Tempted by the large purses hung up for this year's horse racing by the Utah State Fair management, the fastest horses in the western country will be ent here to contest. Stable owners, who have been running at Butte, on the Coi-orado and Ceast circuits and through-orado and Coast circuits and through-orado and Coast circuits and through-out the infermountain region, will have imbroken stiings in this city when the state fair opens. The Butte season is at an end. When the anti-betting laws were put through in the eastern cities many big owners came west and located in the West. Butte got a big percentage of this transfer. The Colorado circuit, with such tracks as the overland, got a gen-crous share and the remainder went to califoreia. The Colorado season is clos-ed, and from that state will come a doz-en or more speedy animals. Los Angeles and other coast centers will be repre-sented by their fastest. And the entire intermountain region will turn in more entries than ever before. This is not a hope, nor a wish-t is a cold fact as the entry lists in the state fair offices show. Never have so many horses with reaces. This is due to the closing of sea-ons in other states and the unusual size of purses put up this year. Loster D. Freed, supervisor, is "tickled to death" with the outlook and promises the best races ever seen in Utah.

He was placed on a mound facing the moon and the bucks and squaws, with their backs always to the moon, kept up a wailing incantation, ac-companied by drum beating and shak-ing of tin cans partly filled with peb-bles.
