port is now in type. From it the folowing is taken: From the best information now available the railroad, mileage of the country on the 30th of June, 1888, is estimated at 157,781, of which 2813 miles have been completed and brought into operation within six months preding that day.

A SUMMARY s made of the formal complaints of 10 cases submitted. Fifty have been decided and sixty have not yet been decided and sixty have not yet been decided. In hine the hearing has not yet been completed. Twenty-three have been withdrawn or settled. Ten have been suspended by request. Nine have been assigned for a hearing.

As to the leng and short haul section in the country north of the Potomac and Ohiof and east of the Missouri, there are cases in which a greater charge is made for shorter transportation and the circumstances are such that that the complaint is often made that the clause operates oppressively. that the clause operates oppressively. With some exceptions resulting from ocean competition the rule as to the short haul prevision of the law has been put in force on the transcon-tinental roads, where its operation and effect can be observed under what appears new to be

T 834 W. FIRST SOUTH ST. FAVORABLE CONDITIONS. n the south and southwestern states in the south and southwestern states the commissioner has had reason to think the carriers are moving more slowly in bringing the tariffs into conformity with the general statutory law than in other sections. subject.

The report then takes up the subject of the effect of the inter-state ject of the effect of the inter-state commerce act upon commence, and says although some railroad managers have declared it to have had a damaging effect, the commission is possessed of no evidence showing that the general result has been other than beneficial. The railroad business suffered in the past year not because of the inter-state act, but owing to strikes, new parallel lines and

With reference to the rate wars in the northwest and among the trunk lines during the year, the repert says it is commonly the case that rate wars and trunk line difficulties result from suspicions on the part of the carriers respectively, that their competitors were cutting the open rates, and reductions were made to recover the freight which the parties to the agreement claimed was their due, but which they were not getting because of secret cutting by others. The efforts of the practices suspected have been wholly ineffectual and the war of rates proceeds without the possibility of external authority interposing to bring it to an end. The making of unreasonable rates, the report intimates, is often for stock jobbing purposes. Persons having the centrol of railroads may deliberately make RATE WARS.

INSUFFICIENT RATES in expectation of profits to be indirectly or improperly derived therefrom. Every case of war may be regarded as one of this character. Present profits are sacrificed on the calculation that by crippling a rival or forcing an agreement or compromise on some matter of contention, the loss will in time be more than made up. In the majority of such cases the losses exceed the gains.

The statute has conferred upon the commission no power to ordinarily increase rates in which it can see no renumeration. In general, therefore, it may be said that the railroad general managers possess the power to de-st by the interests, not only of their rivals, but of their own stockholders. They will recklessly make rates that will lead to bankruptcy. The question often becomes of high moment wheth-er it is wiser to meet the Immigrant transportation is considered and various facts are stated which were developed upon the two investigations held in New York City. In view of all the circumstances the commission recommends a reception place larger than Castle Garden from which those not legitimately connected with immigrant transportation shall be excluded. Interior lines should have agents there on an equal footing. The payment of commissions for

RENTING EMIGRANTS and for procuring the shipment of immigrants from foreign countries should be declared illegal and made punishable. The commission should have power to fix empty and fares. These objects cannot be fally account. These objects cannot be fully accomp-lished except by the federal govern-ment taking complete control of the ment taking complete control of the whole subject.

The subject of classification is recognized as exceedingly important, but it is believed it can only be handled gradually and in detail. There are provisions against false billing classification, weighing or report of the weight, or unreasonable references of advantage. The commission believes the penal provisions against wrongs of this nature should embrace also the owner of the property, or any party acting for the owner or consignor of the property, who shall be a party to any such unlawful conduct. The commission suggests that the question thus raised be settled by an express provision.

ANOTHER QUESTION of construction ought also to be set-tled by legislation in order to take away the pretense on which certain through lines now claim to be local lines in fact, and through lines only in appearance. The commission thinks that if a line is in fact a through line by reason of ownership, the corpera-tion controlling it ought not to be at ilberty to make through rates, or to decline to make them at pleasure. The commission favors ioint tariffs The commission favors joint tariffs and through rates, and recommends that carriers engaged in transporting inter-state traffic on rivers, lakes and other navigable waters of the country, be on the same footing with the other inter-state carriers by rail.
