PRESBYTERIANISM.

The Presbyterian General Assembly Addressed by President Roberts.

A MORAL POINTED AND A TALE ADORNED.

Senator Teller Continues His Argument Against the Silver Bill.

MEETING OF STOCK BREEDERS IN CHICAGO.

The Pope Issues a Circular Letter.—Railroad Accident in Montana.

By Telegraph to the NEWS.

THE PRESBYTERIANS.

President Roberts, of Lake Forrest (Ills.) University, Delivers an Address.

SARATOGA, May 15.—The Presbyterian general assembly met here today.

President Roberts of the Lake Forrest (Ills.) University, the retiring moderator, delivered an address on "The privileges and consequent obligations of the Presbyterian Church," etc., at length. His reference to the absorbing topic of revision was in enumerating the special privileges of the church. Among these, he said, was a clear-cut, strong and Scriptural creed. Notwithstanding the few objectionable passages, the alleged incorrect interpretation of Scripture and the questionable philosophy of two or three paragraphs in our standard, they are a marvel of skill and didactic acumen. They have been classed among the best specimens extant of clear thought and cogent reasoning. They were prepared in troublous times for the purpose of uniting in one church all the Christians of Great Britain and Ireland. Every paragraph was heated in the fires of controversy and forged into bars of gold, not only by the best theologians of the church, but by the best statesmen, also of both houses of Parliament.

"The shorter catechism has been pronounced by many who have had no sympathy with its doctrines as of scriptural truths the world has ever seen. The standards are not only clear-cut, but exceedingly strong. They are based largely on God's sovereignty. It is no such sovereignty, however, as implies arbitrariness or injustice, but such as abases the proud and encourages the lowly.

"It is loudly proclaimed in these days that the doctrines of our standards are destitute of the breathings of God's love. This is largely true. The tender phase of the divine character is not so clearly set forth as it ought to be in this age. But it must not be forgotten that the church has been undergoing a process of evolution from her infantile days to the present time. Grace and truth came by Jesus Christ, but those lovely qualities could have come only after the way had been prepared for them by the sterner qualities of the law which came by Moses.

"The strong truths of our Calvinistic creed are not to be looked upon, therefore, as monstrosities, but as necessary antecedents to milder and more lovable doctrines. These doctrines have been drawn out of God's word in such a way as to forbid the making of any essential changes in them without doing violence to that word."

AMONG THE OTHER PRIVILEGES

of the church enumerated and dilated upon were a government more in keeping with the teachings of Scripture than that of any other branch of the church; championship in the cause of education; superior missionary appliances, and conceded wealth.

On this latter point, Dr. Roberts said in part: "It may seem doubtful at first sight whether riches can be regarded as one of the privileges of a church of Christ. In themselves considered, they cannot be an indication of moral power or usefulness. Nevertheless, they do acquire, according to the best known principles of ethics, morality, as well as strength, when viewed as a trust for God's glory and the good of the world. It is often alleged that our church owns and controls more money than any other in our land. One of the congregations in New York city is said to possess more than a hundred millions of dollars. The Presbyterians of Chicago have under their control, and in private possession, three hundred millions of dollars. This is a fair sample of what is to be found in other communities, east and west. It is certainly a great privilege to be entrusted with so much of the Lord's money, if we have grace to use it as good and faithful servants."

DR. ROBERTS ADDED

that the obligations arising from these privileges come under the text: "Unto whomsoever much is given, of him should much be required," and spoke at great length on the duty of the church. Following are some of his points: "There is an evident looseness, not only in admitting men into our ministry, but also in giving church sessions unlimited license to supply their own pulpits. In many congregations ministers are hired by the year, like a clock. The community in which they live regard them not as permanent factors in their social or religious life. The value of the permanent pastorate is beyond all commutation.

"Not a few of our vacant churches are allowed to be overran by professional candidates. Our worthy ministers are frequently set aside by men who are after the loaves and fishes. They have a few flashy discourse that please the ears of the people, but when they are delivered they have nothing left worth listening to. Under this practice piety languishes, actively ceases and Christian benevolence is left uncultivated.

"The presbyteries must watch with greater care the entrance into her ministry. The number of candidates who reject some of the fundamental is said to be on the increase. At the present rate of increase the doctrinal statutes of our church will certainly be impaired. If the growing laxity goes on, a loud cry will presently be raised for a creed that will bind no minister to a specific system of belief. The presbyteries should exercise more vigilance in the direction of preserving a soundness of faith in our ministers and elders.

"The Presbyterian Church is called upon to conserve the educational institutions she has been largely the means of establishing, and to add to their numbers as circumstances may demand. The public school system has become the bulwark and glory of our nation, but of late it has become an object of assault by the Romish clergy. The high officials of that politico-religious system are bent on destroying or controling it. The church we represent is in duty bound to meet these enemies of our common schools. They should, and probably can be, improved in certain particulars, but the system in its main features and fundamental principle must be upheld at the cost, if needs be, of blood and treasure.

The perpetuation of our free institutions depends upon the virtue and homogeneousness of our nation, but this without the moulding influence of Christianity. The Romanist must be brought to accept our common schools; the Mormon to practice monogamy; the Indian to worship the only true and living God; the Chinaman to adopt the principles of Christian religion, and the anarchist to keep the Sabbath and honor the eternal principles of God's work. The alarming condition of portions of our country calls for still greater vigilance and effort upon the part of the church. Even New England, which in many respects is the most favored part of our country, is threatened by an avalanche of two millions a month. If it were proposed to restore silver, it would have to be given its full money functions. There were at least nine men in the world calling for silver as against one man calling for gold. There were not more than 125,000,000 of people that preferred gold. Silver was the chief money. Silver was better adapted for use as money than gold. While he was himself a bi-metallist, if there was to be only one money standard, he would welcome the silver basis in the interest of his race and of the people of this country, and the sooner it was reached the better for American industry; the better for commerce; the better for trade; the better for everything.

HOAR INQUIRED

whether, even without the demonetization of silver in 1873, its price would not have fallen.

Teller replied that when silver was demonetized a silver dollar was worth intrinsically a dollar and three cents and a fraction. There was nothing at that time to indicate that silver was going to fall. There had been an increased product in the world, reaching to $18,000, but there had been no suggestion in the public prints of the world that there was any danger of an over-production of silver. If the United States had remained on a double standard, and if the demonetization of silver in Germany had brought down the price of silver, and if the Latin Union had restricted silver on account of the German silver on the market, the mints of the United States would have been opened immediately to the coinage of silver, and every silver owner could have taken his silver to the mint and had it converted into legal tender money, against which there was then, at least, no prejudice anywhere.

The question now before the Senate was one of vital interest to the people. It was a question as to whether the people of the United States were to continue in advancement or at a stand-till. It was a question as to whether the continual coupling of price for fifteen years was to continue, to the enslavement of men, to the destruction of enterprises, and to the special destruction of the debtor class—the greatest and most numerous class in this country and in all other countries.

There is in this body

who believe that there is a righteous and just demand for the free coinage of silver. Some of them may be retarded by pressure from other quarters. They may be retarded by the fear that we will not be able to enact a free coinage bill into a law. My duty is done when I exercise my judgment here, as God has given me power to see my duty, and not as the executive or anybody else may see it. I propose to do my duty, and I believe if every Senator will do the same we will have a free coinage act, an act which will relieve the sufferings of industry, increase opportunities and bring prosperity, not to the farmer alone, but to every class of men deserving good legislation.

Coke next addressed the Senate in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver. He declared that the persistent defiance of the popular will by the executive department of the government for the past seventeen years was one of the most remarkable facts in the history of a free representative government. He could not support the bill as reported from the finance committee. It discriminates against silver in leaving to the secretary of the treasury the right to determine how much silver of that purchased should be coined into money, and, as the Secretary held there was already he was sure that with that discretion in the Secretary, not another dollar would be coined. That provision of the bill was neither more nor less than a provision to convert the Treasury of the United States into a warehouse for silver to be held as a commodity on which the government should advance money. The effect of the bill would be to repeal the only law on the statute book requiring the coinage of silver dollars. The passage of the bill would prove the severest blow to silver since its demonetization in 1873. There was no provision in it for the free coinage of silver at all, except by permission of the Secretary of Treasury. In a word, the bill from the finance committee effectually repealed all laws providing for the compulsory coinage of a single dollar of silver. The whole matter would rest upon the discretion of a Secretary of the Treasury, and upon his affirmative positive action.

SENATOR SHERMAN

today submitted an amendment to be proposed by him to the pending silver bill. It provides that the balances standing to the credits of national banks for deposits made to redeem circulating notes shall be covered into the treasury as miscellaneous receipts, and that the treasury redeem the circulating notes of banks which may come into its possession subject to redemption. The amendment also provides upon the certificate of the comptroller of currency that such notes were received and destroyed and new notes issued in their place, reimbursement of the amount shall be made to the treasury from the appropriation created by this amendment, to be known as the "National bank notes redemption account."

The Stock-breeders.

CHICAGO, May 15.—A large meeting of stock-breeders from almost every section of the country was held today in response to a call sent out to different live-stock associations, stating the necessity for consultation and united action in regard to the demand for space, etc., for an exhibit at the World's Fair. Many speeches were made urging the advisability of a great exhibit at the World's Fair. The committee on resolutions presented a report setting forth that all similar exhibitions of live-stock heretofore have fallen far short of what the magnitude of the interests should really demand. The live-stock department of the coming fair should be held as a part of one single exposition, all within the same enclosure, not separated from it, as had been the case hitherto in all such expositions. The needs of live-stock for space, etc., are dwelt on. A committee was appointed to represent the live-stock interests in conferring with the managers of the exposition.

A Sad Affair.

BUTTE, Mont., May 15.—The east-bound train on the Montana Union was derailed near here this afternoon. A sleeper containing the N. C. Goodwin company left the track and rolled down an embankment. Manager Duffie and two other members of the company being killed. Goodwin received a scalp wound and an injury to his left leg, but was not seriously hurt.

The Pope.

VIENNA, May 15.—It is announced that his Holiness the Pope has addressed a circular letter to a hundred bishops of various countries asking whether they consider the time opportune for proclaiming the dogma asserting the temporal power of the Holy See. Sixty-six bishops have answered in the affirmative, but all of the Italian prelates opposed the dogma. The Jesuits urge the Pope to proclaim the dogma without delay.

The "Plunger" Released.

NICE, May 15.—Benson, the Jubilee plunger, was liberated yesterday from the prison in which he was incarcerated for forgery. He was escorted to his hotel by a crowd of friends, who gave him a banquet, at which he announced his intention to reform. He will arrive in London at the end of the week and will write a book narrating his experience of prison life.

Flood in Texas.

COLUMBUS, Tex., May 15.—The village is almost entirely overflowed by the Colorado River. The water covers most of the lower floors and many houses are abandoned.

May Be Mistaken.

CHICAGO, May 15.—The man who says there is a Chinese leper concealed on the North Side is William Phoeler, who lived in California for twenty-nine years, where he claims that superior facilities made him thoroughly familiar with the disease. Dr. Montgomery tried unsuccessfully to induce Phoeler to accompany him in the search for the diseased Chinaman. Phoeler said he discovered the case and reported it, and cared to have nothing more to do with it. The health officers think he is mistaken about the leper.

The Farmers' Alliance.

AUSTIN, Tex., May 15.—After the em send out from here a few days ago, announcing a suit against the Farmers' Alliance managers at Dallas, it was deemed expedient by prominent Alliance men that matters be kept quiet a short while. The attorneys now announce a suit enjoining the publication of the Mercury and another against its present managers to obtain the property. Two other suits will be brought against the old Alliance Exchange. The allegations will set forth some gigantic frauds and show a woeful state of affairs, and a deplorable misuse or waste of funds—hundreds of thousands of dollars sent up to Dallas, it is alleged, having been frittered away—and the Alliance men assert the sum will reach $1,000,000.

Wants Clearing Up.

KANSAS CITY, May 15.—A man poorly dressed was found in an alley this morning unconscious and with his skull fractured. He died this afternoon. He was identified as Charles Maxie, formerly employed by the Adams Manufacturing Company of Omaha.

Won't Nominate.

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—The republicans of the Randall Congressional District will make no nomination to the vacant place.

"Impendence and Immorality."

ST. LOUIS, May 15.—In the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church today the temperance committee handed in a memorial on changing the degree of the offense committed by a member of the church who encouraged the liquor traffic by renting property for saloons and signing petitions for licenses from "imprudence," as now designated in the discipline, to "immorality."

Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—In the Senate, among the bills reported from committees and placed on the calendar, were the Senate bill to provide for the adjudication of claims arising from Indian depredations, and the House bill granting a pension to Mrs. Della Parnell.

The Senate then resumed consideration of the silver bill, and Teller continued his argument in criticism of it.

Bulgarian Conspirators.

SOFIA, May 15.—The trial of Major Panitza and nine other Bulgarian officers, four civilians and a Russian officer commenced today, charged with conspiracy to overthrow the government. The indictment accuses the Russian officials of being privy to the plot and of supplying the conspirators with money. The case was adjourned to the 20th.

Dyspepsia
Makes many miserable victims every year. Distress after eating, headache, heartburn, sour stomach, faintness and capricious appetite are symptoms of this very widespread and growing disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla tones the stomach, creates an appetite, promotes healthy digestion, relieves the headache, and cures dyspepsia.
"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I had a faintness or tired, All-Gone Feeling As though I had not eaten anything. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced. It relieved me of that faint, tired, all-gone feeling. I have felt so much better since I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I am happy to recommend it." C. A. PAGE, Watertown, Mass.
"I had dyspepsia many years, and despaired of ever being well. But Hood's Sarsaparilla has entirely cured me." MRS. J. S. BAILEY, Marblehead, Mass.

Rising of the People of Port Algre, Brazil, Against the Government.

TWO MYSTERIOUS MURDERS IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Rioting in Madrid.—A Sioux Maiden Becomes a Benedictine Nun.

LICENSING BILL IN THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT.

Four Boys Killed by the Falling of A Clay Bank in South Brooklyn.

By Telegraph to the NEWS.

A Brazilian Uprising.

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 15.—A rising of the people against the government took place on Tuesday at Port Algre. A portion of the troops fraternized with the people. The outbreak was suppressed by the police and the troops who remained loyal. A number of persons were injured.

Mysterious Murders.

MCKEESPORT, Pa., May 15.—Miss Garrett Douglas, a wealthy maiden lady, was found dead today with a bullet wound in the back of her head. Her nephew has been arrested, pending inquiry. John Cross, a popular young man, was also murdered last night, and the two crimes in one day have created a sensation in the city, both being mysterious.

Rioting in Madrid.

MADRID, May 15.—Rioting has broke out in the vicinity of Bilbos. Several miners have been killed while resisting the gens d' armes. Troops are hurrying to the scene.

She Takes Her Vows.

YANKTON, S. D., May 15.—A full-blooded Sioux maiden has just taken vows as a Benedictine nun. The ceremony was performed in the Convent of the Benedictine Nuns in this city. Bishop McCarty received the vows of the new nun, and Rev. Dr. Hamel conducted the ceremony, assisted by Mother Gertrude, superioress of the convent. Miss Crow Feather will be known in the order as Sister Catherine. For the present she will remain in this city. Her special mission will be to educate the children of the Sioux nation. Her father, Chief Crow Feather, is a prominent Sioux.

Four Boys Killed.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Four lads, ranging in age from four to nine years, were buried by the falling of a clay bank in South Brooklyn today. All were dead when taken out.

The English Licensing Bill.

LONDON, May 15.—In the Commons tonight, debate was resumed on the licensing bill. Sir James Larkin, Mr. Gladstone, Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Secretary Matthews and Mr. Smith spoke. Gladstone said the means proposed were utterly futile and extremely dangerous. The tide of public opinion against the liquor cause was fast rising. Allusion had been made to remarks of his ten years ago in favor of compensation. Since then it had been settled in a manner unfavorable to the doctrine of vested interests. He certainly never contemplated approving such a bill as this, which proposed the purchase of a number of public houses on any terms the proprietors will accept. The bill might better be described "A bill for the endowment of public houses." The bill was bad in principle and utterly unsupported by precedent.

Caine's motion to reject the bill was defeated, and the bill was then passed to a second reading.

Healy moved that the Speaker leave the chair that the House might go into committee of the whole on the Irish agricultural bill.

After some debate this was done, and the first clause of the bill was read. Dilatory tactics created a deadlock for some time.

Won't Fight.

BERLIN, May 15.—Puttkamer's brother has challenged Rickert, the Freisinnige leader, to a duel for slandering liberals. Rickert refused the challeng on the ground that he was acting in a public capacity, the offensive language having been used in a speech from an election platform.

Dismissed.

PITTSBURG, May 15.—The celebrated case against James Campbell, president of the Window Glass Works Association, and Chambers, McKee & Co., glass manufacturers; Jeannette, Pa., who are charged with importing men under contract, was dismissed today in the United States court, no intent in violation of the law having been shown in the evidence.

Sudden Death.

GOVERNOR'S ISLAND, N.Y., May 15.—Nelson H. Davis, brigadier-general, United States army, retired, died here this afternoon, of apoplexy. He had just arrived upon the island to visit friends, apparently in good health.

Well Done.

CORNELL, Ont., May 15.—Jusoe Kono, the young Japanese who received the degree of B. A., and a gold medal for general proficiency at Victoria university today, is the first Asiatic scholar ever presented for laurels at the Canadian university.

American Ticket Brokers.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 15. — The American Ticket Brokers' Association spent the day in wrangling over the reinstatement of E. A. Mulford, the Chicago scalper.

Stanley's Treaties.

LONDON, May 15.—Secretary Ferguson stated in the Commons this evening that Stanley's treaties with the African chiefs were not authorized by the government.

The Southern Presbyterians.

ASHEVILLE, N.C., May 15.—The general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church convened today in its twenty-ninth annual session. Rev. James Parks was chosen moderator.

A Steamer Ashore.

MONTREAL, May 15.—The steamship Calypso is ashore at the mouth of the St. Lawrence. She will probably be a total wreck. The crew are still on board, and every effort is being made to rescue them but thus far without the promise of success.

Worse than Expected.

LOUISVILLE, May 15.—It is now believed that yesterday's caisson was more serious than at first supposed. Four men are missing, and tonight they are thought to have been wounded.
