

VOTE OF UNIONS MAY END STRIKE

Proposition to Settle Difficulties
Between Electric Linemen
And Bell Telephone Co.

SUBMITTED BY MGR. MURRAY.

It is Accepted by Grand Officers and Referred to Locals for Their Approval or Disapproval.

A temporary truce has occurred in the progress of adjusting differences between the Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone company and its striking linemen, and it will not be broken until each local union in Montana, Wyoming, Utah, and Idaho, has voted on a proposition telegraphed to them last night, by which it is hoped to settle the strike.

This proposition, the nature of which has not been given out, was submitted to the representatives of the strikers by Manager Murray at the last of six conferences held during the latter part of the week, the series ending yesterday afternoon. The proposition was immediately telegraphed to all local unions with an urgent request that they act on it at once and notify the Salt Lake headquarters of the Electrical Workers' union of their decision.

M'NULTY AT BINGHAM.

Grand President McNulty is not in town today, but he has not left the country, as published this morning. Instead he has gone to Bingham to talk over labor conditions with leaders there, and he has taken with him the president and vice president of the Montana State Federation of Labor, who were called here to participate in the referendum voting, declared that he would not say, except that the trip was made in the interests of organized labor, in which interests President McNulty spends all of his time.

SULLIVAN NON-COMMITTAL.

Mr. Sullivan also would say nothing definite as to whether he anticipated a peaceful settlement. He declared that the best way to find out was to await the result of the referendum vote, and until then he could assure the public that none of the electrical workers were going back to work, despite the fact that the strike has been in progress for over three months, and that it has cost each of the men engaged about $200 in salary.

It is understood that a concession granting more wages has been made by Manager Murray. It was almost solely on this ground that the strike was originally called, the demand being that wages be boosted 50 cents per day for all classes of labor.

WAR VETERANS AT NEPHI.

Tomorrow morning the tents will be pitched for the big Indian War Veterans' encampment, which will hold forth at Nephi for the next three days, July 21, 22 and 23. Already hundreds of people have arrived, and it is expected that fully 7,000 or 8,000 people will be in attendance, and Nephi's camp will be the scene of many a happy day.

Tuesday, July 23--Forenoon, hoisting of flag, serenade of bands and pitching the big camp. Afternoon, grand parade, horse races, baseball, Nephi vs Payson; big tent, vaudeville show, African dogger, with complimentary ball in armory for the veterans.

Wednesday, July 24--Forenoon, baseball, Nephi vs Mant; special program at 10:30 and 2:30; afternoon, Indian skirmish and sham battle, basketball, Nephi vs Mant; horse races, southern minstrel show, two dances.

Thursday, July 25--Governor and staff will be in attendance, with excellent programs both forenoon and afternoon; forenoon, baseball, Nephi vs Lehi; afternoon, big horse races, field day sports, tent vaudeville, dances at the armory and opera house, with grand concert in the tabernacle.

There are in all about 20 of the best race horses in the state on the grounds, the track is in good condition, and some excellent races, with generous prizes, will take place every day. In fact, the visitors at "Little Chicago" are going to be shown a royal time.

AMUSEMENTS.

Musical Festival--Tonight at Wadmanera sees the opening of something unique in Salt Lake's midsummer history, namely a Musical Chautauque, a series of concerts and contests which will run the entire week.

The Ogden tabernacle choir under Prof. Ballantyne opens the program tonight, with Whitney Coombe's cantata, entitled, "The First Christmas." The soloists will be Myrtle Ballinger, soprano, and Mrs. A. R. C. Smith, contralto, both of Ogden, Fred Graham and Horace S. Englen, of Salt Lake, while Prof. McCellan will act as accompanist. The reserve sale for seats is now going on at the Clayton Music company's store.

Orpheum--The final week of the Orpheum opens tonight with the production of Nat Goodwin's comedy entitled "Turned Up."

The choice of the summer girl is the choice of all who recognize confection betterness.

FRANTIC MOTHER LOSES CHILDREN

Since 11 o'clock yesterday morning a frantic mother, anxious neighbors and energetic police officers have been searching in vain for two lost children. They are Marie, aged 4 years, and Ray, aged 2 years, children of Mrs. Maddock of 231 east Third South street.

The tots were out playing yesterday morning and about 11 o'clock they were missed by their mother. It was thought that the little ones had gone to a neighbor's, but when they failed to return in an hour or so, a search was made for them but they could not be found. All the immediate neighbors were visited and anxiously questioned, but not the slightest trace of the children could be found. Yesterday afternoon and all night the half-crazed parents searched for the missing ones, but without results.

This morning the father called at police headquarters in hopes that the police had found the babies but the officers had not been able to secure the slightest trace of them. After Mr. Maddock left the station, Officer Taylor received information which he thought would lead to the location of the children but upon investigation the supposed clue proved false.

So far as known to the police there has been no trouble in the family and therefore it is apparently not a case of the father, or mother, kidnapping the little ones.

Detectives and patrolmen as well as members of the family and neighbors and friends are exerting every effort to locate Marie and Ray.

NEW UNIVERSITY CATALOGUE.

Development of Big Educational Institution Unmistakably Shown.

The rapid growth of the University of Utah in recent years is well exemplified in the 1907-1908 catalogue, which is just off the presses. Contrasted with the issues of a few years ago, it shows a remarkably revolutionized institution in which all preliminary and sub-college work is subordinated, and the real university work is at last placed in its position of principal concern and importance.

The record of new classes shows great development in the medical department, with the loss of another year from the preparatory department. The list of students shows 555 registered in strictly collegiate work, with 442 preparatory students. For many years the balance has been in favor of the lower grades, so that this rapid increase in students of college grade is a matter which has caused much joy among the university's friends and alumni.

The faculty for next year will consist of 35 professors and assistant professors. Maud May Babcock, who has been absent for a year, will be back at work, while William Blum, instructor of chemistry, and Miss May, director of kindergarten training, will be away on leave of absence. Their places will be filled by Kenneth Williams, of the class of 1907, University of Pennsylvania, who will take charge of the instruction in chemistry, and Miss May B. Fox, who will substitute in the kindergarten training work.

In the matter of relationship with the Agricultural college, a marked improvement is shown, as there are several joint courses to be offered in engineering and agriculture, part of the work to be done at Logan and part at the university campus.

Advanced work in mining is another valuable field of new endeavor. Students showing aptitude for mining work will be urged to stay after graduation to work on some of the new and more difficult mining problems, and to help them in this work, scholarships have been subscribed by wealthy mining men.

The entrance requirements are to receive a boost next year, putting them on a par with those of most standard colleges, which require a full high school course of four years for entrance.

In the law and medical departments, marked expansion is shown. A number of prominent lawyers have been added to the list of instructors and lecturers on law topics, and the department of medicine has been strengthened by the addition of Robert W. Fisher as professor of materia medica, and W. Ross Anderson as professor of bacteriology and pathology.

The improvements of this year mark the beginning of harmony in higher education within the state, and will probably be followed by much more marked improvements next year.

DAVIS SHOE CO.

ATTY RICHARDSON BEGINS ADDRESS

covered many fields and many crimes, but one offense against the state of Idaho.

"Sixth--I shall consider Mr. Orchard while under arrest.

"Seventh--I shall consider Mr. Orchard while in the penitentiary.

"Eighth--I shall devote myself to the impeachment of Mr. Orchard.

"Ninth--The manner and method of it and the reasons therefor.

"Tenth--I shall devote myself, as I have been invited to do, to the reasons why certain witnesses did not testify for the prosecution and as to why certain others did not testify for the defense.

"Eleventh, and finally, I shall discuss this case as it appears before this jury.

"When I have finished these 11 subdivisions I will have done all that I can do to assist the jury in arriving at a proper and just verdict in this cause."

ORCHARD UNCORROBORATED.

Discussing the law as applied to Orchard, Mr. Richardson said the corroborating evidence in support of a confessing witness must be so strong that standing by itself, separated and apart from the witness's story, it is enough to establish the guilt of the defendant as to the defendant's guilt. He charged that the state had no corroborating circumstances of this character as to the murder of Gov. Steunenberg, for the reason that a general conspiracy was charged and all the events of the Colorado labor war were gone into.

"But, gentlemen of the jury," said Richardson, "the general conspiracy that the prosecution complains of is a lawful conspiracy. If this be a conspiracy, then you are in a conspiracy if you are a Democrat and vote the Democratic ticket. The Western Federation of Miners was in a conspiracy to elect its men to office, to shorten hours and to fix wages, and every one of these objects is lawful yet in this country."

Taking up next the history of the Western Federation of Miners, Mr. Richardson said that while the balance of the world is a free society, the distribution of wealth, the motto of all would be, so long as men are constituted as they are, to "Get all you can while you're getting, and then leave it to the children." The Western Federation of Miners, he claimed, was created for the purpose of creating a Rockefeller at one end of the line and a man with a gun at the other, more or less friction and trouble is bound to occur. The Bunker Hill property had turned in for taxation at $50,000 but after it was blown up a loss of $200,000 was claimed.

NO APOLOGY FOR MISCREANTS.

"I am not going to explain or apologize for the men who blew up that mill," said the attorney. "It is sufficient for us to say that Haywood was not a part of it. Moyer was not a part of it, and Pettibone was not a part of it. You are not going to convict these men for what was done that day, so the matter requires but little thought or attention. After the mill was blown up it is shown the men returned to their homes and their work. There was no more disorder, no insurrection, but Gen. Merriam and his negro troops were ordered into the district. Be it said to his credit, that Gov. Steunenberg was not on the ground and did not see personally what was done, but gentlemen of the jury, if you were driven out of the country, if you were incarcerated in a bull pen, if you were held there and blistered in the heat of midsummer, if you were subjected to the insults of negro soldiers, would there not have been hatred and resentment in your breasts against all who had had a part or a parcel in the treatment meted out to you? Ah, say it is to the credit of the state, if it is to the credit of the state, that in that bull pen, without charge or trial, that there was no result from it disastrous to the leaders securing their incarceration be he great or small."

Before taking up the Cripple Creek troubles, Mr. Richardson returned to the history of the Federation of Miners and pointed out what his objects had been--to better conditions, to care for its sick and dying, the widows and orphans of its members. He ridiculed the idea that anyone could claim that 40,000 working men organized for their betterment could be termed 40,000 criminals.

As to Cripple Creek, Mr. Richardson dwelt again upon the fact that many of the mines were owned by the Standard Oil company. Wherever that company operates, he said, Colorado or Michigan, the attorney asserted there was always some sort of labor trouble.

LABOR ALWAYS WORSTED.

"And labor," he exclaimed, "always gets the worst of it. I don't know whether labor is always right or sometimes wrong, but I do say that it is not right that the laboring man should bear the brunt of what he doesn't do."

Richardson predicted of the coming of Harry Orchard into the Cripple Creek district. He recalled the early crimes to which Orchard confessed--selling short weight cheese, burning the cheese factory, gambling, etc.

"He even gambled away his interest in the Horvath prospect--according to his own story," said the attorney.

"The defense claims Orchard lost his interest in this prospect by being driven out of the country, and it was for this that he murdered Steunenberg. Mr. Richardson went on to explain his statement as to the gambling that Orchard went on to explain his statement as to the gambling."

CONFERENCE OF LIBERTY STAKE

The regular quarterly conference of the Liberty stake was held yesterday, the first meeting convening at 10 a. m. in the Assembly hall, and was presided over by President Hugh J. Cannon.

There were present of the general authorities: Presidents John R. Winder and Anthon H. Lund of the first presidency, and Elder Heber J. Grant of the quorum of the apostles.

The meeting opened by the First ward choir and congregation singing, "Now let us rejoice." Prayer was offered by Bishop Oliver Hodgson, and the choir sang, "All hail the glorious day."

PRISONER WAS HAPPY.

John Peterson, a Greek convicted of the larceny of a $5 watch and some clothing from a fellow Greek, was as happy as a king when he was sentenced to a handful of diamonds when Judge Diehl imposed a sentence of 65 days in the county jail. Peterson hid his classic countenance behind his lips and chuckled with great glee when sentence was pronounced. The reason for his joy was that he expected Judge Diehl to give him six months.

MAROOED ON WHITE ROCK ISLAND

Robinson Crusoe had a whole book written about him just because he was marooned on an island. Four Salt Lakers, Howard Garrett, W. L. Jennings, Fred Strouse, and Parley P. Jensen, had an experience Friday that makes Robinson Crusoe's riskiest undertaking look like mere child's play.

First of all, the gentleman of the book didn't get marooned on a two-by-four island a hundred feet high with a heavy squall beating the waves against it. The Salt Lakers did. They went in swimming near White Rock and while they were in the water the storm came up. They were dashed against the sharp sides of White Rock but managed to escape any injuries worse than a few bruises. They then scrambled up and found places large enough to sit on by doubling their knees up under their chins and holding on to the projections. It looked mighty dark for the undressed quartet clinging to the rocks at the time, but the victims, themselves are laughing over the incident now.

WAS FATEFUL FRIDAY.

The trip began Friday afternoon in Cambrian II, captained by Dewey Davis. Besides the four mentioned the other members of the party were: Laneir Wardrop, Earl Garret and Ralph Wardrop, making seven in addition to the boat's crew. The party was out after a picnic, for moving picture representative of a tour of the Great Salt Lake and travel into its islands, showing the birds, vegetation, etc. The afternoon was a beautiful one and everyone on board was happy. As the boat steamed towards White Rock four of the travelers decided they would like to bathe and conceived the idea of swimming around the island, which is nothing more than a big white rock, as its name implies. "Do not swim too far away, as I hear a wind coming up," said Capt. Davis. As the boys could not feel the gentlest suggestion of a zephyr, they laughed heartily at the captain's warning, and splashed around the island.

BEAT OUT INTO LAKE.

They were around on the other side within five minutes and without a second's warning a gale came up. In the meantime the crew of the Cambria was forced to beat out into the lake to avoid being driven on to the rock. After a terrific battle the quartet of swimmers made the rock on the protected side and climbed to the top clothed in fresh salt breezes and sun rays which came out. The sun went down upon the scene and then chilly breezes sprang up.

COMMITMENT IN THE CITY COURT

Man Seized With Delirium Tremens in Judge Diehl's Temple of Justice.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN MISTAKEN.

Prisoner Was Not Sure as to His Condition Yesterday--Greek Gets 65 Days and is Pleased.

Judge Diehl's morning court evidently does not agree with the many violators of the ordinance prohibiting drunkenness and vagrancy. There was a motley crew before him at 9 o'clock this morning and all were apparently in a bad way. One unfortunate, whose name is unknown, was seized with delirium tremens, commonly called "snakes," while Atty. Newton was making an argument on motion to strike out certain words in a complaint. The name of the man could not be learned for the reason that he came in last night as a lodger and was in such a bad way this morning that he could not speak until he was seized with an attack of the tremens.

DELIRIUM TREMENS.

There was considerable commotion in court when the attack came. The man jumped from the mourner's bench and began to shake violently. "Look at 'em," he yelled, "keep 'em off, they are trying to kill me." Two officers took charge of the unfortunate man and placed him in jail where he was properly cared for.

Atty. Newton stopped his argument long enough to remark: "I do not know you're honor whether or not my argument caused the man to have snakes."

The case under consideration was that of John M. Carson, charged with indecent conduct. The complaint set forth that Carson is a negro, aged 35 years, and that he made improper proposals to a girl named Maggie Peterson, aged 14 years. Counsel for defense asked that the words "negro aged 35 years" be stricken from the complaint. After arguments, Judge Diehl sustained the motion. Newton then filed a demurrer to the complaint and arguments were heard on the same. Judge Diehl will render his decision on that matter tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

DRUNK ON SUNDAY.

Nicholas Wilkinson, charged with assault and battery upon Amanda Richards by hitting and kicking her, will be called tomorrow morning. Verda Tinsley, colored, charged with vagrancy, was called tomorrow morning. It is alleged by the police that the woman is one of the horde of colored thieves who infest the city at this time.

George Floyd and a man giving the name of "Governor" Allen, pleaded guilty to having been drunk yesterday. Being Sunday, the usual fine of $5 was imposed. Thomas Jones and Pete Tuttle, charged with vagrancy, were given one hour to leave Salt Lake City. "Really, your honor, I didn't think I was drunk, but of course I might have been mistaken," explained F. J. Jordan, charged with being intoxicated on Sunday. He was remanded to jail until tomorrow morning when the question will be determined.

WHIRLWIND RESCUE.

Eventually the wind subsided and after two hours of exposure the flat tender boat of the Cambria was brought into requisition and the gallant rescue pulled off.

The party had numerous other adventures and bright and early this morning arrived in the city to seek out the drug stores and endeavor to get a corner on all the arnica and cold cream in the market. It is anticipated that they will develop new cuticle within the next 10 days.
