PLYMOUTH, 20 .- While a gang of 25 PLYMOUTH, 30.—While a gang of 25 convicts were at work here, one of the number threw a large stone at the solitary warden, and struck him on the head, inflicting a stunning blow. The entire gang then rushed for him. A "life convict" named Stevens outstripped the others, seized the warden's rifle and ammunition, and fired upon the advancing convicts, six of whom he seriously wounded. When the ammunition was exhausted, Stevens clabbed, five others with the rifle, and when assistance arrived he was completely exhausted. The details of the affair were promptly reported to completely exhausted. The details of the affair were promptly reported to the government, and the Home Secretary gave orders that Stevens be immediately released from prison and rewarded. When the good news was made known to Stevens he fainted.

SALT LAKE CITY, June 28, 1884. In your evening issue of June 27th, I noticed an article headed "Our District School Teachers." It attracted my special attention from the fact that the profession of the district school teacher is so seldom mentioned in our local papers, truly not so often as the importance of the profession demands. According to the latest statistical report, the teachers of our district schools number 401, and the children of the school age to be placed under their care number 45,908. So I think the labor placed upon as is worthly the candid consideration of our brightest minds. The school-room is that." Then the renowned Mr. Suiltvan was heartly hissed. Mitchell, who had ascended the platform meanwhile, came to the ropes and had his little says. He looked somewhat pale and thin and hislips were swollen and sore looking. The Englishman said: "I'm in no condition to spar myself. I have had it very bad with malaria. I don't think it would be fair to Mr. Sullivan to have the match, as I am not feeling pretty good to-night, and I came here to do the best I could. That is all there is in It."

The people cried "Shame" and alssed. One shouted, "Sullivan, you have lost your reputation," and made other deprecatory remarks, and then slowly and sadly left the building. It is estimated that $14,000 were taken in by the management, and that $2,000 covers all the expenses. So the Sullivan and Mitchell combination have $12,000 to divide as the result of their muchitalked of and extensively advertised combat. brightest minds. The school-room is the place for character building and the teacher is the builder. A great edu-cator says, "Put that you would have the State, into the school." Rememand so few middle-aged, and still fewer who had passed the meridian of life. So far as the laddles are concerned we all readily concede to the correctness of the writer's explanation; but regarding the sterner sex the proposition will admit of discussion. It is not my intention to act the part of a critic, and I hope the writer will pardon me for expressing a difference of opinion. It is true that many who enter the profession of teaching do not continue, and it is equally true that many who teach school, or keep school, have no idea of making it a profession, but merely a make-shift until something better offers an in-Washington, 30.—The President has directed that Brig. Gen. David G. Swaim, Judge Advocate General of the United States, and Lieut. Col. Albert P. Morrow, of the Sixth U. S. Cavalry, shall be brought to trial before a general court-martial, appointed to assemble at the city of Washington on September 10th. The following is the detail of the court: Maj. Gen. J. M. Schoffeld, Brig. Gen. A. H. Terry, Brig. Gen. W. B. Rochester, Brig. Gen. S. B. Holabird, Brig. Gen. Robert Murray, Brig. Gen. John Newton, C. H. Smith, Niveteenth Infantry; Col. L. Andrews, Twenty-eighth Infantry; Col. L. H. Bradley, Tweifth Infantry; Col. R. R. Ayers, Twenty-seventh Artillery; Col. E. S. Otis, Twenty-eighth Infantry; third Infantry, with Major A. W. Gardiner as Judge Advocate. until something better offers an in ducement.

Doubtless many who enter the profession of school teaching are progressive, but I do not believe that any of EXHAUST ALL THE RESOURCES gressive spirit prompts them to leave the once-loved labor and seek for some occupation that offers more room for advancement.

The article reads: "A teacher in common schools can only advance so far. In his first operations he is enthusiastic, but when maturity and experience are attained in that sphere stultification must ensue and the profession previously loved becomes distasteful and duties that were previously pleasant become an irrisome drudgery."

Is it possible that a common district school teacher ends and his labor becomes a drudg-ery? I answer, no. If he perfects his profession as an educator of the child in the primary school, in a whole life-time, he has accomplished more than the most progressive intellect of our age. The teacher loses interest and his labor is distasteful because he his labor is distasteful because he ceases to study his profession. If teaching be mere book reciting and routine work, then the information in the text book made for the child soon becomes old, and the teacher confined to it soon becomes tired of the mental food he is cramming into the minds of his rupils. The pupil becomes a mental dyspeptic. He is disgusted with the common school, and learning to him is such a drudgery that he hates books and school forever.

afford advancement and remedy the evil? I think not, if like some of the so-called graded schools of our Territory. Not that I am principal terms, the crank and the wheels of pretended education turn round and round, grinding out educa-ted (?) boys and girls as though the material used were of the same kind that the teacher of the primary a should have less skill than the or the intermediate or advanced de the intermediate or advanced department. I suppose in the graded system the thorough proficient and progressive teacher would be promoted to a higher grade. There lies the error. The primary school requires the best skill, the fliqst careful thought, and the despest mind. In support of this theory, I will refer you to the great educators Rousseau, Comenius, Pestadozal, Jactot, Froebel, Spencer, Mann, Payne, Parker, and many others. The Jesuits in their famous schools, when they found a teacher showing skill and knowledge in the higher classes, pramoted him to
