So many letters come to this department asking how to begin a search for genealogy that some detailed information will be given in this article; this being a continuation of two previous ones on the same subject.

Many inquirers go to the Church recorders, as also to the genealogical office, and they say, "Can you help me to get the genealogy of my father, John Jones?" IDAHO WEATHER FOR ONE WEEK

BOISE, June 11.-E. L. Wells, sec. tion director for Idaho, has issued the following summary of weather conditions in Idaho for the week:

Abnormally low temperature, heavy local precipitation. excessive cloudi-ness and light winds characterized the

"I don't know." "Did he die before you were born?" "No; I was about 5 years old when he died." "What year was you born?" "1850." "Then your father died about 1855. We will write that down. Do you know how old he was when he died?" "I think he was about 45." "Then we will write the statement that he was born about 1810. Now, what do you know hou di he was when he died?" "I think he was about 45." "Then we will write the statement that he was born about 1810. Now, what do you know about where he was born?" "It was in Bedford." "Where is Bedford?" "It is in England." Was that the name of the town; it was in Bedfordshire, somewhere." "Where were you born?" "In Woburn." Which Woburn?" "Wo-burn, Bedfordehire." "Then we will make the entry that your father was of Woburn. Bedfordshire, England." Thus, after much questioning, we are able to make a statement to the effect that her father's name was John Fos-ter Jones, born about 1810, of Woburn. that her father's name was John Fos-ter Jones, born about 1810, of Woburn, Bedfordshire, England, died about 1855; although she first informed us that all she knew was his name and that was John Jones.

We take our little memorandum pad, and write down every book referred to in the guide as having information about the Jones name or family. Bushess is a little dull at present, though there is considerable work in progress both of a public and private nature. Building is not so active as last year, due partially to the scaroity of insterial the Jones name of family. Next, we will ask for the book called "Surnames and the Homes of English Families." Here we read with interest all that is said about the Join's son, whose name was shortened into Jon's son, and then still shorter, Jon's, and Jones. We also note that the name is common to many of the English shires, as well as scat-tered all over the British Isles. But just now, we are enquiring for one Jones who was born in Bedfordshire's we will confine ourselves to the fami-lies in that section of country. Next we would ask for Burke's "Common-ers," his "Peerage," and his "Landed Gentry." Always keeping in mind that our researches are to be confined to the same county, we will extract carefully every item to be gleaned from these ponderous tomes in Bedfordshire's organities of Jones who have lived in Bed-rordshide. We may likely discover that the Jones in Bedfordshire origin-ally came from some other part of the country. In that case, we are justified in following up the family lines to its source. Meanwhile, we have taken all the names to be found in these books, have entered them carefully in the lead pencil note book, after th-pattern herein given. Next we will inquire if the society has the history of Bedfordshire in the library. The A few of the local townsmen are irying to organize a slock company for the purpose of building and equipping a theater, but to date their success has not been very marked. back to William the Conquerer, then comes the mother of John Jones, who was a Foster; and then the grandmother, and so on and on. Ah, but says one, there will be so much dupli-cation in this work. This is a stum-bling block to many otherwise earnest seekers. They fear if some one else searches for Jones, the work will be repeated. I once talked this over with President Anthon H. Lund; and his. answer to me on this subject was far-reaching, that I am still pondering on the thought. "What shall we do about this possible duplication?" I asked: "I fear that some of our names nave been duplicated more than once. His reply was that we should take every pains to avoid this, and, he added: "You do not trouble much if one, two or three elders visit a certain man or woman in order to convert that person. Nor do you think it time or means lost to duplicate missionary work for such a soul, once, twice or three times. If they receive the gospel, all feel well repaid. After all, it is much better to know that no one has been missed, better to do the work for one man two or three times than to leave out a man." From that day, 1 have felt at peace on this matter. We can afford to let the Lord sanctify our efforts when we have done the best we could. He knows, and He is also anxious that we shall waste neither time nor precious labors for the re-demption of the dead; so we may trust Him to take an interest in the matter, and not permit us to uselessly spend time and effort. He is aware when one hair of our head falls to the ground, so the Savior Himself dealared; will He not be fully aware about our important labors for His dead children? We may man or woman in order to convert that person. Nor do you think it time or means lost to duplicate missionary
