THE DESERET NEWS

1850 Christmas

Edition 1904

There dwelt apart, in kingdoms by fair seas
Two princesses in native regal state;
But oft to each, through desert silences
Came whispers of affinity and fate.
Then, once, a trumpet sounded—calling clear;—
And answering quickly, by the wasted land
They came with tread that burgeoned all its sere—
And in a deathless clasp struck hand in hand!
