WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The storm area has drifted slowly eastward during the past 24 hours and is now central over Huron, S. D. While it has apparently decreased considerably in intensity since yesterday morning, yet it had still energy enough to cause heavy general rains in the regions influenced by it. These districts include the Black Hills and Mississippi valleys, eastern slope of the Rocky mountains, and portions of the midland plateau region. Abilene reports the unusually large amount of 4.10 inches, while the rain at Brigham, Utah, was the heaviest in years. Temperatures and higher over the northern plateau and higher over the Mississippi valley.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

City Attorney T. L. Foote of Nephi is in the city today.

The real estate men will meet this evening at the Commercial club to perfect their organization of a real estate exchange.

Contractor Campbell has sent to San Francisco for an expert stone carver to work on the Federal building and the First Presbyterian church.

Warden Dow of the state prison continues to improve, and his ability to bear up under his serious disabilities is astonishing the local medical fraternity.

Local vehicle dealers report an excellent fall trade, but dealers in agricultural machinery report a singular dullness in trade. But about conference time a revival is expected.

People from Idaho report that colonization schemes will be pushed the coming winter and spring with more vigor than ever. The best and most substantial element of the middle western states end has a national reputation.

Valuable improvements are being made on the inside grounds of the state prison, which will make the place quite attractive. A fine cement walk has been laid from the front entrance to the street, and the former office has been remodeled into an attractive sitting room.

G. H. Adams, representative from Juab county is in town, just having come from Eureka. He was there when the holdup took place and heard the shot gun. Every man was badly frightened and the robbers secured between $300 and $400. No traces of them have as yet been discovered.

The board of education will hold a special session tomorrow evening to pass on the matter of making next Tuesday a holiday among the schools on account of the state fair and next Wednesday afternoon a holiday to cause the teachers to attend the State Teachers' association.

Real estate dealers report considerable doing in moderate and small realities, including transactions of $1,500 to $5,000. Small homes are being built all over the city, and on the east side in particular is this noticed, and in fact so many are going up on Ninth East street that in a few years the entire street will be built up from Seventh to Twelfth South streets.

The south continues to catch it in a rather way, and squirrels seems to be the only water bush over the southwest in particular, as the ground is inundated with one and a half inches an Sunday, and Monday there was an additional fall of .62 of an inch. Over two inches of rain in 48 hours are enough to put half the town under water, and set the Rio Grande to booming. Andromeda also got another dose, to the extent of .43 of an inch and southern Andromeda to the pretty well soaked by this time. Central Texas saw nearly an inch precipitation Monday.

The University club has a published a elegant year book for 1894, a convenient pocket size, green cloth covers and soft laid paper with edges, and large, readable and attractive type. The book contains a copy of the constitution, lists of presidents, vice presidents, secretaries and treasurers since the organization of the club, the various standing committees for the year with a roster of active, non-resident and honorary members of the club, and the deceased members.

The following gentlemen were elected members of the University club Monday night: Elmer L. Goshen, A. B., Northwestern University, 1894; Hugh Satterlee, B. A., Yale University, 1892; Lynne Fox Clinton, A. B., Leland

Old Cedar Tree Reveals an Interesting Inscription—Church Organizations Prosperous.

Special Correspondence.
EVANSTON, Wyo., Sept. 15.—Accompanied by President John M. Baxter and companions I left Manila, Untied States, on the 9th inst., and arrived about 30 miles to "Lone Tree," on Henry's Fork, in Sweetwater county, Wyo., where we according to appointment, held a meeting in the evening and organized a Sunday school with Harry Bullock as superintendent. Most of the ranchers on Henry's Fork are "Mormons" who left Provo, Utah, and other settlements and located on Henry's Fork, some of them 40 years ago. Many of their children have now grown to man and womanhood without knowing anything much about religion, as they have never had an ecclesiastical organization, excepting a Sunday school soon after its organization by the regulars in the community. We were thus told that on one occasion while said school was in session, a lot of drunken cowboys rode their horses right into the house in which the children were assembled, and cursed and swore like mad men. This, however, happened several years ago, and there are good reasons to hope for better things now, though the rough element still abounds in the locality. But there was a universal desire on the part of those who attended our meeting to try a Sunday school once more.

MOUNTAIN VIEW BRANCH.
The next day, Sept. 16, we continued our journey through the "bad lands" about 30 miles to Mountain View, on Smith's Fork, where we held a meeting according to appointment, and organized a Sunday school in the church with the following officers: James Chapman, president; Wm. A. Dammer, first counselor; Wm. Stringer, second counselor; Leonie Graham, third. A Primary association was also organized with Edith Graham as president; Jessie Edith first, and Jessie Tanner second counselor; Hannah Graham, secretary and treasurer. The organization of a Relief society was commenced by a Relief society as president. A Sunday school was to be held at the locality since Nov. 6, 1898. Nearly 40 families which hitherto have constituted a part of the Lyman ward, reside on and near Smith's Fork; and if the population continues to increase, as it has done the past few years, two fully organized wards in the near future are in plain sight here.

On the branch organization at Mountain View, we traveled about 11 miles via old Fort Bridger, Butt, a new branch, another outgrowth of the Lyman ward—where we held a meeting in the evening. The branch which consists of about 20 families living in a scattered condition near the historical Bridger Butt, and on the bank of Black's Fork, was organized Sept. 8, 1901, and is now presided over by Hans S. Jensen, formerly a resident of Salt Lake City.

NEW FLOURING MILL.
Last spring steps were taken to build a flouring mill in this locality for which purpose the Lyman Flouring Mill company was organized and incorporated with a capital stock of $10,000, most of which was subscribed for by the local branch. Mr. David Davidson is furnishing the machinery. The mill—a two-story frame building, just completed, the machinery will be put in once, and the mill is expected to be in working order in a few weeks. It is situated on Black's Fork, about 5 miles southwest of old Fort Bridger, and is the first mill ever built in this part of the country. When completed it will certainly prove a great blessing to the residents who hitherto have had to take their wheat to Echo, about 15 miles distant, to have it ground into flour.

SEVERE SNOWSTORM.
On the 11th we continued our journey and traveled about 18 miles to Spring Valley, where we held a well attended meeting in the evening. While traveling along the old pioneer road, we encountered one of the severest snowstorms that I have ever faced in the mountains. We were fully one and a half hours we were exposed to its fury, and as our benumbed limbs trembled us of the unpleasantness of our situation we, in turn, remembered the pioneers of Utah and those who followed in their footsteps with ox teams and handcarts before the railroad was built, not to forget my own experience in traveling the same road for a week. And so we sang, "Come, O Ye Saints, No Tell Nor Labor Day." All the saints, fully one and keeping pace with the blizzard. When Brother Joseph B. Martin, on our arrival in Spring Valley, ushered us into his warm and comfortable parlor we felt like blessing him for ever more.
