ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Stranger Tried to Kill Himself in Commercial Street Pawnshop.

Sunday night a man entered the pawn shop of Zeiler Brothers on Commercial street and asked the privilege of examining some revolvers. Picking out one that seemed to suit him, he made a bargain for it at $4.50. As the clerk was in the act of wrapping the pur-chased article, the stranger asked to see chused arrive, the stranger asked to see snother gun. While it was being pro-cured for him, he hastly loaded the one he had in his hands and, pointing the weapon at his heart, pulled the trigger. The gun did not explode, and before the man could repeat the at-tempt upon his life he was seized by the shoopkeeper. The would-be suicide dropped the pistol and ran into the street and disappeared. He was searched for by the police, but no trace of 'dim cuold be found.

It is believed that the man is the same person who made an attempt up-on his life in a First South street rooming house about a month ago. He was folled in his endeavor at that time, buy expressed a determination to try again when he felt in a proper mood,

----PREDICTED HIS DEATH.

Adrian Frisk Goes on a Spree and

At the body of Adrian Frisk, who died in a cell at the city jail Sunday after-noon. Over induigence in liquor was the immediate cause of the man's death. He was a wood turner and machinist by profession, and had lately been em-ployed by the Morrison-Merrill Lumcompany. For some weeks he had been drinking heavily, and had spent not less than $200 of his earnings. For a week he had told friends that his death was near, and he seemed to court it rather than to fear and try to evade the grim reaper. Saturday night Frisk was arrested on ommercial street for drunkenness, aft-having been sent out of a nearby saloon. He was taken to police head-quarters and locked up. To the desk sergeant and officers present, Frisk resergeant and officers present. Frisk re-literated the statement that his death was near. While not placing any cre-dit in what he said, the officers tried to talk him out of the idea. He was placed in a cell, and during the night was bordering on delirium tremens.
