JOHN C. ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

Californians are getting consider ably aroused upon the Chinese question. The San Francisco Chronicle says 50,000 Chinese have arrived at that port within about five years, or an average of 10,000 annually, and in answer to an in-quiry by a correspondent for a re-medy for. Chinese immigration, says there is one, and that is to re-enact an old law taxing Chinamen two and a half dollars a month. The Chronicle thinks a State is so. The Chrowicle thinks a State is so, vereign in regard to making laws for taxation, that "the State of California may pass any laws tax-ing its population, and this taxa-tion may be so burdensome to the Chinese as to discourage their re-maining among us." The Chronicle The Chronicle thinks a State is somaining among us." The Chronicle would elect members of the legisla-ture who would re-enact that haw, a governor who might be expected to favor unfriendly legislation toward the Chinese, a supreme court that would interpret the laws according-ly, a mayor and chief of police who would think more of American citizens than of the Chinese, in short, make the matter a political issue and go to the people on the question. Says the Chronicle— We would instruct our monters of Con-gress and Semators to represent to the Con-gress of the United States the dangers of the United States the dangers of the United States the dangers of the States the dangers of the people or any other true first the would instruct our monters of Con-gress of the United States the dangers of the United States themselves and in their children. The speaker next treated upon the necessity of aiding the poor to emigrate, and in the course of his remarks, related an anecdote in the life of a noted clergyman, who, on being asked to deliver a charity sermon said, "He that give th to the poor lend-eth to the Lord." "Now brethren, you who like the security, down with the dust." He predicted that those who lived forty years would see the Latter-day Saints the great-est people who ever lived on the would to some extent indemnity our fax-payers for the burdens which Chinese
