Pioneer Day Fittingly Commemorated -Diphtheria Outbreak.

Special Correspondence. Kancsh, Millard Co., July 26.—An un-usually interesting program was en-joyed here on Pioneer Day; in the pro-cession were two floats symbolical of Utah in 1848, and 1908. The make-up of Miss Mabel Gardner, reminded the old timers of that bright historic char-acter, Mrs. Vilate Kimbal, and with her little aids in ancient dress and panta-lets, made an impressive picture con-trasted to Utah in 1908, represented by Miss Adelia Kappleye and aids, in mod-ern costume and embelishments. Destructive FLOOD. On Sunday evening a very heavy flood came down what is known as Crandall canyon, a tributary of Huntington can-yon, in which was situated the saw mills of the Huntington Lumber com-pany. The water came down through the log camps, and took logs, carts and harness with it down to the millyard. It did toot little damage to the mill, but it took out every bridge in the canyon including the one across the main chan-nel of Huntington creek.
