OBITUARY.

By a telegraphic dispatch received from Ogden this morning we learn the sad intelligence that Mrs. Mary West, relict of the late Bishop C. W. West, of that city, departed this life at fifteen minutes past ten o'clock last evening. Sister West was with her husband in California during his last sickness and brought his remains home from San Francisco. Her own health was

We have no doubt that all that legal lore and sophistry can possibly do will be done in the present instance, to mulct the city in heavy damages; and with packed juries, and Judges notorlously prejudiced, whose every act and sentiment is in avowed hostility to the people, such a result is easily attainable.

Of the course that events may take in connection with this case we, of course, are utterly ignorant, and quite as ignorant of the line of policy that may be adopted by the authorities of the city. We are satisfied that their course up to this time in connection with the case, is strictly in accordance with the Constitutional law of the land; and we do hope that, rather than be over-ridden by the "ring," who are determined to break down law and order here, and to introduce riot, dissipation, lawlessness and all the other delightful concomitants of their bastard civilization, the matter will be tested before the highest legal tribunal of the land.

No better illustration can be given of the results that would follow the Prussians Repulsed in an attack triumph of the "ring" we have alluded to above, than the stabbing case, which occurred yesterday morning on Second VITRY South street, an account of which will be found elsewhere in to-day's paper. Such an affray is unprecedented in the history of Salt Lake City, for many years past, a result due, wholly, to the determination of the city authorities to prevent, or restrict the sale of in. toxicating liquors. But where the beaupublishes a statement that he is not an envoy from Spain to adjust the Cuban question, as reported, and that he does not bear an official capacity of any tiful system of modern civilization prevails in full blast such affrays are every-day occurrences, and would be kind. here if the regenerators could have their say and sway. A cable special to the Herald, dated London 27, says a letter from a corres-pondent at Rheims, on the 24th, says it is reported that Bazaine, with a por-tion of his army, is between Montmedy and Longivy, on the Belgian frontier, where he is awaiting the arrival of McMahon. The report is considered doubtful. If eternal vigilance is the price of liberty it is equally necessary to preserve peace and good order in a community. The experience of this people has proved, and is proving this continually. But to return to this case on Second South Street: Such an occurrence is a stain on the community, and a special diagrace to all the parties connected with it. Drinking and card playing would scarcely be permitted in any res-pectable place at any time, and least of all on Sunday morning.
