OGDEN NEWS. - DEC. 2, 1901. OGDEN, UTAH, SHOCKING GUN ACCIDENT.

Hunting Rabbits.

Youthful Housebreakers Caught-Officer George Pickering Exonerated From Serious Charge.

An accidental shooting occurred yesterday, which resulted in the death of Jesse P. Forbes, the eighteen-year-old son of Horace B. Forbes and a brother of the county physician. The young man, in company with a boy named Morrison, son of D. M. Morrison, started out yesterday on the sand ridge southwest of the city to hunt rabbits. They arrived at the point where they decided to tie up the horse, and young Morrison got out of the buggy to tie the animal, when he heard the discharge of a gun. He turned towards the buggy and saw young Forbes fall-ing to the ground, the full discharge of the gun having entered his stomach. The Morrison boy raised him up and in a few moments another young man named Lee Harris was passing by and was called to assist in putting Jesse in the buggy, and the two young men brought their fatally wounded companion to his home on the corner of Grant avenue and Twenty-third street. Drs. Powers, Joyce and Perkins were summoned and quickly responded, but they realized that death was soon to follow and could only relieve the severe pain which he was suffering. He died at about 4:30 o'clock. The Morrison boy says that he had unloaded his gun, and supposed that Jesse had done the same when they put them in the bug-gy, but it seems that he did not, and as he was taking the gun out the trigger caught on the seat and exploded with the sad results.

The family is almost frantic with grief, and the grief of young Morrison was sad indeed to behold.

Jesse Forbes was a student at the Ogden High school and one of the the brightest and most pleasant young men in the city, his character being above reproach.
