Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Patterson, corner Tenth South and Fourth East. A two-inch iron pipe that was loosened by workmen at the Western Union building yesterday afternoon fell from the third floor and plowed its way clear through to the cellar. If any one had been struck by it it would likely have destroyed his future usefulness.

The Chicago Drivers' Journal remarks: If some kind of a bill could be passed insuring the customer that he was getting good, fresh, pure butter when he paid for it the public would be more interested and more gratified than in putting a tax of 10 cents on butter.

Eugene Ray, the drummer representing B. K. Bloch Co., has returned from Price where he had the rare experience of being shot at. He said his assailant was a gambler from whom he had won $40, and at the point of the gun Ray had to hand it back. He says it was a clear case of hold-up.

Dun's Review says of business conditions in Salt Lake City: "Jobbers report a steady demand for seasonable and staple goods, but city retail trade is unsatisfactory. Holiday business hesitates and is tardy in opening. The movement of sugars and canned foods is in stronger demand for outward shipment. Active trading in leading commercial stocks is noted and prices are firm. A liberal demand for money is evident, and many remittances of paper are granted. Money continues plentiful for legitimate uses, and trade collections are improving."

ATTY-GENERAL'S OPINION.

In the Jones-Galbraith School Trustee Contest.

In response to a question submitted by the clerk of the Eighth school district of Davis county, asking whether Seth C. Jones or William L. Galbraith, or either of them, is one of the legal trustees of the district, Attorney General Bishop submits the following opinion: "If Jones failed to file his bond as trustee within twenty days after his election, he forfeited his right to the office, and a vacancy was created. The fact of Mr. Jones filing a retroactive bond four months after he was elected, does not re-establish his right to the office or fill the vacancy which legally existed, notwithstanding that Mr. Jones took the oath of office and acted as trustee during the four months prior to his filing the bond."

The opinion says further that if Jones executed a bond within twenty days of his election, which bond was approved by the county clerk, but was not formally filed, such would not invalidate Jones' qualifications; if, however, the bond had been executed and not approved, it would not be a legal qualification.

In regard to Galbraith, whom Jones was elected to succeed, the attorney general says that he would not hold over, but that the vacancy arising from Jones' failure to qualify should be filled by appointment by the two other trustees, and assuming that they appointed Galbraith and he duly and legally qualified, he would be the legally constituted trustee.

SCARLET FEVER.

Douglas Taylor, aged 6, at 975 east, Tenth South street, has scarlet fever, and the house was placed under quarantine today.

The residents on South Temple street, between Second and Third West, are worried because a scarlet fever flag at a rooming house is placed at the back door, when they think it should be at the front.

Core for Chronic Diarrhoea.

"About five years ago I was troubled with catarrh of the lower bowels," says C. T. Childs, 484 Dearborn Ave., Chicago, and although I consulted several eminent physicians who prescribed for me, I found their remedies failed to in any way relieve me, and the trouble almost became chronic. After suffering several months, I one day concluded to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and I began to use it. I was most agreeably surprised to find after taking two doses of the remedy that I was completely relieved of the disease that had cost me so much trouble and annoyance. I am thankful to say that I have not suffered from it since."

DREW A REVOLVER IN POST OFFICE.

J. H. Brown Causes a Lively Scattering at 10 This Morning.

WAS DISARMED BY JOE BUSH

Quarrel Early Today Between Three Men Brings Out Three Guns and No Bloodshed.

For the brief space of a few minutes, at about 10 o'clock this morning there were indications that the postoffice might be the scene of a bloody tragedy. Those who were present at the commencement of the trouble did not tarry to see the termination, but with an apparently insatiable desire for fresh air stamped for the door. Just when things looked as though they were coming to a focus the form of Joe Bush appeared upon the scene; walking up to the vociferous gentleman who had the center of the stage he calmly took his gun away from him and the olive branch of peace once more sported while the various employees of the postoffice crawled out from their sanctuaries.

The first intimation that the public had that anything was wrong was the meeting of three men on the corner of West Temple and Second South streets. They appeared to have a grievance and apparently they did not care who knew it. Compliments were exchanged, money matters were aired and highly garbled allusions arose on the chilly air. Then a fourth man joined the debate and walked onto the main floor of one door of the old Grande Western ticket office and out of the other. This laudable manoeuvre, however, was in vain, for five minutes later the trio met in the postoffice where they asked at the door for mail under the names of J. H. Brown and Joe Bush. Tom Furry, met, 'twas in a crowd. One gentleman called the other an offspring of a certain animal. The other gentleman responded with a right hook, and then there was no crowd.

The two Furies made a jump for Brown and found him in town as he thoughtfully placed a bunch of knuckles in the direction of Joseph. Then Brown chased the two men around the desks in the center of the lobby while one of them yelled "Look out he has got a gun." The spectators accordingly had pressing business elsewhere.

At this precise moment Joe Bush appeared on the scene, and going straight up to Brown, who by this time had pulled a gun out of his overcoat pocket, grabbed him by the wrist and took the weapon away from him. He then told the two Furies to clear out. They did. Brown, when questioned by a reporter, said that he did not care to talk about the matter beyond the fact that it was a case of two to one and that he had to protect himself. Finally he denied that there was a woman in the case and said that the trouble was over money matters. He said that he had furnished the transportation from Chicago to the two men and now they had arrived here they wanted more money. Brown claimed that they had lost his money at a faro game, then abused him and finally came to him in his room No. 21 at the Sanitarium furnished apartments this morning, before he was up, and started to kill him all kinds of things. He said that he jumped out of bed and cleared them out when they returned from their room across the hall with a couple of guns and offered to perforate their system. He claimed that this matter meeting was accidental but he had slipped a gun into his pocket in case of emergencies. An effort to locate the Furry brothers was fruitless. Brown asserts that they have already left the town and he will let the matter drop. In the meantime Joe Bush has the gun, which is of 38 caliber and loaded in every chamber. No arrests.

A DISSATISFIED BIDDER.

Hyman Harris Writes Letter to University Board of Regents.

When the University regents awarded to Henry Dinwoodey the contract for furnishing the inkblot for the new buildings they awakened the indignation of at least one other bidder. The dissatisfied man is Hyman Harris, head of the Harris Furniture company, who asserts that they have already left the town and he will let the matter drop. In the meantime Joe Bush has the gun, which is of 38 caliber and loaded in every chamber. No arrests.

for 5,330 yards, and he says the discrimination could not have been made on account of quality, as the grade of tile used asked for is manufactured by only one concern. Mr. Harris further says that the Dinwoodey bid leaves out two rooms, the kindergarten room in the normal building, and the professor's room. He says also that he expended $20 in preparing the bid, and incurred bill for that amount, because his was the lowest bid, and the regents gave no reason for rejecting it.
