RATES TO LOGAN.

O. S. L. Grants One and One-Fifth Fare to Summer School Students.

The rates on the railroad for students of the combined summer school at Logan, Utah—the first annual session of the Deseret Summer Institute—have been reduced by the Oregon Short Line railway to one and one-fifth of the fare one way for the round trip. The arrangement is that student purchases his ticket to Logan at the regular rate for one way, and needs no certificate of attendance at the institute till he is about to return home from Logan. Their presentation of certificate from the summer school, a rate of one-fifth the usual fare will be given for the return trip. Prof. Fraeger of the University of Chicago and Prof. Seaward of Stanford university, have just written to President Paul that they will start for Logan within a few days. The combined summer school will open here June 25, and there are prospects of a large attendance of teachers and others. A number are going from this city.

The brick men say that although there are very few building operations of any magnitude this season, there is about as much demand for brick as a year ago. This is owing to the usual number of small dwellings going up all over the city which consume a very large amount of building material without making any very great visible show.

Medals have been awarded these students at Rowland hall as follows: Bible study, Miss Charlotte Weeks; Bible study, Miss Cora Holt; neatness in care of music, Miss Lillian Zabriskie; neatness in care of room, Miss Margaret Sizer; primary scholarship medal, Miss Helen MacVichie; neatness in desk in grammar department, Miss Florence Clark.

President Joseph T. Kingsbury of the University of Utah in a communication to the "News" affirms that he was misquoted and did not say during the university commencement exercises that a graduate of the University of Utah could get a doctor's degree in one year in any university in America. What he did state was that graduates of the U. of U. had been placed on the same footing in Columbia university as graduates of that institution, getting their higher degrees in the same length of time.

The state university authorities are pleased with the proposition to introduce into the curriculum a course in finance and commerce. Arrangements are making for the course to cover commercial geography, financial history, American commerce and commercial relations, modern business methods, transportation, insurance and commercial law. The course is a new departure in the collegiate curriculum has only as yet been adopted at Yale, the University of California, Michigan and one or two other large institutions.

The case of the City vs. Ed L. Price, charged with violating the ordinance in relation to weights and measures, was tried before Judge DeLoach yesterday afternoon, and the conclusion of the arguments the court took the matter under advisement until next Tuesday.

James Norton, who for the past five years has been general foreman of the Oregon Short Line shops here, left yesterday for Evanston where he goes as division master mechanic with jurisdiction between Evanston and Ogden. In recognition of his services here and to celebrate the well deserved promotion, the employees of the shops here have presented Mr. Norton with a handsome solid gold watch suitable engraved. The presentation speech was made by J. J. Jeffrey on behalf of the employees who assembled. Mr. Norton was surprised and plainly exhibited emotion when responding to the good wishes of his friends.

A CLEVER IMITATION.

A certain Harlem man has two bright children. They are quick at imitation, and have a talent for making up games in which they cleverly burlesque their elders. A few days ago their mother found they were playing "doctor." The youngest child was the patient, with head wrapped in a towel, and the elder was the physician, with a silk hat and a cane. The mother, unseen by the little ones, listened at the doorway.

"I feel awful bad," said the patient, "We'll fix all that," said the doctor, brisely. "Lemme see your tongue."

"Hum! Hum! Coated," said the doctor, looking very grave indeed. Then, without a word of warning, the skilled physician hauled off and gave the patient a smart slap in the region of the ribs.

"Duch!" cried the sufferer.

"Duch! any pain there?" inquired the doctor.

"Yes," said the patient.

"I thought so," said the healer.

"How's the other?" said the patient, edging away.

"Thereupon the doctor produced a small bottle filled with bread pills and placed it on the table."

"Take one of these pills," he said, "dissolved in water, every 17 minutes, alter-milly."

"How long mus I take 'em?" groaned the patient.

"Till you're dead," said the doctor. "Good morning!"—New York Press.
