

The long and disagreeing case against Marshal Parsons is ended, and Commissioner Pratt has discharged the defendant. There are very few persons who will not condemn the action of the court. They are limited to the press gang that opened the case of ineffectiveness, and two or three officials who have joined in the endeavor to down the Marshal. They have signally failed as far as this prosecution relates, but they may meet with more success in the main object they had in view.

When such tales are told of a man as time spent on the witness stand in this case, a certain amount of stigma is sure to attach to him, no matter how improbable the charges may be. The case against the evidence in rebuttal. And this may influence the Administration in reference to the Marshal. For an officer of this kind should be seen to be a man of the highest character, and the law requires that such a man should be charged against him who is probably innocent, but who is charged against him and to furnish suggestion of a charge.

It is this, we have no doubt, which has been designed from the first. To out the Marshal and put to some one who would be more pliant and would better serve the purpose of those who sought his downfall, was the real end in view. The failure of the criminal proceedings will therefore cause not small chagrin in the enemies if they can but procure his removal.

The action of the Commissioner is a victory for the grand jury. A jury heard the charges against the Marshal, and the evidence of the grand jury was put forward, weighed their character and reputation, and their unsupported statements would not convince an impartial jury, persons that by such testimony any man however innocent would be used if it was sufficient to place him in prison, and he would be released. After a patient hearing and a full opportunity to adduce all the evidence possible, the conclusion arrived at by the Commissioner and the public is that no fair jury would on such charges convict the accused.

This wholesale attack might have been spared the public, but for the eager anxiety of the "Liberal" organ to get the Marshal cleared from his office, and its natural love for that which is puerile and low. So far it has accomplished nothing of the sort except to add a few more papers, and to make the scandal-loving with appreciated diet, food for malicious and unscrupulous expressions, and raise an offensive and suspicious odor that taints the very air.

Everybody, however, approves of the course of Chief Justice Zane in this matter. When such prominent officials as the Governor and the District Attorney laid the charges before him, expressed their belief that they were true and informed him that many of the grand jury were in favor of an indictment, he could do no less than order an investigation. The prosecuting Attorney had it his own way. He wanted the Commissioner to hear the case. He had an assistant attorney. He had access to every witness against the accused, who could bring in evidence against the accused, but nothing against his personal character. Yet with all these things in his favor, the District Attorney could not make out a case that would stand the test of a jury.

The question may arise, now that the Marshal has been acquitted, what cause has he to be his original accusers for damages? The damage largely in the facts we have related and in the effects we have mentioned. If the state has been injured by the charges, or if there was no good reason why they should be spread abroad, tainting the social atmosphere and arousing distrust among people who may not hear but see the victim of malice and spleen is injured greatly and he should have a legal remedy. This will be for a court to decide, and the conclusion should be reached without delay.

The DESERET NEWS has had no more than the general public interest in this matter, except in one particular. The same party source from which this whole offensive campaign was launched, brought forth a positive falsehood concerning an alleged agreement with this paper and the Marshal, and managed to inject it into the general mass of illiberal news. The reference to it in this column, and our knowledge that the suggestion was absolutely false, led to our doubt of the entire illiberal story and to judge the motive that led to the revival by the lying purpose that was behind the illiberal charge.

We hope this unpleasant matter will soon be brought to a final end. There is nothing left for the Marshal to do now but to carry his suit forward, and as far as he can, vindicate himself before the community. If there was any disposition on the part of his accusers to retract, it might be different. But now the public has for further proceedings and a settlement of the controversy question. Let justice be done, whatever may be the result.

LEAD AND STATEHOOD.

The New York Advertiser comments on the article in the Forum by Judge Zane, in connection with the remarks of President Harrison, concerning Utah and polygamy. While making some invective reflections on the "flexible" character of the "Mormon" religion, the Advertiser does not regard the objections stated at the President as very formidable on the State question. It says:

"As an argument against the admission of Utah to the union without first, but it is not more forcible than others that are employed against the admission of other Territories by the last Congress."

"Much depends on whose political eye is used."

This is quite significant, and if there were any movement just now on the part of Utah to gain statehood much might be said on the subject. We notice that the people and papers of Wyoming—which was one of those Territories spoken of by the Advertiser—quite friendly to the admission of Utah Territory. The Leader Montanese discusses the admission of Arizona and New Mexico and thus alludes to Utah:

"There is no longer room to deny that polygamy has been abandoned in Utah. The Territory ought to be admitted, for it is widely recognized as the spirit of American justice to treat it as a common province in which a hostile people is to be subjected and kept subject by force. The other states have no right to demand the terms of admission, but only as far as the terms are compatible with the principles of the equality of all states in the Union. When it is admitted that the equality of the states must be maintained, it is the principle upon which the Union is based. The proposition of the Mormons to surrender this equality, that they may remain in part subject to the government, as a province, while other states are free, is a proposition which is as much a violation of the principle of the equality of all states in the Union as it is to an equality with Missouri or Massachusetts, with Virginia or Vermont, in all other commonwealths."

"Utah is no great hurry. She can afford to wait a little longer. And when she does go in, we are of the opinion that it will be as suggested, without any restrictions upon her entire freedom as an equal and sovereign state."

THE PAIR FEATURE OF THE EASTERN QUESTION.

On the 11th inst. official dispatches were received in London from St. Petersburg, stating that there had been fighting between British forces and the tribesmen in the neighborhood of Gilgit, near the Pamir frontier. The locality where the hostilities occurred is also close to the boundary line lately claimed by Russia. The tribesmen with whom the British troops are now to be in arms are stated to be under Russian protection.

We have made occasional comment upon the Russian movements, and held that they were a direct menace to British India, the border of which the Pamir region is closely contiguous. The New York Herald of the 12th inst. contains an interesting and elaborate statement of the latest developments, including some details of the fighting, concerning which there were only bare allusions in the Russian dispatches.

According to the Herald, there is at Gilgit a British agency, which is guarded by Kashmiri, Indian, Gurkha and a battery of artillery. The tribesmen of Hunza and Nagar, two towns on the River Indus, almost opposite to each other, have for some time been threatening the Gilgit fort, held by a detachment of Kashmiri. This caused Col. Darnley, the British agent at Gilgit, to make an advance upon the Gilgit fort for the purpose of relieving the garrison. This advance was made early during the present month, for on November 25th Col. Darnley, with his force, was in the Gilgit fort, and on November 26th he was in the Gilgit fort, and on November 27th he was in the Gilgit fort, and on November 28th he was in the Gilgit fort, and on
