"Paw" Gimlin Convinces Some Of the Boys That he Is Boss.

EDDIE QUICK IS SUSPENDED.

Gim Proposes to Inflict Punishment If Men Fail to Report for Practice When Ordered.

There has been a little bit of a ruction on the Salt Lake baseball team, all because certain players have been laboring under the delusion that they were about the whole thing; that they could do about as they pleased, and that the team did not have a manager, or, if it did, said manager could be ig. nored with impunity.

These gentlemen have discovered These gentlemen have discovered their mistake. One of them has been suspended, and two others have been fined by "Paw" Gimlin (who is boss). The men complained to one of the di-rectors of Gimlin's actions, but they got cold comfort for their pains. They were politely but very firmly informed that Gimlin was hired to run the team, and that whatever he did in the way of enforcing discipline would be upheld by the director. y the director.

by the director. • One of the men to suffer for derelic-tion of duty, is Eddie Quick, one of the pitchers. Gimlin has suspended him for failure to report for practise. Two others have been fined for the same of-fense. It is understood that Quick made the pitcher that he was not for the same offense, it is understood that Guick made the plea that he was not feeling well. Gimlin says if a player is well enough to wander about town, he is at least well enough to report for practise, and failure to do so will result in punish-ment. The directors propose to support Gimlin in his management of the team. They say he was hired for that purpose responsible for the men.

It is to be hoped that Gimlin's action will have the desired effect on the men. There is no reason why we should not have a good ball team, composed of the have a good ban team, composed of the men who have been employed by the Salt Lake club. They can play good ball if they will, but we will never have a team unless the men recognize the authority vested in the manager, and pull together for the betterment of the team. If the men have any differences with the manager, or with each other, they have no business to show their ill feelings on the diamond. If they are not united, the team will remain at the bottom of the percentage column until the end of the season.
