JUVENILE COURT LAW DEFINED

Judge Howell Says it Was Intended for the Salvation, Not Punishment of Minors.

ROSE ROLLEY CASE DECISION.

Whatever Their Derelictions or Crimes Juvenile Offenders Can Only Be Sent to Industrial School.

Ogden, Feb. 5.—Judge Howell has rendered an important opinion in the case of N. J. Harris, county attorney, against Municipal Judge J. D. Murphy, in which he upholds the defendant in refusing to hear the case of the state against Rose Rolley, a girl 17 years of age, who is charged with stealing $500 from N. O. Ogden company, Judge Murphy, before whom the complaint was sworn out against the girl, transferred the case to the juvenile court, for want of jurisdiction, because of her being under 18 years of age. The county attorney filed an application for a writ of mandamus to compel Judge Murphy to hold the preliminary examination of Miss Rolley. The decision of Judge Howell is sweeping in its effect, making it impossible to punish any juvenile under the age of 18 years without in the state of Utah for any crime, with a greater punishment than a commitment to the state industrial school, and that power alone is vested in the juvenile judge.

After reviewing the circumstances of the case at issue and the law, Judge Howell says: "The court is, therefore, driven to the conclusion that no court except the juvenile court has jurisdiction over Rose Rolley (it being admitted that she is under 18 years of age), though who is charged with grand larceny and that charged with committing a crime, and that the defendant, as a committing magistrate, could do but as he did—transfer the case against her to the juvenile court." And speaking of the purpose and scope of the juvenile court law, he quotes from a former decision, in which he says:

"Evidently the idea of the legislature was not to provide a special punishment for offenders against the law who are minors, but rather was it intended that such offender should escape the punishment which would be meted out to older offenders. The legislative intent was that instead of punishing minors who had violated the law, they should be saved from such punishment. The salvaging rather than the punishing of delinquent children might have been the title of the act." There are now confined in the county jail five or six boys charged with robbery and burglary, to which they have made most startling confessions of their bold criminal workings in Ogden. Most of them are under age, hence under the ruling of Judge Howell, their punishment can be meted out to them in confinement at the reform school until 21 years of age.

SPRINGVILLE.

SNOWLOAD DOES DAMAGE.

Light Plant Out of Commission—Teachers' Art Day.

Special Correspondence.

Springville, Feb. 4.—Heavy rains and snowfall in Hobbs-creek canyon have washed out a section of the electric power plant canal, which will throw the city in darkness for several days, while repairs are being made. The loss to the city will be upwards of $500.

There is more moisture in the earth than was ever known in the history of Springville before, from the late thaw of snow and rainfall of the past few days, and still it rains.

Sunday evening Prof. E. S. Hinkley of the B. V. U. Provo, addressed the M. L. Association of Springville, the Robinson Bros' quartet gave a number of selections, all of which were much appreciated.

TEACHERS' ART DAY.

Saturday, Feb. 2, Prof. Eastmond, art and manual training director, with a group of his decorating and art students, visited Springville schools, and left on the black boards of the Washington school some fine pieces of art with crayon; many teachers went south end of the county also joined in the visit and spent a pleasant day with the visitors and Springville, while the chicken dinner was served in the Second ward meetinghouse to the visitors and general public.

REUNIONS AND PICNIC.

Last week two grand reunions were held at the Reynolds hall, the Black Hawk Veterans with quite a number from different parts of the state joined in picnic and dance. The Halls also held a grand family reunion.

LEHI.

TRAILING SHEEP TO DESERT.

Tabernacle Choir Social—Lehi Wins Third Basketball Game.

Special Correspondence.

Lehi, Utah Co., Feb. 2.—Friday evening the third game of the Utah county high school basketball series was played between Lehi and Payson high schools in the Lehi city pavilion. Lehi won by a score of 28 to 13.

The Lehi team has received an offer from All Hallows college of Salt Lake City asking the local team to play a game with the All Hallows in Salt Lake, which is considered a high compliment.

The Heber Land & Livestock company, Ab and M. Smith and other sheepmen are moving their sheep from the Utah reservation through Lehi to the desert. They have had a hard time getting them through on account of so much snow in the mountains.

Enoch Russon, foreman at the factory, has resigned to go on a mission to England. The employees presented him with $25 as a token of good will.

The tabernacle choir had a most pleasant social at the American club rooms Thursday evening.

The infant child of A. E. Fox died today.

Mrs. N. G. Whipple is quite sick.

PARK CITY.

Funeral of Frank McPelin—Local Dramatics for S. S. Benefit.

Special Correspondence.

Park City, Summit Co., Feb. 1.—One of the largest funerals ever held in Park City was held yesterday, in the Catholic church, over the remains of Mr. Frank McPelin, who died Monday morning at his home, after a lingering illness of miners' consumption.

The D. S. Dramatic association is rehearsing under the direction of M. M. Duke for the purpose of giving a performance in the near future for the benefit of the Sunday school.

LAYTON.

RELIEF SOCIETY BALL.

For Benefit of New Meetinghouse Nets $500.—Morgan-Nalder Nuptials.

Special Correspondence.

Layton, Davis Co., Feb. 2.—Among the best buildings in Davis county is the unfinished Layton meetinghouse. The Relief society wants to see it completed and with this idea in view the society gave a party on the evening of Jan. 31, that netted the building fund close around $500. A good program was given, a bounteous lunch (not luncheon) was served and dancing was liberally indulged in. There were fully 500 present. A free dance was given the children the next afternoon.

MORGAN-NALDER NUPTIALS.

Miss Lizzie Morgan and Fred Nalder were married at the home of the bride's parents, Jan. 24. The reception was attended by about 200 friends and relatives.

The consolidated management gave a free dance in its new building last Monday night.
