GENERAL LOGAN SPEAKS AT

TOLEDO.
MORE OF THE ROBERT LITTE.
DYING FROM YUSTHINE IN NEW YORK.
KILLED BY CANNED FRUIT.
DESTRUCTION BY THE FLOOD IN WISCONSIN.

General Logan's Speech.

TOLEDO, 11.—Gen. J. A. Logan was present at the annual session of the State Fair Association, and made a speech to an audience numbering seven or eight thousand. He spoke about half an hour upon the commercial, manufacturing and agricultural interests of Ohio, and their wonderful growth.
Gen. Logan spoke at League Park to-night. He began by briefly reviewing the history of the Republic, and the democratic principles from 1800 down to the present time, claiming the only monarchism existing by the democratic party in this country had been a commercial, manufacturing and agricultural interest of Ohio, and their wonderful growth.

The total number of prostrations by the heat in this city is the number of prostrations in Brooklyn was 14, 3 fatal.

Brooklyn, 11.

Brooklyn, 11.—On account of the depression in trade, the Mayor Thompson Street Company, to-day notified their employees that unless they accept a reduction of wages, a suspension of operations will be necessary. The firm employs a salary of 100 men. It is probable the reduction will be accepted, as the number of idle men in this vicinity is greater now than at any time during the year. It is about 100 men in the mills and glass factories are in operation. There is great distress among the poor in consequence. The poor board officials have nearly exhausted the appropriation for outdoor relief, and it is not clear what will be the result. It is estimated there are 1,000 vacant rooms in the city on account of the poor classes doubling up to save expenses.

LAST WORDS.

CLOSING SCENES IN THE LIFE OF TWO GREAT MEN.
The last scene of all in fiction and biography is perhaps the most affecting and often the most characteristic. One might make a curious collection of extracts from the last words of those who are just crossing the river, at the moment of unconsciousness, and it would be a very interesting and we have lately been struck by the extent of the death of great men. In the case of the late President, Chief Justice Parsons, of Massachusetts, in the memoir by his son, the late Professor Parsons, of the Harvard Law School, his thoughts were back to his duties and his business, and he died with a calm and dignified expression, as death drew near to close his earthly career. When he spoke, it was as a man who had lived a life of duty and honor, and he died with a calm and dignified expression, as death drew near to close his earthly career.
