The Sale Follows the Horse Show
In Madison Square Garden

MOVEMENT IS JUDICIOUS.

The Hamlin's Will Retire From Business—Champion Trotter "The Abbot" to Be Disposed of.

New York, Oct. 12.—Horse circles are stirred up over the news given out by the Fashio-Tipton Co. that the great racing stable of C. J. and H. Hamlin has been consigned to the Fashio-Tipton great ten days' sale that follows the horse show in Madison Square Garden. The reason for the breaking up of this stable is said to be due to a desire of C. J. Hamlin to retire from the business and

OLYMPIC CLUB GAMES.

Second Tie Between Roggen, Burns and Taylor.

San Francisco, Oct. 12.—The final games of the class B tournament at the Olympic club have been very closely contested. On Monday evening the regular schedule was completed and four of the contestants were tied for first place. The play of Rogers in a second tie between Rogers, Burns and Taylor. On Wednesday evening the three players tied again and still another tie resulted last evening. Tayequally well-known fighter, when I happened to speak of Jim Jeffries as 'the champion.'

"He's the worst case of champion that ever came down the pike," was the comment. "I can't stand for his being a genuine champion of America." "Why not?" I asked. "Didn't he win the title fairly and squarely?" "Oh, yes," was the response, "but he won fighting on the defensive, not like a champion. My idea of a champion is a fellow like John L. Sullivan, who made the pace from the fall of the flag and never let up till he did his man. See how Jeffries fought Sharkey. He never let alone for the first twenty rounds. Judging solely by the way the first twenty rounds were fought the sailor appeared to be the champion. No, I can't stand for Jeff as an ideal champion. If all the champions of the ring were judged by this standard, I fear but few of them would stand the test. I don't see any but a sentimental reason for requiring the holder of a championship to be the aggressor all through a fight."

JOHN L. ON FIGHTS.
Famous Pugilist Tells What Aught To Be—Protect the Public.

In an interview the other day John L. Sullivan, the veteran prize fighter, had the following to say about fights and fighters which will be read with interest:

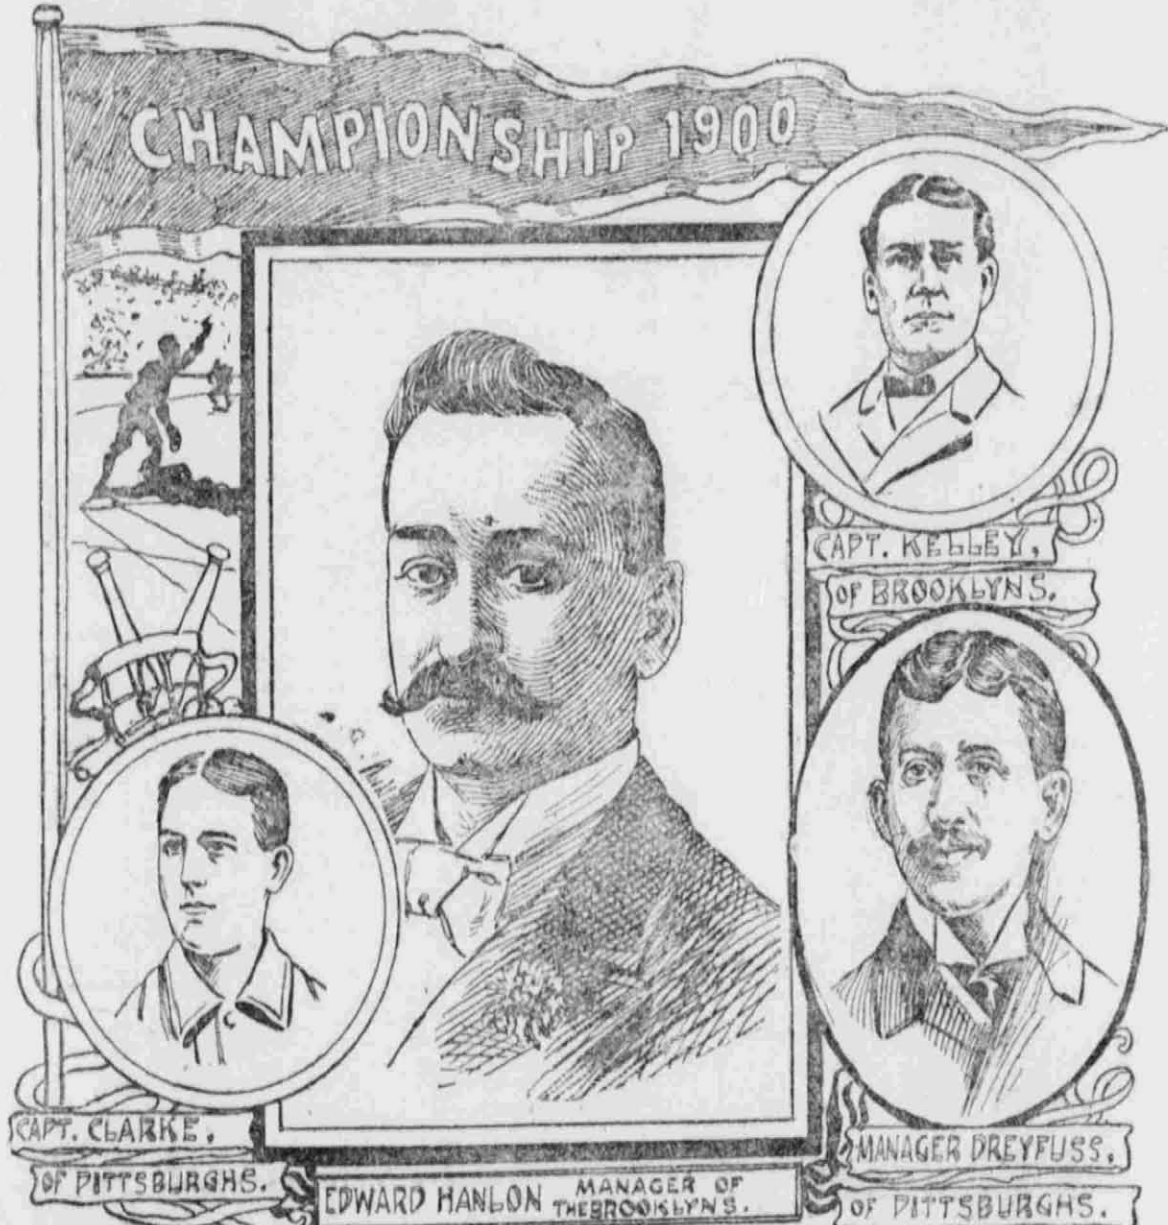

"I would put it in the power of the referee to stop a fight at any time he believes one man is whipped. I can't see what is the use of letting a man stay in the ring when his nose is smashed, his eyes closed, his ears torn and he doesn't know what he is doing. He's only a punching bag for his oppo-

CAPTAINS AND MANAGERS OF THE LEADING TEAMS IN THE PENNANT RACE.

The finish of the baseball pennant race of 1906 has been one of the most sensational on record. After the recent eastern trip of the Pittsburghs, during which they made such triumphant strides toward the top of the ladder, it was thought that they would surely win enough games on the home grounds and against western teams to win out easily. How different the case has been is a matter of history, and it has been nip and tuck between the Brooklyn and the Pirates ever since. The leaders have few games to play during the coming week, so that everything depends on this week's playing.

hand over to his two sons the entire breeding establishment. The sons, it is said, have decided that the enterprise is too big for them to conduct and they have thought best to sell out the entire racing stable. The movement is considered by horsemen to be a judicious one, as all of the horses are now in their zenith and will bring all the better prices.

The sale will be remarkable and most interesting to horsemen from the fact that the stable holds nearly all this year's great performers, including the champion trotter, The Abbott, 2:03 1/4; the world's record, made at Terre Haute, a few weeks ago, under the guidance of Ed Geers and a wagon record of 2:03 1/4, made a few days ago at Hartford.

Some of the other stars to be sold are Lord Derby, 2:07, who started this year without a record; The Monk, 2:08 1/4; Rex American, 2:14 1/4; Merriment, 2:14 1/4; Heir At Law, trotting record, 2:12, pacing record, 2:05 1/4; Equity, 2:12 1/4; Tudor Chimes, 2:13; Lasso, 2:13 1/4; The Earl, 2:17; Oxford Chimes, 2:16 and the great prize winning trotting mare Royal Chimes, bred by Chimes, out of Emily, 2:11, the latter mare a noted prize winner at Madison Square Garden.

NEW SHAMROCK COMING.

Statement That the New Challenger Will Be So Named Is Confirmed.

London, Oct. 11.—Further information regarding Sir Thomas Lipton's new challenge for the America's cup confirms the statement that the boat will be named Shamrock, and will be selected by a series of contests between the yacht Watson is designing and the old Shamrock, after the latter has undergone the improvements proposed by Fife. Both yachts will be kept fully manned by Sir Thomas Lipton and may cross the water together. The challenger will be commanded by a well known amateur yachtsman, whose name Sir Thomas does not wish to divulge at present. None of the old Shamrock's former captains will be employed in the coming races.

CANT STAND FOR JEFF.

Pugilist Manager Who "Has His Hammer Out" for the Champion.

Mason McCormick, the well-known pugilist scribe, has the following to say about Jeffries:

"Some people have queer ideas of a champion. I was talking the other day with a well-known manager of an ent under such conditions and the spectacle is a revolting one. He's a target that any blacksmith could hit, and I believe the referee should decide it then and there. I would not have more than one fight a week in any city. Of course, even at that rate it would be impossible to provide tip-toppers all the time to entertain the people. You couldn't have champions battling all the time, but you can get lots of good second-class men in all the weights who can put up a good enough contest to attract a crowd and give them a good show. It wouldn't be necessary always to have the men evenly matched. They could do as I did—let the champion offer a prize to any man who could stay with him for more than a certain number of rounds. I always had $1,000 up which said that I could stop any man in four rounds. I don't mind saying the present first-rounders shouldn't do the same thing. And, by the way, I think I was the only champion who ever did it. The result was I had to keep in pretty good condition the time for I didn't know but that some fellow would come along and win my job."

About the men who are in the top row of the present Jeffries is young and strong, and it doesn't seem to me as if he would be beaten soon if he takes good care of himself. Old Fitz is a wonderful fighter, there's no getting away from that fact. I don't believe that after this last thing Corbett will ever amount to much in the ring. As for McCoy, he is young and he's a good one if he is on the level, and it may be well able to state himself in the good graces of the public. The American people are good; they are willing to stand for some shabby treatment and are willing to forgive and forget. Nobody appreciates that fact more than myself. Many think Corbett ought to rank second because he made such a good showing with Jeffries. But you must remember that for a long time Jeffries helped to train Corbett; he was his punching bag, and so it was that Corbett knew all of his defects. And he was wise enough not to start right in fighting him, but to keep away for a time. Jeffries, I believe, would whip him much sooner now and he is improving all the time, while the other man is going back."

"I have been asked to write about the future of prize fighting or boxing. The sport has received a few hard blows in the solar plexus recently, and to discuss its future intelligently it will be necessary to consider some of these happenings. It cannot be denied that the revelations about the Corbett-McCoy fight are uppermost in the mind of the sporting public just now. Of course, they have been made public property by the talk of the two women. I want to say that in my opinion the fight between Corbett and McCoy was a barefaced robbery from that fact. I don't should not tolerate such proceedings. No man who loves to see a good fight should ever go again to see men who are willing to descend to such low trickery for the sake of a few dollars."

"Never in my long career did I hear a hint or a suggestion that I should throw a fight to an inferior man; I don't believe the man lived who would dare to come to me with such an infamous proposition. All who knew me knew they could do no business with me on such lines. Everybody knew I wanted to win, for that's all there was to it for me. I am getting my reward for it now. That is the reason the people of this country have such confidence in me today; that's why I stand so well with all who follow the sport and with thousands who never saw a fight and never expect to. They feel that I was always on the level—and I was."

Writing of Corbett reminds me that he and I fought for the biggest purse ever battled for. It was $25,000 and there was $10,000 up on each side. There was no division of the purse—the winner was to take all. I got a beating; that's all I got out of it. I sometimes wish I was fighting now, for with these clubs giving a percentage of the receipts a first-class man who is always ready to fight could make a barrel of money. But it's too late to think about that now; I've had my share of the glory and money and my time has gone. In ending I want again to say to all men who would make their living in the ring, "Play fair with the public, for it is the public that supports you. It's your bread and butter."

Challenge to All Hallows.

The Lowell High school, of San Francisco, has issued a challenge in the All Hallows for a football game. The challengers are willing to transport the home team to the coast for the privilege of bucking the pig skin with them or they will journey out here. The All Hallows manager has not yet decided which proposition to occupy but a game with the Californians is practically assured.

It is said that Geo. E. Chaffee has levanted with the receipts of last Monday night's benefit meet given for himself and Charles Pray who was injured on the track. Chaffee was made secretary and treasurer of the meet and Pray says he tendered him $15 but he would not accept it because he was entitled to one-half of the proceeds.

Devine Is Discharged.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 11.—The coroner's jury today investigated the death of Steve Flanagan, ex-champion bantam weight pugilist, who died last Saturday, following a boxing match the previous night. A verdict was rendered that Flanagan's death was due to over-exertion. James Devine, who was sparring with him at the time he became unconscious, was discharged from custody.

REMARKABLE BALLOONING.

The Centaure Sails from Paris to Kiew in Thirty-Six Hours.

The Distance Is 1,304 Miles as the Crow Flies—It Establishes a New Record.

New York, Oct. 12.—A dispatch to the Herald from Paris says:

The closing campaign in the exhibition balloon matches will live long in the history of aeronautics. One at least of the competitors has far outdistanced any previous officially recorded aerial voyage.

A telegram received at 1 o'clock this morning from the Piaro's correspondent in Kiew, Russia, announces the arrival of the balloon Centaure at a spot beyond that city.

Comte Henry de La Vaulx is the record breaker. He was accompanied on his journey by Comte Castillon de Saint Victor, who held the previous balloon record of 1,379 kilometres from Paris to Westwick.

The Kiew voyage took thirty-six hours. The Centaure appears to be a remarkably lucky balloon. It carried Comte Castillon de Saint Victor on his record journey and was also the balloon used by Comte de La Vaulx on his recent trip to Lochawek, in Russian Poland.

The distance of 1,379 kilometres is measured as the crow flies.

The distance between Paris and Kiew is 2,306 kilometres (1,434 miles).

Over the other five balloons in the contest from the fact that it was partially filled with hydrogen and could thus carry a much greater quantity of ballast.

A YOUTHFUL CRIMINAL.

Robs His Employer and Finally Forges Express Orders.

San Francisco, Oct. 12.—Bert Walte, eighteen years old, who was arrested at Upper Lake on Wednesday charged with forgery by the president of the First National bank of Berkeley, has confessed to having robbed the United States Express company, at Ravenna, Ohio. Early in August last Walte, who was acting as agent of the express company at Ravenna, absconded with over $4,000 in money and bank notes. Three days before his departure he withheld from delivery every package of value that came through his office. When he thought he had enough to took the train for the West and has since been the prey of sharps. Besides $4,000 in cash, Walte took with him a package of 1,999 five dollar currency notes of the Second National bank of Ravenna, consigned to that institution by the treasury department at Washington. The bills were in sheets and lacked the signatures of the president and cashier of the bank. He also took a money order book of the express company upon which he has raised $200 by forgery. He arrived here on September 14th and immediately began a career of dissipation. As his funds decreased he moved to Berkeley, where, with his remaining capital, he became half fellow with the university students. The money finally gave out and he was obliged to raise money on his book of express orders. One of these forged orders came back to the First National bank and led to his arrest.

Can Get Schreiner Any Time.

New York, Oct. 12.—The Times says that from a statement let drop by Samuel Schreiner, an attorney who represented the Elizabethport bank, William Schreiner, the defaulting clerk, is supposed to be not far from New York City. The detectives for the surety company, which is on the clerk's bond, and the Pinkerton detectives, who have been hunting for him, are supposed to be in the city. Mr. Schreiner, during the service of the replevin papers on Mrs. Hart, and others yesterday, stopped long enough to say: "We think we can lay our hands on Schreiner when we want him. We want to be sure though, that he will not kill himself and must proceed carefully. I will not say where we believe him to be, but he is not in Europe."

Health of Naval Force Good.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The report of Surgeon General Van Rensselaer of the navy says that a large proportion of the naval force for the past year has been employed on the Asiatic station, and considering the climatic conditions, the health of this squadron has been remarkably good. Those suffering from debilitating diseases are sent to the naval hospital at Yokohama, where, as a rule, they soon recover. At the time of the advance of the allies on Peking, temporary naval hospitals were established at Taku and at Tien Tsin. The men received at the hospital were transferred by the Solace. Advice from Guam report improved sanitary conditions. The surgeon general mentions, however, that there are fourteen cases of leprosy on the island, although the disease is not common and is not increasing.

In referring to the health conditions at the Annapolis naval academy, the surgeon general states that football was responsible for four fractures, one luxation, and several sprains and contusions; but the casualties from football have not been serious and have not involved much loss of time from academic work. The game has become so specialized, that it is played by only a small percentage of cadets, and therefore its benefits are confined to a few. Its disadvantages were represented during the year by 101 sick days and 115 additional days lost from drill.

Dr. Van Rensselaer calls attention to the good health of the navy and marine corps during the year.

ADMIRAL SAMPSON'S HEALTH.

Physical Condition Is Poor, But He Is Not Seriously Ill.

Boston, Oct. 12.—The Transcript prints the following regarding Rear Admiral William T. Sampson, commander of the Charleston navy yard, who returned from Washington today in company with a prominent naval surgeon:

"While the admiral is in very poor physical condition, his fellow officers at the yard say that he is not seriously ill. Ever since he came to Boston to take charge of the navy yard, Admiral Sampson's physical condition has been such as to cause his friends and relatives much anxiety. The admiral, said a fellow officer, is weak physically since his strenuous campaign during the Spanish war, but his immense store of will power will bring him through this sickness all right."

Report on Bible Societies.

New York, Oct. 11.—The Rev. Dr. William Haven and John Cox, secretaries of the American Bible society, have given out the following statement, regarding the results of a recent conference in the United States. They collected funds for the American Bible society and they also distribute its publications. In some places offices or stores, known as "depositories," are maintained, where Bibles are sold, or from which they are distributed. Some of these depositories are doing very little work and the conference approved a suggestion that where slight results are shown, such depositories should be abolished. This, and certain other resolutions passed, will be submitted to the American Bible society at its next annual meeting in May, 1907.

The secretaries say that there was no friction shown between the central society and the auxiliary bodies, as was intimated in a published report.

PAUL KRUGER'S PLANS.

He Bears Communication to Europe From the Boer Republics.

Grand Rapids Mich., Oct. 11.—P. L. Wessels, special commissioner from the South African republics to the United States today received a letter from Secretary DeBorja, of the Boer envoys now in Holland, containing the first reliable and definite information of the plans of President Kruger which has been made public.

The letter states that President Kruger will leave Delagoa bay on the Netherlands warship Gelderland early in October, and thus he has probably been embarked. He will be taken to Holland, where the envoys are awaiting him. At what port he would land Mr. Wessels did not state.

President Kruger bears a commendation from the Boer republics, but exactly what it is, not even the envoys know. They suppose, however, that he will endeavor to secure intervention by one or all of the European powers, to the end that the individuality of the republics shall not be annihilated.

Mr. Wessels, in his interview, also stated that the reports of large numbers of Boers emigrating to America were unfounded.

Came Near Dying.

"For three days and nights I suffered agony untold from an attack of cholera morbus brought on by eating cucumber," says Mr. E. Lowther, clerk of the district court, Centerville, Iowa. "I thought I should surely die, and tried a dozen different medicines but all to no purpose. I sent for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and three doses relieved me entirely. I went to sleep and did not awake for eight hours. On awakening a few hours ago I felt so gratified that the first work I do on going to the office is to write to the manufacturers of this remedy and offer them my grateful thanks and say, 'God bless you and the splendid medicine you make!'"
