It is believed on the best authority, that the French will concentrate at Chalons, with three hundred thousand men and a thousand guns, and that the Prussians will attack with five hundred thousand men and 1400 guns. All the actions of this week must be considered as merely preliminary to one of the greatest conflicts the world has ever seen. It is thought here to be imperative on both armies to bring on a decisive battle as soon as possible, for political rather than military reasons.
