

PREMIER FRANCO HAD BEEN WARNED

Said to Have Had Intimation of Intention to Assassinate King
And Crown Prince.

DIRECT CHARGES ARE MADE.

Senhor Lima, a Banished Republican,
Says He Fomented Popular
Discord and Hatred.

Madrid, Feb. 2.—According to news received here, the assassinations of King Carlos and the crown prince were executed under the orders of the Republican ferrel, and the intention was to assassinate the whole Portuguese royal family.

Premier Franco had an intimation of these intentions, and fearing that the police would be unable to give the royal family adequate protection at Villa Vicosa, had arranged for their return to Lisbon, taking many precautionary measures for their safe journey, such as stationing special service police and detectives at various points and occupying the landing stage by strong forces. Crossing the Tagus by steamer was advised by him in preference to the long route by railroad, where protective measures would be more difficult.

It seems that altogether some 30 men concerned in the plot were secreted among the trees along the Villa Vicosa road, in the vicinity of the landing stage and at other points along the route. A group was stationed in the Praca do Commercio. There were a dozen men in this group, and all of them wore long cloaks to conceal their weapons.

It is even stated that the Portuguese government has proofs that several men prominent in the Republican party, including one ex-minister belonging to the Regeneration party, were concerned in and defrayed the costs of the plot. Some of these men, it is said, have escaped across the frontier. The Portuguese authorities to guard the frontier and prevent further escapes, and rigorous measures have been taken in all the Portuguese ports to arrest any suspected persons attempting to leave the country.

During the night following the assassinations the police of Lisbon discovered and seized a large store of bombs and arms and Republican proclamations, and arrested a number of Republicans and Regenerados, including a few well known men.

The reported attack on Premier Franco's house would seem to indicate that there was foundation for the reports current of the intention of the conspirators, after wiping out the members of the royal household, to kill

France and proclaim a republic.
It is difficult here to procure reliable details of the assassinations. One account says 14 of the assassins were killed, including their leader, and that only half a dozen of them effected their escape.

It is also stated here that Queen Amelie only escaped by a miracle, several bullets striking her hat, the murderers having fired with deadly intent at the heads of their victims.

DIRECT CHARGES MADE.

Paris, Feb. 2.—So great was the shock experienced by the Portuguese legation here over the announcement of the assassination of the king and crown prince that at first dispatches from Madrid giving an official view of the events at Lisbon scarcely could be credited. Later the legation was draped in mourning.

Premier Clemenceau and M. Pichon, foreign minister, as the representatives of President Fallieres, and other representatives of foreign nations and other prominent officials called at the legation to offer their sympathy.

The death of King Carlos and Prince Luiz Philippe and the manner of their taking off caused a profound sensation among the Portuguese colony in Paris. There was general expression of grief and horror at the crime and execration of the murders.

Senhor Magalhães Lima, a prominent Republican and a grand master in the Portuguese Masonic fraternity, who was banished from the country for treason, today charged Premier Franco with being alone responsible.

"It is he," said Senhor Lima, "who fomented, with cool calculation, popular discord and popular hatred."
He declared that the assassination was the work of anarchists and not of Republicans, and added:
"I must admit that Carlos had become most unpopular because he retained Franco. Indeed, there was no more king and government—only one man invested with extraordinary power, which he used to drive the country to disaster. All parties, without exception, opposed the dictatorship, but I solemnly aver that the Republicans are fighting for ideas and principles, and cannot be held responsible for this crime.

"Now either Franco will retain the dictatorship, in which case there will be terrible revolution, or Franco will retire, which will mean a period of calm."

The French press, in referring to the Portuguese assassination, expresses the sorrow of France at the lamentable catastrophe.
The Temps points out that King Carlos, despite his friendly and sympathetic character, had not succeeded in winning popular regard because he had given his support to Premier Franco, and Franco's policy, perhaps, was marked by excessive rigor. The Temps thinks that the result of the murders will be an enlargement of the restrictive measures already adopted by the premier. If another blow falls, the coming elections, the paper thinks, will bring out a clear manifestation of Portuguese loyalty.

The Journal des Debats does not think that the tragedy will modify the natural course of events, for, it must be remembered, it says, that the people are loyal and the army faithful.

FRANCO'S HOUSE ATTACKED.

Paris, Feb. 3.—Special dispatches received here from Lisbon say that a band of Republicans attacked Premier Franco's house last night, but was beaten off by the guard. Several of the attacking party are declared to have been wounded.

ELLIOTT OF NORTH. PACIFIC ATTACKS ROOSEVELT.

Spokane, Wash., Feb. 2.—A Spokane Review special from its staff representative at Lewiston, Idaho, says:

Blaming anti-trust legislation for the cessation in railroad building except on projects well under way, President Howard Elliott of the Northern Pacific railroad declares that the work has been retarded seven years by the great power given to the interstate commerce commission. In speaking of what he calls the hostility of the administration to corporate interests, Mr. Elliott said:

"I am satisfied with the havoc already wrought by extreme and unwise statements. President Roosevelt has made another attack on corporations. His recommendation for federal control of the stock issues of corporations is so rabid as to be alarming. The encroaching power given commissions over railroads has checked building for years to come and the west must suffer for this unwise legislation. This talk about watered stock is untrue. There is not a single drop of water in any of the railroad stocks of the country. It would be impossible to replace the railroad stocks of the country today."

"It is time the people called a halt to this vicious legislation, for it must be checked if future development is to be expected. Take the Northern Pacific for an instance. The absence of water, or, better stated, overcapitalization. Our earnings amount to 4.23 per cent, certainly not too much for investors. How many business men of Lewiston would be satisfied with such a small profit? All railroad development work not largely completed must stop because of the power given commissions under the present administration. Instead of giving commissions more power they must be shorn of some they now possess."

THAW BEGINS HIS LIFE AT MATTEAWAN

His Stay in the Tombs Will Seem Like a Round of Pleasure
In Comparison.

This is a Privilege—Was Center of Attraction—Two of His Allies
Pay Him a Visit.

Matteawan, N. Y., Feb. 3.—Harry K. Thaw began today the routine of a simple life which the authorities at the state hospital for the criminal insane say will make his long stay in the Tombs prison in New York city seem like the height of gayety in comparison.

The new patient in the observation ward slept soundly last night, the presence of the 50 other men in the dormitory not giving him the slightest concern. It was after the usual retiring hour when Thaw reached the hospital last night, and he immediately went to bed. He had enjoyed the trip from New York with his counsel, as well as the dinner at the hotel in Fishkill Landing with his counsel and one or two newspaper friends. Although the two deputies who accompanied him were guests at the dinner, there was no suggestion of prison or asylum restriction during the repast, and Thaw found the occasion much to his liking. He arose this morning at 6 o'clock and ate a hearty breakfast at the "knife and fork table."

Only 54 men out of the more than 700 in the institution are allowed this privilege, the others being restricted to spoons. Thaw seemed much refreshed after the trying hours of Friday night and Saturday, while the jury was out, and seemingly unable to agree upon a verdict.
About 500 men were in the main dining room when Thaw reached the breakfast table today, and he was the center of attention. The novelty of the noted patient's presence had not worn off by dinner time, and he was compelled again to eat under the scrutiny of many eyes. No arrangements for specially prepared meals having yet been made for him, Thaw shared the hospital fare with all the others. His dinner included roast pork, potatoes, sauer kraut, bread and butter, and coffee.
At 3 p. m. Thaw attended religious services in the hospital auditorium or theater, conducted by Rev. Harry Sheldon, pastor of the Fishkill Landing Methodist Episcopal church. One hundred patients were present, and Thaw expressed a desire to attend. Unless patients especially request it they do not attend the Sunday religious services, which are conducted by ministers of various denominations.

During the day Thaw declared to one of the attendants that he probably would not be in the hospital more than one week. He said his lawyers would sue out a writ of habeas corpus in his behalf, and he was sure he would be allowed his liberty as the result of a hearing in court or an inquiry before a commission.

Thaw's picture and measurement for the hospital record will be taken during the early part of the week. He already has given his age to the authorities as 37 years. During his stay in the observation ward prior to being assigned to some particular division or to private quarters, Thaw will be under the immediate supervision of Dr. A. T. Baker, one of the medical assistants to State.

Dr. Baker said today that he would not allow Thaw to have liquor and tobacco unless his condition seemed to demand them for a time in moderation.

Thaw brought a large sum of money with him to the hospital, but, finding he would not be allowed its custody, handed it to a newspaper man, who turned it over to his counsel. During the week provision will be made by the hospital for special meals and table delicacies for Thaw, the money being placed in the hands of the authorities.
At 5 o'clock this afternoon Dr. Britton D. Evans of Morris Plains, N. J., and Dr. Smith Jelliffe, of New York, arrived at the hospital. They were employed by the defense in both trials of Harry Thaw and, while both evaded questions regarding their presence here, it is said they came at the instigation of Mrs. William Thaw to examine her son and be prepared with evidence when habeas corpus proceedings are begun to liberate him.
"We just had a Sunday off," said Dr. Evans, who declared at the first trial that Thaw had a "brainstorm," "so we came up to see Harry."

SOCIAL MORALITY.
Purity Discussed Before Two Audiences at First Methodist Church.

The question of social purity was discussed before two audiences at the First Methodist church last evening. One for women only was held in the Epworth League room and was addressed by Mrs. Shepherd and Miss Beecher, the deaconess of the church.

The other, for men only, gathered in the church auditorium and was largely attended. The Pastor, Rev. Francis B. Short, talked to the latter in plain and vigorous terms. After reviewing the social evil generally and maintaining that the primal responsibility for it rested upon men, in that all women are born pure and only fall as the victim of some man's desires, he said that the evil continued to exist in its rampant form because of two standards of virtue in society, the ranking of property by men of assumed good standing for use as brooms, the laxness of law officials, and the lack of an aroused public sentiment. He condemned the dual standard of virtue as infamously unjust, that for the man who wronged a woman as for the woman who shared there should be equal content and punishment; that society had not the right to condone the offense of the one and exonerate that of the other. Speaking of the rooting of houses for immoral purposes, he said: "Talk of blood money! Why the bloodiest money this side of hell is that which is paid into the hands of men by women who sell their bodies for coin. We think that the man who rents his place for a saloon is a bad man, but I tell you he is a St. Peter in comparison with him who rents his rooms for purposes of prostitution. There is a state law which says prostitution shall not exist nor property be rented for such use. Enforce these laws and the evil will soon hide its hideous head. When the authorities say that they cannot eradicate this moral sore it is either a case of official rot or official inefficiency, or both—and whichever it be it should be kicked out of office. There is no other way. The law of the city of Salt Lake indirectly licenses these houses, for every Monday morning their habitation consider themselves under arrest and put up $30 bail money, which goes into the city treasury to help pave your streets and educate your children and mine. I am not chief of police, thank God; but if I were in Chief Pitt's position I would close these houses in 10 days or had in my resignation. One of the first things I would do would be to arrest the man who rents his property for such use—and he would not have to be arrested more than once, before he would get rid of the property or the tenants; for however mean and debased such men may be, they do not want their families to know it." He said that this was not a question of politics, but of social morality, the restoration of a city's good name, and that the organization that achieved the reform would merit the unstinted gratitude of right-minded people, closing with this remark: "Mr. American Party, you promised Salt Lake that if you were given another lease of power you would clean the city morally. The power was given you. Make good—make good! or beware the deluge!"
