WHAT THE "RING" WANTS.

We really feel for the New York Herald. It is laboring under such anxiety of mind about affairs in this Territory. Its fears of a conflict between the United States and the "Mormon authorities" are aroused, and if such a conflict actually comes it entertains no question as to the way in which it will result. The leaders of the church seem to have lost, it thinks, all idea of policy. There is one remark which it makes that is very truthful: "A war is what their enemies in Congress most wish." We heartily agree with this; but the enemies whom a war would most please are not in Congress. There is a miserable, intriguing clique in this city the joy of whose members over a collision would be boundless. They would repeat the scene of Nero playing the fiddle while the conflagration of Rome, of which he was the cause, was raging, with this difference, they would be better pleased to have a few bottles of liquor to rejoice over than a fiddle. It is from this quarter that all the stories about the dreadful condition of affairs in Utah, which the Herald hears, emanate. In the absence of a real cause of trouble, they supply the want by manufacturing it. They thus hope to keep up excitement. Every incident, however trivial, which in other places would pass unnoticed, or at most excite but a passing remark, is tortured into an evidence of disloyalty and quoted to show the insecurity which prevails here and the extreme necessity of dealing harshly with the "Mormons."

The abatement of an unlicensed liquor saloon, which was kept running in defiance of all law and city regulations, is made to appear by this "ring," whose writers and telegraphists are more industrious at circulating lies than at earning an honest livelihood, to be a dreadful act; they desire the people outside to think that they, brave fellows, are living here on top of a slumbering "Mormon" volcano, which might explode any fine morning and send them across the Styx. They deceive a few with their falsehoods. Among others one of the writers on the Herald staff is misled by them. If he had visited Salt Lake City during these days of which he has heard reports, he would have better understood the tricks to which the "ring" of which we speak, resort; or if he would visit the city at any time, he would have his faith in their stories rudely shaken.

We sincerely thank the Herald for the sympathy which it expresses and the kind advice which it gives. But it should understand that the people here do nothing to provoke a war or a difficulty of any kind. If persons get into difficulty and have enemies, they are liable to get insulted in every community; but we do not boast when we say, they are less likely to be interrupted in Salt Lake City than any city on the continent. In proof of this we need only point to men who daily walk our streets undisturbed and uninterrupted. Had they outraged and sought the injury of any other community as they have of this, they would not have dared to show their faces in its midst again. None know this better than the men themselves who circulate these reports and talk about "the outrages of the Mormons."

NEW MINING REGION—THE RICHEST SPOT YET.

A New mining district has been discovered in Colorado. It is called the Grand Island district, and is situated about 20 miles from Central City, between the North and South Boulders, very near to the Snowy Range. The excitement over this new district is said to be nothing short of wonderful. People are rushing there from the surrounding country in large numbers, and the mining camps in that locality, which, a few weeks ago, were in a very flourishing condition now have the appearance of deserted towns. Old prospectors and miners from White Pine and the other districts in Nevada are said to be on the ground. We do not know whether Cottonwood has sent any representatives or not, but Sweetwater furnishes some miners, and numbers have turned in there, who were on their way to the new diggings in Arizona. It is said that the discoverers are now wealthy men; they have found "the richest mining regions ever known." Old White Miners say that there is more silver, and the ore is more valuable than anything known in Nevada. We should judge from the report which comes from there that it is a little ahead of Cottonwood, in this county, for wealth of mineral deposits.

Grand Island District possesses one characteristic common to mines generally—the miners are not getting much mineral at present, but they expect to get lots of it by the Spring. Each one who tells the story of the discovery indulges a little in exaggeration, till the richness of the region is so magnified that a listener would suppose that all the labor necessary to secure the precious metal, would be to pick it up and carry it away; but a view of the rough mountains where the silver deposits are said to be, soon dissipates such ideas. There will doubtless be a great deal of suffering in that quarter before Spring; for people, in their eagerness for wealth, rush in there without making proper provisions for the approaching winter. It is the old tale, oft told, over again—hundreds and thousands of men wandering as vagabonds from place to place spending their time in prospecting; and whenever they hear of a discovery of new diggings rushing off to them with the insane hope that they will catch the phantom which they have been pursuing for years.

A writer in the Chicago Tribune speaking of the condition of affairs there, says: "Many a poor fellow may be met, leading his little pack-mule, on whose back are all his worldly goods,—whose pockets could not stand the rapacious grasp of stage companies; out whose heart is cheered and encouraged on the way by the brightest visions of rich silver lodes and future wealth. How many will go away with disappointed hopes, sore hearts, and poorer fortunes than brought them here! Sometimes, as one looks upon the motley crowd, composed of every variety of men, representing nearly every nation, from the great, broad-shouldered, bushy-whiskered adventurer, who has seen the ups and downs of mining life a dozen times,—used either to success or adversity—to the beardless youth, whose brain is full of glistening castles in the air, whose experience in this rough life is just beginning, and to whom success means everything—it is very hard to repress the feeling of sadness that will come into the heart and make you wish many were not here who are."

In Chicago the deaf and dumb children, between the ages of six and twelve years, are being taught to speak and to understand what is spoken to them by distinguishing words from the motions of the speaker's lips. This is after the European system, it having been in use for a long series of years for that unfortunate class in many parts of Europe. The system has been recently adopted in the most prominent institutions in this country. It is founded upon the fact that speech, or articulation, is a mere mechanical process, the result of certain movements, identical in all individuals, of the lips, tongue, and other vocal organs. Through patient study and practice a deaf mute acquires the ability of comprehending these visible movements of the organs of speech—technically called lip-reading—with such precision and correctness that we can speak to him just as to persons endowed with the sense of hearing. The other part of the system is to enable the deaf mute to utter sounds himself, and this rests upon the fact that the above named movements of our vocal organs, while performing their office, are necessarily and indispensably accompanied by a more or less forcible emission of breath from the mouth, or a vibration of the throat and chest, caused by the training of certain muscles located in these parts of the body. Having once that idea conveyed to him, there is no reason why he should not be able to imitate sounds and speech, and learn his native tongue. He does not use it now, not on account of his vocal machinery being incapable of operation, but simply for the same reason that American children do not use the Chinese or any other foreign language, that is, because he never heard anything about it. His vocal organs being in quite a normal condition, it requires only to convey an idea of sound to him, and to give him knowledge of his faculty to imitate it.

A WRITER in the Christian Union, says that ministers make a great mistake in spending so much time upon their sermons, and so little on their people. The men who move audiences by their eloquence, grow less in number, he thinks, as education grows more universal. Oratory under such circumstances is less potent. Laymen, he says, generally like their ministers better than they do their sermons. A minister should know his people, and it is necessary for them to know him, and this gives the preacher moral power. The fact is, they want more of the power of God, and less confidence in man's wisdom.

Vice President Colfax's announcement of his purpose to retire from public life, upon the expiration of his present term of office, is declared by the New York Herald to be "all gammon of course." President Lincoln, it says, made the same announcement, apparently to have active opponents count without him in their operations. It asks:

"Is this the point with Colfax? He certainly cannot stand for the Presidency for the next term. Grant leaves no opportunity; and it may be that Colfax believes that four years of retirement would give him a good strategic position when the Presidency is discussed in 1876."

Martial law is practically enforced within the city.

The Uhlans are also at Provins and Troyes on Seine. The Prussian troops are at Carport, two of their corps, numbering 80,000 men, last night occupied a position on the Strasbourg highway, between Colomiers and Laferre.

The Americans residing in the suburbs of Paris are advised to remove to their houses and raise their national flag for protection.

Russia is more decided than ever in opposing the dismemberment of France and will propose a Congress to settle the terms of peace.

TOURS, 12.—Arrangements are being made here to receive the diplomatic body. The minister of foreign affairs has decided to remain in Paris; representatives of foreign governments also intend to stay some days longer. The people here are much impressed in favor of the American government, and anxiously await the arrival of Washington, that they may testify their gratitude for his prompt recognition of the republic. An imposing demonstration was made in Marseilles yesterday, in honor of the United States. Twenty thousand people assembled in front of the prefect's residence, and the city authorities, through Messieurs, presented an address to Milton M. Price, consul of the United States. Speeches were made, the bands played the national airs of America and France, and the immense crowd cheered with great enthusiasm the consul and the government of the United States.

no surprise, considering the close intimacy of Minister Bancroft and the Count Bismarck. It is denied, however, at Berlin, that Bancroft has made any representations in favor of mediation.

The Journal de St. Petersburg, in discussing the mission of Thiers to the neutral powers, hopes he is carrying home the conviction favorable to peace. To do so he must sacrifice many prejudicial ideas. He will then set France a great example and make his own influence more powerful than ever.

The American Consul at Havre has been saluted by a succession of enthusiastic demonstrations.

Very great excitement still prevails at Paris and other continental capitals, regarding American mediation.
