The native population of the Sandwich Islands is still diminishing. In 1860 it was 67,075; in 1866 it was 58,665. The total ratio of decrease in the whole population during the past six years has been within a fraction of 10 per cent, while the ratio of decrease among the natives alone has been 13 and 3-10ths. At the present rate, the aboriginal Hawaiian race will be nearly extinct at the close of this century.

In a paper on the habits of the beaver, read before the American Association for the advancement of science, Mr. L. H. Morgan, of Rochester, said that on the southern shores of Lake Superior, in Marquette County, he found remains of long canals and dams constructed for the purpose of transporting their cuttings, consisting of trunks of trees two or three feet long, from the place where the trees had fallen to their lodges. Some of these canals were 300, 400, and 500 feet long. They were generally three feet wide, with an average depth of three feet. In order to maintain a continuous depth of water, they made dams at certain distances, and followed the Chinese plan—to whom the lock was unknown—of drawing their cargo from one level to another.
