

JAPAN GETTING VERY BELLICOSE

Progressive Party Demands That
The Washington Government
Be Made Accountable.

AN APOLOGY AND INDEMNITY.

If Refused "The Only Way Open to Us
Is an Appeal to Arms"—Story of a Conspiracy.

Tokio, June 19. (Afternoon).—The fort council of the Progressives at a meeting today adopted a resolution, the substance of which was as follows:

"The anti-Japanese feeling upon the Pacific coast of the United States, especially in San Francisco, culminated in an assault upon Japanese trading places last month, constituting a most flagrant violation of the rights guaranteed by the treaty concluded upon an equal footing between the two nations."

"These anti-Japanese acts are not of a temporary nature, and the federal government at Washington must be held responsible for its failure to prevent such conduct."

"The attitude of our government toward that in Washington has so far been unsatisfactory to the nation, and it is necessary that proper steps should be taken by our government in order to maintain the national dignity and permanently insure the safety of the rights and property of our compatriots in America."

FOR AN APPEAL TO ARMS.

Tokio, June 9.—Viscount Tani, leader of the opposition in the house of peers and hero of the defense of Kumamoto in the Satsuma rebellion, is reported to have saluted the American

"The persecution of the Japanese in San Francisco is a most wicked act. Should diplomacy fail to bring about a satisfactory solution, the only way open to us is an appeal to arms. Our mind is firmly made up. It is certain that America will yield, for its people are morally commercial in their sentiments."

How much Viscount Tani represents public sentiment here is difficult to estimate at the present time.

TO DEMAND APOLOGY.

Washington, June 9.—That the Japanese of the Pacific coast and the Progressives, a radical party of Japan, have entered into an alliance, and has the earmarks of an international conspiracy, with the overthrow of the present ministry in Japan and the attainment of the cause in the immigration bill excluding Japanese coolie laborers, is now known. The ultimate object, was brought up authoritatively here today. The preliminary steps in this scheme, it is said, will be to induce the Tokio government to recall Viscount Aoki, the Japanese ambassador to the United States, and to demand an apology and indemnity from this government for the alleged acts of violence against Japanese subjects residing in San Francisco.

With this end in view, representatives of a faction hostile to the Sanjō ministry have been in Washington to consult with the Japanese ambassador and the Sanjō department officials regarding the objectionable clause in the immigration bill, the California school question and the recent riots in San Francisco. The report which they have sent to Tokio, it is alleged, will form the basis of a systematic campaign to bring about anti-American demonstrations in Japan to force Minister Hayashi, if possible, to demand indemnity and an apology on account of the Japanese disturbances in San Francisco.

These facts became known today for the first time when it was learned that the Japanese representative of the Seattle Japanese Society, Noda, a staff representative of the San Francisco Japanese society, and K. Kawakami, staff representative of the Yorozu (daily newspaper) of Tokio, came to Washington on April 21 and remained until May 12, during which they were negotiating with the Japanese ambassador and the Foreign Ministry on the Japanese immigration limitation law. This delegation failed in its purpose, and it is stated, after charging Ambassador Aoki with treachery to the Japanese of the Pacific coast, and with misrepresenting conditions to his home, took up residence in the Japanese Embassy, the personal representative of Count Okuma, who was awaiting their report in Seattle, with the request that he communicate with the anti-administration leaders in Tokio.

Mrs. Takahashi, Noda and Kawakami had an interview with the State Board on May 8. They then telephoned Yamaoka that they were dissatisfied with the attitude of the state department and urged the necessity of carrying the fight to Japan. Acting upon this suggestion, Yamaoka sailed for Japan on May 14, accompanied by Ito, and was welcomed out today by the return of the anti-administration agitation in the Japanese press, which has begun since his arrival in Tokio on May 28. It is also believed here that he prompted the deputation of Progressives to call on Foreign Minister Hayashi for an explanation of the government's appearance of a lack of efficiency in the presence of grave diplomatic questions with the United States.

The report which Yamaoka carried to the other statesman, it is believed here, is responsible for the attitude of the opposition newspapers in urging discrediting of Japanese national efforts to aid their countrymen in San Francisco, by forcing an apology from this government for the alleged insults growing out of the school question and the recent attack on the Japanese restaurants.

Yamaoka, who brought about the alliance with the Japanese of the Pacific coast, and one of the recognized leaders of the Progressives, a faction which was led by Tora Hoshi, formerly minister to the United States, who was assassinated after he

SECOND OF FIVE REASONS TREE TEA

There are two sorts of tea—early tea and late tea. The early is the best drinking
tea. TREE TEA is early tea.

IS EARLY TEA

IMPORTED BY
M. J. BRANDENSTEIN & CO.
SAN FRANCISCO

STEVE ADAMS MAY GIVE EVIDENCE

Man Who Orchard Says Was His
Partner in Crime Now on
Way to Boise.

LIGHT ON GREGORY MURDER.

Pinkerton Detective Who Became
Member of Western Federation of
Miners Will Go on Stand.

Boise, Idaho, June 2.—Steve Adams, another prisoner witness for the state in the case against W. D. Haywood, is now on his way to Boise, coming from the jail at Wallace, where he is held pending trial on the charge of murder. Adams, according to Harry Orchard, was the partner of the great assassin in many of the "bumping off" expeditions, successful and unsuccessful, to which Orchard also made confession. Adams also confesses last year that he forged the document when he faced the gallows. The confession is, however, sworn and in writing. It shows careful correction and interlineation in Adams' own handwriting. Astonishing though it may seem, those who have seen Adams' confession say it surpasses in clearness and completeness any handwriting of man hunting and murdering. The list of Adams' alleged victims is not as long as that with which Orchard credits himself, but this is said to be because Steve slant-hunted a single quarry, while Harry, to use his own words, "did not care whether he killed one man or 50," as he "felt at that time."

NEW LIGHT ON GREGORY MURDER.

Some new light has been thrown on the murder of Lyte Gregory in Denver. According to statements made by the police in Denver Orchard and Simpkins, or whoever his accomplice was, were responsible at the time of the murder. Bloodhounds tracked them to the yard behind Pettibone's store, where Orchard says he hid his guns, and that other evidence was discovered. The police were about to arrest the two men when orders came from some mysterious source that the men were not to be molested, and Orchard was allowed to walk out of jail.

A statement is said to have been made by Chief of Detectives Loomis of Denver, and Paul Gregory, a brother of the murdered man, has made a similar statement. It is likely that both will be called as witnesses and the mysterious order allowing Orchard to get away will be investigated.

IMPORTANT WITNESSES.

The arrival of witnesses is an interesting feature of the case. Men whose names have been connected with the history of the mining troubles and the bloodshed in Idaho and Colorado are seen continually on the streets, in the courtroom or hotel lobbies. Angus Scott, the son of a special trial that ran from Denver to Boise with Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone on, and which is generally called the kidnapping trip, and a dozen other men of that ilk are here and will participate in the trial as witnesses.

DETECTIVE WORK.

One of these, a Pinkerton detective, will testify that he has been a member of the Western Federation of Miners for some years and during that time he was president of a lodge. He, while not a member of the executive board, was in their confidence up to a certain point and at the same time was working regular reports to the detective agency.

"Fourth, the Japanese of the Pacific northwest are not opposed to Ambassador Aoki, nor have they accused him of treachery to Japanese interests. They have him to be the best equipped to handle the situation."

"Fifth, there is no disposition on our part to demand either apology or indemnity for whatever happened to our people in San Francisco."

"Sixth, we will continue to encourage trade relations between the two countries, believing that the best interests of both demand a continuance of such relations."

"Seventh, we are not and at no time expressed ourselves dissatisfied with the attitude of the state department in this matter."

TROLLEY CAR ACCIDENT.

Two Killed and Fifteen Hurt in One
In Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, June 9.—Two passengers, a man and a woman, were almost instantly killed and upward of 15 others were more or less seriously injured early this evening when a trolley car of the Los Angeles Railway company jumped the track while rounding a sharp curve at Colorado and Center streets and turned completely over. The car was going at high speed. The driver, Fred Cudgelton Burroughs, Grange Valley, Cal., and Fred Vent, Los Angeles, Jack Green, who had his back broken, is injured internally and died.

WRECK IN MONTANA.

Two Men Killed and Twelve Cars Are Demolished.

Great Falls, Mont., June 9.—By the wrecking of an eastbound freight train on the Montana Central near this place, twelve cars loaded with ore and sand were demolished.

Two hundred sheep were killed and Breckin Frank Pollock of this city was almost instantly killed. The wreck was caused by the breaking of a rail as the engine passed over.

The thirteenth car was the first to leave the track, while the last delayed 12 hours. Pollock leaves a wife. He had resigned several days ago, but was induced to remain at work on account of shortage of trainmen.

Woman's Nature

pectant so full of suffering, danger and fear that she looks forward to the critical hour with apprehension and dread.

Mother's Friend

Mother's Friend, by its penetrating and soothing properties, allays nausea, nervousness, and all unpleasant feelings, and prepares the system for the ordeal that she passes through the event safely and with but little suffering, as numbers have testified and said, "it is worth its weight in gold." $1.00 per bottle of druggists. Book containing valuable information mailed free.

THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

DESERET EVENING NEWS MONDAY JUNE 10 1907

STEVE ADAMS MAY GIVE EVIDENCE

Man Who Orchard Says Was His
Partner in Crime Now on
Way to Boise.

LIGHT ON GREGORY MURDER.

Pinkerton Detective Who Became
Member of Western Federation of
Miners Will Go on Stand.

Boise, Idaho, June 2.—Steve Adams, another prisoner witness for the state in the case against W. D. Haywood, is now on his way to Boise, coming from the jail at Wallace, where he is held pending trial on the charge of murder. Adams, according to Harry Orchard, was the partner of the great assassin in many of the "bumping off" expeditions, successful and unsuccessful, to which Orchard also made confession. Adams also confesses last year that he forged the document when he faced the gallows. The confession is, however, sworn and in writing. It shows careful correction and interlineation in Adams' own handwriting. Astonishing though it may seem, those who have seen Adams' confession say it surpasses in clearness and completeness any handwriting of man hunting and murdering. The list of Adams' alleged victims is not as long as that with which Orchard credits himself, but this is said to be because Steve slant-hunted a single quarry, while Harry, to use his own words, "did not care whether he killed one man or 50," as he "felt at that time."

New Light on Gregory Murder.

Steve Adams, another prisoner witness for the state in the case against W. D. Haywood, is now on his way to Boise, coming from the jail at Wallace, where he is held pending trial on the charge of murder. Adams, according to Harry Orchard, was the partner of the great assassin in many of the "bumping off" expeditions, successful and unsuccessful, to which Orchard also made confession. Adams also confesses last year that he forged the document when he faced the gallows. The confession is, however, sworn and in writing. It shows careful correction and interlineation in Adams' own handwriting. Astonishing though it may seem, those who have seen Adams' confession say it surpasses in clearness and completeness any handwriting of man hunting and murdering. The list of Adams' alleged victims is not as long as that with which Orchard credits himself, but this is said to be because Steve slant-hunted a single quarry, while Harry, to use his own words, "did not care whether he killed one man or 50," as he "felt at that time."

Steve Adams, another prisoner witness for the state in the case against W. D. Haywood, is now on his way to Boise, coming from the jail at Wallace, where he is held pending trial on the charge of murder. Adams, according to Harry Orchard, was the partner of the great assassin in many of the "bumping off" expeditions, successful and unsuccessful, to which Orchard also made confession. Adams also confesses last year that he forged the document when he faced the gallows. The confession is, however, sworn and in writing. It shows careful correction and interlineation in Adams' own handwriting. Astonishing though it may seem, those who have seen Adams' confession say it surpasses in clearness and completeness any handwriting of man hunting and murdering. The list of Adams' alleged victims is not as long as that with which Orchard credits himself, but this is said to be because Steve slant-hunted a single quarry, while Harry, to use his own words, "did not care whether he killed one man or 50," as he "felt at that time."

Steve Adams, another prisoner witness for the state in the case against W. D. Haywood, is now on his way to Boise, coming from the jail at Wallace, where he is held pending trial on the charge of murder. Adams, according to Harry Orchard, was the partner of the great assassin in many of the "bumping off" expeditions, successful and unsuccessful, to which Orchard also made confession. Adams also confesses last year that he forged the document when he faced the gallows. The confession is, however, sworn and in writing. It shows careful correction and interlineation in Adams' own handwriting. Astonishing though it may seem, those who have seen Adams' confession say it surpasses in clearness and completeness any handwriting of man hunting and murdering. The list of Adams' alleged victims is not as long as that with which Orchard credits himself, but this is said to be because Steve slant-hunted a single quarry, while Harry, to use his own words, "did not care whether he killed one man or 50," as he "felt at that time."

Steve Adams, another prisoner witness for the state in the case against W. D. Haywood, is now on his way to Boise, coming from the jail at Wallace, where he is held pending trial on the charge of murder. Adams, according to Harry Orchard, was the partner of the great assassin in many of the "bumping off" expeditions, successful and unsuccessful, to which Orchard also made confession. Adams also confesses last year that he forged the document when he faced the gallows. The confession is, however, sworn and in writing. It shows careful correction and interlineation in Adams' own handwriting. Astonishing though it may seem, those who have seen Adams' confession say it surpasses in clearness and completeness any handwriting of man hunting and murdering. The list of Adams' alleged victims is not as long as that with which Orchard credits himself, but this is said to be because Steve slant-hunted a single quarry, while Harry, to use his own words, "did not care whether he killed one man or 50," as he "felt at that time."

Steve Adams, another prisoner witness for the state in the case against W. D. Haywood, is now on his way to Boise, coming from the jail at Wallace, where he is held pending trial on the charge of murder. Adams, according to Harry Orchard, was the partner of the great assassin in many of the "bumping off" expeditions, successful and unsuccessful, to which Orchard also made confession. Adams also confesses last year that he forged the document when he faced the gallows. The confession is, however, sworn and in writing. It shows careful correction and interlineation in Adams' own handwriting. Astonishing though it may seem, those who have seen Adams' confession say it surpasses in clearness and completeness any handwriting of man hunting and murdering. The list of Adams' alleged victims is not as long as that with which Orchard credits himself, but this is said to be because Steve slant-hunted a single quarry, while Harry, to use his own words, "did not care whether he killed one man or 50," as he "felt at that time."

Steve Adams, another prisoner witness for the state in the case against W. D. Haywood, is now on his way to Boise, coming from the jail at Wallace, where he is held pending trial on the charge of murder. Adams, according to Harry Orchard, was the partner of the great assassin in many of the "bumping off" expeditions, successful and unsuccessful, to which Orchard also made confession. Adams also confesses last year that he forged the document when he faced the gallows. The confession is, however, sworn and in writing. It shows careful correction and interlineation in Adams' own handwriting. Astonishing though it may seem, those who have seen Adams' confession say it surpasses in clearness and completeness any handwriting of man hunting and murdering. The list of Adams' alleged victims is not as long as that with which Orchard credits himself, but this is said to be because Steve slant-hunted a single quarry, while Harry, to use his own words, "did not care whether he killed one man or 50," as he "felt at that time."

Steve Adams, another prisoner witness for the state in the case against W. D. Haywood, is now on his way to Boise, coming from the jail at Wallace, where he is held pending trial on the charge of murder. Adams, according to Harry Orchard, was the partner of the great assassin in many of the "bumping off" expeditions, successful and unsuccessful, to which Orchard also made confession. Adams also confesses last year that he forged the document when he faced the gallows. The confession is, however, sworn and in writing. It shows careful correction and interlineation in Adams' own handwriting. Astonishing though it may seem, those who have seen Adams' confession say it surpasses in clearness and completeness any handwriting of man hunting and murdering. The list of Adams' alleged victims is not as long as that with which Orchard credits himself, but this is said to be because Steve slant-hunted a single quarry, while Harry, to use his own words, "did not care whether he killed one man or 50," as he "felt at that time."

Steve Adams, another prisoner witness for the state in the case against W. D. Haywood, is now on his way to Boise, coming from the jail at Wallace, where he is held pending trial on the charge of murder. Adams, according to Harry Orchard, was the partner of the great assassin in many of the "bumping off" expeditions, successful and unsuccessful, to which Orchard also made confession. Adams also confesses last year that he forged the document when he faced the gallows. The confession is, however, sworn and in writing. It shows careful correction and interlineation in Adams' own handwriting. Astonishing though it may seem, those who have seen Adams' confession say it surpasses in clearness and completeness any handwriting of man hunting and murdering. The list of Adams' alleged victims is not as long as that with which Orchard credits himself, but this is said to be because Steve slant-hunted a single quarry, while Harry, to use his own words, "did not care whether he killed one man or 50," as he "felt at that time."

Steve Adams, another prisoner witness for the state in the case against W. D. Haywood, is now on his way to Boise, coming from the jail at Wallace, where he is held pending trial on the charge of murder. Adams, according to Harry Orchard, was the partner of the great assassin in many of the "bumping off" expeditions, successful and unsuccessful, to which Orchard also made confession. Adams also confesses last year that he forged the document when he faced the gallows. The confession is, however, sworn and in writing. It shows careful correction and interlineation in Adams' own handwriting. Astonishing though it may seem, those who have seen Adams' confession say it surpasses in clearness and completeness any handwriting of man hunting and murdering. The list of Adams' alleged victims is not as long as that with which Orchard credits himself, but this is said to be because Steve slant-hunted a single quarry, while Harry, to use his own words, "did not care whether he killed one man or 50," as he "felt at that time."

Steve Adams, another prisoner witness for the state in the case against W. D. Haywood, is now on his way to Boise, coming from the jail at Wallace, where he is held pending trial on the charge of murder. Adams, according to Harry Orchard, was the partner of the great assassin in many of the "bumping off" expeditions, successful and unsuccessful, to which Orchard also made confession. Adams also confesses last year that he forged the document when he faced the gallows. The confession is, however, sworn and in writing. It shows careful correction and interlineation in Adams' own handwriting. Astonishing though it may seem, those who have seen Adams' confession say it surpasses in clearness and completeness any handwriting of man hunting and murdering. The list of Adams' alleged victims is not as long as that with which Orchard credits himself, but this is said to be because Steve slant-hunted a single quarry, while Harry, to use his own words, "did not care whether he killed one man or 50," as he "felt at that time."

Steve Adams, another prisoner witness for the state in the case against W. D. Haywood, is now on his way to Boise, coming from the jail at Wallace, where he is held pending trial on the charge of murder. Adams, according to Harry Orchard, was the partner of the great assassin in many of the "bumping off" expeditions, successful and unsuccessful, to which Orchard also made confession. Adams also confesses last year that he forged the document when he faced the gallows. The confession is, however, sworn and in writing. It shows careful correction and interlineation in Adams' own handwriting. Astonishing though it may seem, those who have seen Adams' confession say it surpasses in clearness and completeness any handwriting of man hunting and murdering. The list of Adams' alleged victims is not as long as that with which Orchard credits himself, but this is said to be because Steve slant-hunted a single quarry, while Harry, to use his own words, "did not care whether he killed one man or 50," as he "felt at that time."

Steve Adams, another prisoner witness for the state in the case against W. D. Haywood, is now on his way to Boise, coming from the jail at Wallace, where he is held pending trial on the charge of murder. Adams, according to Harry Orchard, was the partner of the great assassin in many of the "bumping off" expeditions, successful and unsuccessful, to which Orchard also made confession. Adams also confesses last year that he forged the document when he faced the gallows. The confession is, however, sworn and in writing. It shows careful correction and interlineation in Adams' own handwriting. Astonishing though it may seem, those who have seen Adams' confession say it surpasses in clearness and completeness any handwriting of man hunting and murdering. The list of Adams' alleged victims is not as long as that with which Orchard credits himself, but this is said to be because Steve slant-hunted a single quarry, while Harry, to use