and Pupils Much Appreciated.

The First Congregational church was rowded last evening by a fashionable and handsomely dressed audience in attendance on the song recital by Mrs. Martha Royle King and her pupils, Miss Edna Duncan, Miss Judith Evans and L. E. Speague. They were assisted by Prof. George E. Skelton with his violin, and Mrs. M. P. Leomis and Miss Evans ere the accompanists. The platform as profusely decorated with potted dings were such as would inspir performers to their best efforts. Prior the opening of the program, Mrs ing called attention to the fact that er pupils were beginners, and that ment of their work should proper sed on that understanding. EXERCISES AT ST. MARY'S ACADEMY

Excellent Program Rendered by Students This Morning.

CHOICE MUSICAL NUMBERS.

Graduation Medals and Diploma, Conferred by Father Kiely-Address By Right Rev. Lawrence Scanlan.

Graduation exercises were held at St. Mary's academy this morning with an excellent program by students of that institution. The graduates were the Mirses E. Clark, E. McDonald, J. Milier, M. McDonough, M. Nissler and M. Plumbof in the academic course and Miss E. Egan of the conservatory of music, who rendered an entransing air varie on "Home Sweet Home," composed by Aptommas, as a harp solo. The vocal class rendered a very pretty chorus, "Hymn of Faith," by Kremser, as the opening number, which was followed by essays by the Misses J. Miller and M. McDonough, the former having for her subject "Nature's Magic" and the latter the metrical theme of "The Gospel of Here and Now." Both papers gave evidence of very careful study. A poem, "Deus et Patria," by Miss M. Piumhof was much enjoyed and applauded for its parriotic sentiment. Miss N. Mehan, whose voice is a contraito of choice quality, siting 'Ora Pro Nobis," a song written in a weird minor key by Piccolomini, and was accompanied by two young ladies on the harp and violin. Miss Mahan's rendition of the piece was indeed charming and artistically sweet.

A very sensible essay on "An Uncommon Sense," was read by Miss E. Mc-Donald, whose cheerful treatment of the subject was such as to constitute one of (to: world's burden lifters, young lady's recommendation to enjoy and appreciate the humorous side things and the advisability for so do-ing was aptly accentuated in the assertion that even the stars have a cheerful twinkle. A waltz song by Miss M. Nissler was somewhat marred in the flatness of the accompanying violin. The song was very pretty and the young lady's voice is of entertaining quality and commend-able strength. A "Song of the Wasatch," was a poetic tribute to the giori atch, was a poetic tribute to the giori-ous mountains on the east side of the city, recited by Miss E. Clark. It won the listeners in that it was a song of love from a schoolgirl's heart for the grand hills and their mystical chang-es. Miss Egan displayed considerable technique by a close scale by Gougel
