Garland, Boxelder county, July 26.— Garland did itself proud with Pioneer day celebration yesterday. The whole day's program from raising the stars and stripes to the grand display of fire works and the ball in the evening, was WAS great success and a surprise to many

The parade was half a mile long. Seventeen floats besides Indians, Pio-neer outfits, horsemen and clowns, etc., lined up at the sugar factory and paraded through the town gathering at the square near the bowery. Here the Pioneer outfits captured by A. H. Gleason formed in a circle as when traveling and camped for the night.

traveling and camped for the night. Over 600 people witnessed a sham at-iack by a band of 20 Indians. The cele-bration was a great lesson in history. Immediately after the fight the peo-ple repaired to the bowery where they were introduced to the only guest of honor, Mrs. Matilda Evans, a Pioneer formerly of Lehi, but now of our val-ley.

The Hon, Fred J. Holton of Brighani, was orator of the day and delivered an Excellent address. Following the oration was a lighter series of songs, music and poems, and from 2 p. m. until 4 p. m. was spent in foot and pony races. A fine game of ball was witnessed by 600 people on the factory field between the home team and Willard team. Willard won by a score of 12 to 2.

Only one accident occurred during the day and that is not serious. Mrs. Jean Bingham fell from a float, bruis-ing her-head and shoulders.

THE EGG INDUSTRY

IN CALIFORNIA.

The hills about Petaluma, California, are sprinkled over with little white houses, like the tents of au army, and about the houses are moving thousands of white specks, which on nearer ap-proach turn out to be White Leghorn hens; for this variety only has found acceptance with the Petaluma ranchmen, since they are looking not so much for market fowls as for egg-producers, and within 20 miles of this California town may be found, it is said, $00,000 of the single-combed White Leghorn, almost to the excluery. In Petaluma things are not done by guesswork, nor are they left to take care of themselves, for a delay in the line of feeding, for instance, may result in the diminution of the egg supply to the extent of several hundred eggs for a number of days succeeding I once asked a successful poultry ranchman, who owned some 3,000 ing hens, why it was that while he getting about 2,000 eggs a day, neighbor, with the same number in his flock, fed exactly the same ration, was getting a daily yield of nearly 500 eggs less. "I clean my houses once a week, and he every other week," was the re-

The colony plan of houses prevails everywhere, one house, 12x8, accom-modating 150 fowls, to every acre. There is no fencing, except around the dwelling house, barns and kale patch, but each group of hens knows and, in general, keeps to its own quarters. Houses for pullets are separated from those of the year-old hens by a greater distance. Each house is five feet high in front and rear, eight feet high at gable ends. There are no windows, the fowls being shut out all day, since the weather is observe wild. Kent from the weather is always mild. Kept from the roosts, poultry are more active, and like people are less liable to rheumaism. This advantage could be ob-ained elsewhere by building the coosting room separate from the nest tism. room and scratching shed. At Petalu-ma, near each roosting house (or group of three houses, if they are so grouped), a smaller laying house one-half the

The flooring, of inch stuff, runs lengthwise. A little lathing in each gable affords ventilation. The roosts joined together hang from wires, and sway a foot clear of the sides of the building—a protection from cats, skunks, and lice, The houses are usually arranged in

The houses are usually arranged in ivenues, say five to an avenue. A ranch of four avenues would thus consist of 20 houses, accommodating 3,00 sist of 20 houses, accommodating 3,000 hens. Along these avenues the wagon with the food and water is driven in the very early morning, before sunrise, in order that the hungriest hens, out first, will get the lion's share of the feed, and that all may get to having as early as possible. This feed consists first, of whole wheat, which is poured into wais proof clutted bases offer nrst, or whole wheat, which is pource into rain-proof slatted boxes, eight feet long, enough of it to last all day; and second, of crumbly mash, which is laid in V-shaped troughs with covers. No more mash is placed in each trough No more much is placed in each trough than what that particular lot of hens will eat in five minutes. They reckon on about 2½ oz. to each hen. A second round is made an hour later to distrib-fite any mash left over in the wagon or in any of the troughs. The soft feed consists of middlings, ground fresh bone or meat, green stuff (chiefly kale), and a little meat meal sait and cavenne and a little meat meal, salt and cayenne pepper. For 1,000 hens the proportion is as follows, varying somewhat with the sensors and the condition of the flock: 32 lb. of ground fresh bone two days in the week, or 24 lb. of minced fresh meat five days in the week, to-gether with f0 lb. of wheat middlings, gis, of dried meat meal, one small

The mash is warm but not hot when fed. The fresh meal and bone are supplied twice a week by special slaughter houses. It is kept from decay-ing her being account with a layer of ing by being covered with a layer o middlings.

The houses are cleaned once a week, and the roosts painted with carbozine f necessary, but there is practically to trouble with lice since the roosts way from wires, and a three-minute pray twice a year of a preparation alled fenoline is considered sufficient o destroy all germs. As for the health of the fowls, more care is taken with prevention than with cure. Standing pools are at once drained off after every rain. Apples, because of their acid, are kept from the bens with religious care. Any that fall during the night are gathered at daylight. Nor is any roosting on the trees permitted.

In raising chicks, incubators and brooders are used almost exclusively. A row of incubators with gasoline A row of inclusions with gasonic lamps will be run from one reservoir. The flames, and therefore the heat, remain constant, but it is not yet de-termined what effect, if any, the fumes of the gas have upon the life of the germs. If a ranchman has not a sufgerms. If a ranchman has not a suf-ficiently large equipment to hatch his new flock by the middle of March, he has the rest of his incubation done elsewhere. No fowls are kept beyond the second year. They are sold, as are the young cockerels, for what they will bring. Little attempt is made to fatten them, both because the Leghorn is not a meaty fowl, and because the entire attention of the Petaluma poul-trymen is given to the production of cggs. THE TWENTY-FOURTH.

Procession, Program and Festivity Mark Utah's Natal Day.

Special Correspondence,

Monroe, Sevier Co., July 26.-Pioneer day was loyally commemorated. The brass band was at the liberty pole at brass band was at the liberty pole at sunrise to salute old glory, and later headed the procession, which consisted of about a dozen floats, some old, some quaint and some of dazzling beauty. The queen of Utah, Uncle Sam, and Goddess of Liberty were prominent characters. As our commodious meet-inghouse was too small to accommodate the growds a platform and seals were inghouse was too small to accommodate the crowds a platform and seats were placed in the orchard of J. Charles Barney, where an appropriate program was rendered. A dance for the children was given from 2 to 4 p. m. A number of outdoor games entertained the peo-ple in the afternoon, and a crowded dance at night closed the joyous day's feasibilities. festivities.

Night Was Her Terror.

Night Was Her Terror. "I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Chas. Applegate, of Alex-andria, Ind..."and could hardly get any sieep. I had consumption so bad that if J walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but, when all other medicines failed, three $1.00 bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained 58 pounds." CENTERFIELD.

FREE FROM ALL CONTAGION.

Quarantine Lifted and Public Gatherings Are Resumed-S. S. Conference.

Special Correspondence. Centerfield, Sanpete county, July 27.-All public gatherings were stopped from May 22 to July 3. Orders being given on the 2nd that we were free to meet again. The Sunday school arranged to elebrate the Fourth and it was done

Most loyally. At the school election, Wm, H. Gribble, of Gunnison, succeeded Jas. P. Fjeldsted, as trustee and, at their meeting of organization, was elected clerk of the school board.

Pioneer day was celebrated here in a very commendable way, not a drunk to disturb the peace and all enjoyed them-selves in that which pleased them best. Our Sunday school conference will be held next Sunday, the fist inst. It is a postponment from May 29, and

July 17. We have had extremely hot days, but cool nights, and have fine prospects of good crops. The water supply is yet remarkably good.
