

RAILROADS RAISE EXCURSION RATES

Large Increase Over Last Summer's Fares to the East Is Announced.

NO PIN MONEY FOR TOURIST.

It Will Cost $12.10 More to Go to St. Paul from Salt Lake This Season.

Large increases over last summer's rates to the east are noticeable along the list of summer rates announced for this season. When several railroad men were asked "Why?" and "How?" no direct answers were offered.

Travelers will find less pin money left over after paying their railroad fare this year than they had last season. For instance, the round trip to Denver from this city last year was $19.75; this year the summer rate will be $32.50. Why is this difference? Denver and Salt Lake are the same distance apart as they always have been. The fare for the round trip between Salt Lake, Ogden and Granger and Missouri river points this year will be $40; last year it was $32.35. The round trip to Chicago last year cost $44.50; this year it will cost $55; the substantial sum of $10.50 higher. Nearly the same difference will be noticed between this year's round trip rate to St. Louis; this year $49; last year $39.50. A larger difference than any, however, is that between the rates of this year and last to St. Paul. Last year it cost but $33.50 to make the trip from this city and back, but this summer it will cost $52, a difference of $18.50.

BINGHAM SEEKS POINTERS.

New York Police Commissioner Queries Chief Pitt for Information.

Police Commissioner T. A. Bingham of New York, the man who gave the department of the metropolis such a shaking up for grafting and other offenses that the members thereof thought an earthquake had struck them, has written to Chief of Police Tom D. Pitt asking for information as to how the department here is conducted and as to the method used here in the identification of prisoners, etc.

The question naturally arises: Is Commissioner Bingham considering contemplating changes in the New York department to conform to the rules in the Salt Lake department? Or is he going to give Chief Pitt a tip on how to catch burglars?

The letter to Chief Pitt follows:

"Would you kindly send me at your earliest convenience, a copy of your latest annual report, books rule and other publications, blanks, forms, cards, etc. in use in your department whether in connection with your patrol or detective force. Will you also kindly state what method of identification of criminals is in use in your department?"

AMUSEMENTS.

Theater—The Salt Lake theater will be dark until Friday night, when the lights will be turned upon Law Docket and his minstrel company.

Orpheum—Original, daring, unique and wholly pleasing are the three Sisters Macarte at the Orpheum this week. They are the headliners, and in contrast to the other offerings on the bill are fully entitled to that distinction. They open their act with a graceful classic dance and then come from the wings with a change of costume for an acrobatic turn that before has not been equaled on the Orpheum stage.

The kindred is worth special mention this week. A film from Pachyderm depicting an incident in India, featuring the trickery of a native prince and the service of camels and elephants, is altogether worth while.

Rockaway and Conway sing and talk. That is about all for them.

Grand—The Lorch company is bidding farewell at the Grand this week in a presentation which seeks with detentions and red fire. The vehicle is "The James Boys," a lurid melodrama devoted to the exploits of the famous, or infamous, as the case may be, bandits. The drama affords opportunity for the display of some scenic effects and turgid acting that meet instant approval at the hands of the regular patrons who like their luncheon to Denver making room for the Earl Burgess stock company, which opens for an extended engagement on Thursday night, in a repertoire of drama starting with "The Queen of the White Slaves." This afternoon Mr. Lorch is giving a benefit matinee and presenting "The Lieutenant and the Cowboy."

STUDENTS TO VISIT OGDEN.

Prof. Stewart, Dr. J. T. Kingsbury and 150 students of the senior normal class will go to Ogden Saturday to inspect methods in use in the Ogden schools for teaching deficient pupils.

JOHN J. DALY RETURNS.

John J. Daly founder of the Daly-West and Daly Judge Mining companies, and family have returned from southern California, where they spent the winter. "Last year," said Mr. Daly, "my folks thought they would like to escape the cold by spending a few months in sunny Italy and we did so. But I want to say that I wouldn't give one acre of southern California for the whole of Italy for a winter climate. We spent the great part of the past winter in Pasadena and I don't think we could have found any other place in all the world where we could have put in the time more pleasantly."

SEEKS DAMAGES FROM RIO GRANDE

George Peterson Charges Railroad With Responsibility for Loss of His Hotel.

BURNED IN BINGHAM CANYON

Plaintiff Alleges He Has Been Unable To Secure Another Location to His Total Loss of $16,000.

The Rio Grande Western Railway company was this morning made defendant in an action for $16,000 damages for the burning of the building known as the Junction hotel, at Bingham Junction, Salt Lake county, on April 22, 1907. The action is brought by George Peterson, owner of the hotel, who charges that owing to the negligence of the defendant corporation, in permitting one of its engines to emit sparks at the time and place indicated, the hotel caught fire from the sparks from said engine and burned to the ground, the building and contents being consumed, as well as the house occupied by Peterson and his family. Peterson places the amount of loss in the destruction of the hotel and residence at $16,000, the furniture and provisions contained therein at $4,000, and for the business lost by him by reason of his being unable to secure another suitable location for his hotel, at $10,000, and for 30 trees destroyed by the first the sum of $100, making a total of $16,100 which Peterson seeks to recover from the railroad company.

VERDICT FOR COMPANY.

Judge Lewis Instructs Jury to Find Against Man Owning Bill.

In the case of the White Dressed Meat company vs. the Southside Grocery company et al., wherein Plaintiff sued for recovery of $153.70 for meats furnished, Judge Lewis gave the jury peremptory instructions to render a verdict in favor of defendant, the Southside Grocery company, and of the defendant, C. P. Blythe, but against the sum named, $153.70. The action had been brought against the grocery company and against the members of the partnership constituting the company, namely C. P. Blythe and F. J. Shove. Blythe recently united his grocery stock with the meat business conducted by Shove, and the bill to the plaintiff was actually due from Shove before the partnership was formed. On these facts being made apparent, Judge Lewis instructed the jury to bring in a verdict as above stated.

SEFRIT A WITNESS.

Appears Again This Morning Before The Federal Grand Jury.

Frank I. Seffit was the only witness before this morning's session of the U. S. grand jury. The man who promised the public that through his efforts they would learn it all, appeared when the jury started its work at 10 o'clock, and continued with them until shortly before the recess at noon. Which one of his several theories he expressed to the grand jury is not known.

Mr. Seffit first appeared before the grand jury yesterday afternoon, after W. J. Bateman, W. D. Fitzgerald, and George Sheets had been examined. Mr. Bateman is the expert accountant who went over the Utah National Bank books after the robbery was discovered. Mr. Sheets has sleuthed about in the case a little along with Sleuth Coughlin and Sleuth Samuel Dowse. Mr. Fitzgerald is a son of director Fitzgerald, who was also a member of the grand jury. Mr. Dowse represented that he had inside information and got a chance to file it with a promise that if it was worth anything he would be paid for it. The prevailing opinion today is that from evidence that would warrant an indictment, and that it plans to continue its work for several weeks in the hope of uncovering more developments.

FRESHMEN REBUFFED.

A party of soldiers from Fort Douglas went to the "U" hill northeast of the university this morning and constructed two cross-cannons from time in the black shale near the big white U. The freshmen class of the university quickly spied it and went to the hill and replaced it with their class number "11." The soldiers, however, did not mind the "vandalism" that a party was soon formed and betook itself to the hill. After the visit nothing remained of the hill but the newly constructed U. Peace has been restored at the U and no further outbreaks are feared among the students.
