

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS

MISS MARIAN CANNON.

THE so-called "sacred concert," as given on Sundays by the average American military concert band, is often the subject of respect among people who have respect for the character of the day, and of respect from others whose sense of humor is aroused by the flagrant contrast between the program title and the nature of its selections printed under it. This link suggests directly that the scores are based on some spiritual sentiment, as due to the character of the day on which the concert is given; when in fact they are as devoid of it as a telephone pole is of foliage. One's sense of consistency, or the eternal fitness of things, receives a shock at such a misuse of the English language, to say nothing of the violation of religious titles. It is enough to make the ghost of Beihard Grant White, author of "Men and Their Ideas," rise in outraged protestation. This ethical outrage is perpetuated sometimes from a well-intended deference, that might be called patriotic, to the Sabbath, and at other times to avoid possible legal complications were the concert advertised as other than "sacred" on the Lord's day.

This is given a fair sample of the present programs military concert bands have been playing Sundays in various sections of the country. The speaks to remain ahead for some time to come. She spent her summer vacation in the mountains of Switzerland with Miss Emma Lucy Gates, but is now back in Berlin pursuing her studies. She writes her father, George M. Cannon, that she is greatly benefited in health as the result of her vacation, and her picture certainly indicates it.

Dougal will sing and Spencer Clawson, Jr., play American compositions.

At Sunday afternoon's Y. M. C. A. meeting in Salt Lake, to be furnished by George C. Grosvenor, violinist; Irvin C. Larson, pianist, and C. J. Nettleton, baritone. Mr. Nettleton is in charge of the association music.

Claude J. Nettleton will sing one of Dudley Buck's compositions at the Sunday morning offertory in St. Paul's Episcopal church.

Dealers report quite a demand for operatic music in the general trade, while the teachers continue to order large lots of classical scores. One prominent local house has now in stock over 36,000 pieces of sheet music including overtures for eight hands.

A. W. York, the noted Grand Rapids manufacturer of band instruments is in town this week, when he was entertained in the local union.

Miss Angel, soprano at the First Scientist church has recovered her health, and is once more leading the singing, relieving A. J. Kisserburg, who substituted during Miss Angel's illness.

At Sunday's 11 o'clock service in the Catholic cathedral, Mrs. Hammer and Miss Erma Stewart, will sing Labouch's "Ave Maria" arranged for two sopranos, as well as the offertory, and Miss Stewart will also sing Dachauer's "Domine Deus" while George Sofie will sing a baritone solo.

Measures McLean, Weine and Best completed a short state concert circuit this week, taking in Nephi, Provo and Ogden. They report good audiences and an enthusiastic welcome.

The local music teachers, both vocal and instrumental are not complaining of dull times. One piano instructor, a lady, reports 50 pupils; and she is one of many.

Organist Tracy Cannon will play prior to Sunday morning's service in the First Congregational church, and "Andante" by Guilmant, and "Gregorian Impressions" by the same composer. The offertory will be Lemmens' "Prayer," and the postlude, by Rink.

Music for the First Methodist church tomorrow is as follows: "Wondrous Organ Prelude," anthem, "I Will Exalt Thee" (Leman) Mrs. Sorenson and choir; offertory, postlude.

The local music teachers, both vocal and instrumental are not complaining of dull times. One piano instructor, a lady, reports 50 pupils; and she is one of many.

Organist Tracy Cannon will play prior to Sunday morning's service in the First Congregational church, and "Andante" by Guilmant, and "Gregorian Impressions" by the same composer. The offertory will be Lemmens' "Prayer," and the postlude, by Rink.

Word comes from Denver that the International Opera company will disband in that city. The company is said to have sunk a tremendous amount on its western tour, and the Salt Lake engagement rather increased the depth of the trouble.

The friends of Miss Zora A. Shaw will be pleased to know that in addition to her vocal lessons under G. Mangus Schutte, she has taken up "Heavenly Love Abiding," (Meredith) Miss Schutte and choir; offertory, postlude, choir director Mrs. Wm. A. Wetzel.

Two weeks ago from Denver that the International Opera company will disband in that city. The company is said to have sunk a tremendous amount on its western tour, and the Salt Lake engagement rather increased the depth of the trouble.

Prof. F. H. Steiner has composed a setting song for the Mills College, Calif., and sent them the score.

The American Music Society is to hold its next meeting at the residence of Mr. C. G. Pomeroy, where Hugh

Rowland D. Williams, Baritone, Teacher, Director

Pupil of Wm. Courtney, Sig. Errani, Wilhelm H. Leib and Max Marzsk.

Mr. Rowland D. Williams received a great ovation when he sang "In Memoriam" in his honor. He responded with enthusiasm and applause.

It is the pleasure of our local musicians that Rowland D. Williams of Memphis, Tenn., is not a resident of this city. We heard him in a private function recently, and saw that Mr. Williams sang his heartily. In our meetings since—Caruso Correspondent.

Mr. Rowland D. Williams, no fancy-schmancy of Memphis, Tenn., and throughout the country, is one of the most popular denominations ever given a home at Chautauqua, after his song, "The Longshoreman." Mr. Williams is known by his friends as a thoroughly "good fellow," and a companionable gentleman, and he has made himself popular on this, his first visit, with Chautauqua audiences—N. T. Chautauqua Assembly.

dition of "The Young Rose," by Edna Roswell Park-Kellogg Correspondent. N. T. Musical Courier.

Rowland D. Williams appeared in the first performance of "The Young Rose," by Edna Roswell Park-Kellogg Correspondent. N. T. Musical Courier.

Rowland D. Williams appeared in the

Henry Miller Will Try Try Again in London

London Dramatic Letter

Special Correspondent.

LONDON, Oct. 3—I read in the last number of the New York Dramatic Mirror, just to hand, of "the triumph of 'The Great Divide'" at the Adelphi theater. Alas! the triumph is to be short lived, for I regret to say, the piece never really caught the fancy of the public and already arrangements are made to replace it, as soon as rehearsals permit, with Anna Kennedy's "The Servant in the House."

The production of William Vaughn Moody's play has, however, led to one good result; it has served to establish the fame of Henry Miller among us as an extremely fine actor. Two nights ago I dropped in upon him in his dressing room and found him gay and sprightly, and as genial as ever. Nor has he lost any of his kinship foring for London and London playgoers. So much is this the case that although he has several productions to make in America and no fewer than three companies on the road, he has decided to prolong his stay here and to play in "The Servant in the House." The role of the Servant for himself is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe. As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along. Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe. As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along. Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the House" has not been able to bring in the audience, and so far as I can learn, the season's best seller is that of Robert Smith sustained on your side by Tyrone Power. Sydney Valentine is to appear in Walter Hampden's role of Mansfield, "handsome" Jack Barnes will be the Bishop of Lancashire, and Edith Wynne Matthiessen the vicar's wife.

The inclusion of Valentine and Barnes in the Adelphi cast unmistakably indicates the speedy withdrawal of "Madame X" at the Globe.

As a matter of fact, business at that theater has been tolerably indifferent all along.

Even Lena Ashwell's superstitious in the first act of "The Servant in the