THE SYSTEM OF DISCIPLINE

Flan of G. R. Brown, General Superintendent, Fall Brook Railway, to Go Into Effect, September 1.

Word has come from the Union Paclife headquarters to the effect that the Brown system of discipline will be put into operation on September 1. This system will also be adopted by the Oregon Short Line on the same date with the certainty that the Oregon Hailroad and Navigation company will fall into line in that direction in the near future. Under this new order the thousands of employes upon the three systems that extend from Portland to the Missourl river will ultimately be affected.

The main feature of the system is the cultivation of a better feeling between the employes and the officials who are placed over them. In a brief sentence it can be summed up as being discipline without suspension. This cystem is rapidly being adopted by the leading railroads of this continent. Under the old system railroad em-ployes were reprimanded, suspended, with loss of pay for stated periods, or dismissed.

Under the Brown system each em-Under the Brown system each em-ploye's service is by record only and in the record book is kept his whole ser-vice record. This is operated on the principle of a ledger with a good and bad, a debit and credit, account under each name. Instead of being suspended for a stated period for violation of rules, damage caused by carelessness or personal matters affecting the good of the service That is one record only. On the other hand, a clear record needs no entries, hand, a clear record needs no entries, but that does not prevent special men-tion being made on the record for any acts of bravery or heroism, special acts of loyalty or protection of the com-pany's interest. In fact, the Brown sys-tem is, one that gives full credit to all the employes and the good record may be used to wipe out the bad record; for instance, on one road a reprimand will be canceled by a perfect record for three months; a suspension of ten days will be cancelled by a perfect record of six months, and so on,

This triumph will be short-lived, how-ever, as the Union Pacific intends to eclipse all previous efforts in that direction by thoroughly transforming the office on the Kenyon corner. Mr. Choate has the blue prints of the proposed change in his drawer, while an order has been placed for the fixtures and furni-ture with the result that workmen will be put on the reconstruction a few days after the Burlington officials move across the street.

On top of these changes comes the word that the Santa Fe and the Frisch lines are contemplating descending from their eeries in the Dooly and D. F. Walker blocks respectively and wooing patronage through the plate glass win-dows of offices abutting the street.

AMERICAN LOCOMOTIVES.

Revolution in the Size and Power of the Iron Horse.

Beginning with the adoption of modern valve gear in about 1860, and dur-ing the intervening period of 40 years, the typical American passenger lo-comotive has increased its size of cylinder from 16x22 inches to 20x28 inches or practically doubled the cubic capacity, says the Spokane Spokesman The diameter of the driving wheels which nowndays causes the chance ob-server astonishment on account of its great size, has increased from five fee to as high as eight feet elx inches. Th to as high as eight test art menes. The pressure of steam used has grown from 100 pounds in 1860 to 250 pounds. The ability to draw loads has been more than trebled. The diameter of the boiler shell, and hence the steam canacity has grown from less than four fe nearly six feet. The total weight of the engine was about 61,000 pounds in 1860, is now in extreme cases as high as 173,900 pounds. The freight locomotive has had a similar increase in size. Beginning with locometives of about the size of the passenger engines in 1860, the extreme development has been reached in an endevelopment has been reached in an en-gine recently built for the illinois ther-tral, which has a total weight of 232,200 pounds. This locomotive is the heavi-est in the world. It is predicted that freight engines of the future will reach a total weight of 211,000 pounds, almost a third heavier than the heaviest lo-comotive in existence today.

(he of the oratorical proclivities) at their head. By two o'clock this afternoon it was openly asserted by the visiting nine that Gimlin would play or there would be no game. On the other hand J. R. Walker was equally emphatic to the extent that the visiting elocutionist and bonent of America's national game ould not play on his field and to clinch argument the owner requested the of of police to send an officer to the ball grounds. Accordingly Officer Sper-ry was sent to the scene post haste to lay in ambash for the visitors. At the time of going to press the Ogdenites were indulging in large pleces

Nothing recking the mandate of J. R.

Ogdentes were indulging in large pleces of chorus and solo crations for the edi-lication of the bleachers, who in turn took up the refrain "play ball" and hurled defiance at the distant Wasatch range. Both sides were obdurate, and for a time it appeared as though no game would be played between the Og-den and the Rio Grandes. It will be recalled that Gimlin has on
