The Anti-Monopolists.

CHICAGO, 4.—About 250 delegates responded to the call for a national conference of anti-monopolists and held a session here to-day. It was found that the following States were represented: New Hampshire, New York, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Kansas, Colorado, Dakota, California, Missouri, Kentucky, and the District of Columbia.

Mr. Root on taking the chair after adverting to the call for the convention, said that the laboring classes of America wanted not free trade, but a tariff based upon equity and not one like that which for 30 years had kept up a mock show of protecting the people, while it has in reality been to them a cost of $400 000,000 yearly.

When California was reached, it was ascertained that the names of Kearney and Maybell had been omitted. The chairman of the committee explained that their credentials had been signed by a local meeting called by themselves, while five other delegates from California had credentials under a call issued for a convention. Supplementing his report the secretary of the convention read various letters and telegrams from anti-monopoly leagues in California denouncing Kearney as being in the employ of the railroads, and present at the convention in their interests. Mr Kearney was given an opportunity to make explanation, and reiterated his well-known views. He declared that cheap freight did not benefit the laboring classes. As the roads represented labor, he contended, that the roads should be allowed to charge for carrying freight simply according to the rates they paid their laborers. He denounced the anti-monopoly bodies of California which had repudiated him, and declared they had taken up the anti monopoly cry to screen their real purposes. The Convention by a strong majority vote adopted the report, excluding Kearney and Maybell, after which the former announced that he would organize a Convention of his own.

The committee on permanent organization reported in favor of John Henry of Brooklyn for permanent chairman, and C. C. Post of Indiana for secretary, and the report after considerable discussion was adopted. Mr. Henry spoke of the work accomplished by the Anti-Monopoly League in New York, and expressed the belief that a National organization of like character would result in bringing the monopolies of this country under the control of the people, and the convention adjourned to 8 o'clock.

The night session was devoted to speeches by delegates, and as the committee on platform failed to finish its work, the convention adjourned until to-morrow morning.

Chicago, 5.—Times editorial: Perhaps the most original of the anti-monopolists now assembled in Chicago is Mr. Denis Kearney, the great agitator of the San Francisco sand lots. He proposes to do it in a way that would hardly have occurred to a less active and original mind. He proposes to compel the railroads to charge high freights and fares. Who but he would have thought of that way of vanquishing the railroad monopoly? But he does not propose to stop there. Having compelled the roads to charge high prices for transportation, he would go a step further and compel them to pay high wages. His theory is that the matter of wages is largely controlled by what great corporations pay. If they are compelled to pay high wages, others would have to pay high wages also. But who would have to pay the high prices for transportation? Not the workingmen the genius [of the] sand lots assumes, but the middle men; that is to say, merchants and dealers. But what is to hinder them from putting the extra cost of transportation into the prices of their goods, and so taking out of their customers, the most of whom are working men. Mr. Kearney does not shed any light upon that question. Probably he would solve the difficulty by simple compulsion. If he can force railroad companies to pay high wages he can easily force merchants to sell at low prices, and even sell at a loss. But probably Mr. Kearney knows that the force plan will not work in either case. It looks as though he was in the pay of the railroad bosses of the Pacific Slope.

Chicago, 5.—The Anti-Monopoly Convention was called to order today shortly before 10 o'clock. Expressions of regret with reference to the disorderly proceedings yesterday were rife among the delegates, and many hopes were expressed that to-day's business would be more free from strife.

Chairman John J. Henry, of Brooklyn, at the opening of the conference, said that he had seen that the city newspapers had predicted a stormy time for to-day, with a possible break up and free fight before the close. It was the duty of the conference to let the newspapers and the world perceive that every one was here with a duty to perform, and not for tumult and disorder.

A communication from the anti-monopolists of Oregon was read by D. C. Post, secretary of the conference, regretting that no delegate from that region was able to attend the conference, and hoping that the conference would be conducted in a manner that would strike terror to the hearts of the officers of greedy and soulless corporations. Letters of a similar nature were received from the central office of the People's body New York, C. C. Carter, head of the monopoly movement in New Jersey, and others, and read, drawing forth heavy rounds of applause.

Pending the arrival of the report of the committee on platform, Mrs. Marion Todd of California addressed the convention. She regretted the small attendance, as the greatness of the object of the conference called for a much larger representation from every state in the Union.

The Anti-Monopoly party would yet issue a new Declaration of Independence; one that could not be ignored, one that should be memorable for ever and ever. The lady's remarks were enthusiastically applauded. Anderson, of Michigan, moved that a vote of the convention be taken on the formation of a new party. Mr. Barnes, of Nebraska, was perfectly willing to put his own views in abeyance to the purpose of harmony, and moved that every subject be dropped save the question of the suppression of all kinds of monopoly. A dozen delegates jumping simultaneously to their feet and wrestling for a chance to speak on the tariff question, the chair announced that the five minute rule for speeches would be rigidly enforced. Mr. Wolff, of New York, amidst cries of "sit down!" "shut up!" and "time!" implored the convention to leave the tariff alone and confide itself to anti-monopoly; it was suicide to drag in any other question.

Wm. Dodge, of the District of Columbia, made a speech directed at the railroad companies of the country, claiming they had robbed the people of 200,000,000 acres of the public domain.

In Congress Delamatyr, of Indiana, discussed the greenback question, and stated his belief that the country was ripe for the organization of a new party directed against monopolies. He declared that in a nation where the average salary of working people was $300 a year, and another class had incomes ranging from $100,000 to $1,000,000 annually, there was every prospect of a revolution.

Rev. Heber Newton and A. H. J. Dugarme, of New York, were admitted as delegates, after which the session adjourned to 2 o'clock.

The afternoon session was not entered upon till 3 o'clock.

Mr. Streeter, of Illinois, submitted the platform prepared by the committee, which advocated a postal telegraph system, the abolishment of the national banking system, the establishment of a graduated income tax and of the postal savings bank. It denounced gambling in the necessaries of life, the protection of the patent laws, and confining the taxation power of Congress to the assessing of a tax for the necessary expenses of the government only. Discussion followed upon various provisions of the platform.

The following officers were elected: President, John F. Henry, New York; Secretary, D. F. Silver, Indiana; Assistant Secretary, N. B Kellner, New York; Treasurer, Edwin Lee Brown, Illinois; vice president from each State. Adjourned.
