NO SURRENDER OF PORT ARTHUR.

"I Now Bid You All Goodbye Forever; Port Arthur is My Grave," Says Stoessel.

THAT MESSAGE SENT EMPEROR.

Garrison is Told That to Court a Glorious Death is Preferable to Capitulation.

FEAR OF SOME TROOPS DESERTING

Bombardment is So Incessant That it is Impossible to Bury the Dead at Any Depth.

Shanghai, Oct. 28.—A private letter from Port Arthur dated Oct. 21 received here today says:

"Gen. Stoessel wired the Russian emperor and court recently:

"I now bid you all good bye forever. Port Arthur is my grave."

"Gen. Stoessel has instructed the garrison of the beleaguered fortress with the spirit that to court a glorious death is preferable to capitulation.

"The Japanese shells are inflicting great damage to the Russian fleet in the harbor and to the fortifications. The arsenal with its contents of ammunition and small arms has been destroyed and preparations are being made for the last desperate struggle at close quarters. The water supply having been cut off wells are being sunk. Provisions are scarce. Only tinned meats being left, the soldiers hold gala feasts on horses killed by the shells.

"Gen. Simonoff, it is said, would surrender but is overruled by Gen. Stoessel.

"Certain troops included in the garrison have to be closely watched at present for fear of desertion or treachery.

"The field and naval hospitals are crowded and hygienic conditions are becoming desperate. The bombardment at times is so incessant that it is impossible to bury the dead to any depth. Over one half of the original garrison is dead, wounded or sick.

"The high angle at which their artillery fire is directed by the Japanese has practically destroyed the new town.

"When the fleet attempted to break through the blockade some time ago the garrison was to have had a desperate sortie and inflict as much damage as possible and if necessary capitulate. The failure of the fleet to escape frustrated the plan.

"The hostiles are pressing closer daily and it is hard to say how long we can hold out. When the end comes there will be a desperate fight and surprise. Thousands of the enemy will perish as everything is rife with explosives.

This letter was entrusted to a native boatman who ran the blockade and mailed it at Chefoo.

The recipient is a prominent continental business man of this city with a branch house at Port Arthur.

HUGE SIEGE GUNS ARRIVE

Chefoo, Oct. 28, 5 p. m.—Japanese at Hainan report the continued arrival of huge siege guns.

A junk from Port Arthur with eleven Chinese who left there on Oct. 19 on account of the costliness of food arrived here today. They say that several of the Russian warships have been hit by dropping shells but none have been sunk. They estimate the able bodied soldiers there now at 10,000, saying a smaller force would be insufficient to garrison the various positions.

JAPANESE RUSH TRENCHES.

Gen. Kuroki's Headquarters in the Field via Fusan, Oct. 28.—The Japanese gave a stirring exhibition of sharp and determined fighting yesterday. They drove the Russians from a high hill 16 miles east of the railroad in Gen. Kuroki's front, which is important strategically as a post of observation, and was the only point south of the Shikho river which the Russian held.

About a regiment of Russians were entrenched there with five machine guns. The Japanese rushed the Russian trenches, shot many Russians as they were running down the hillside, and captured two machine guns. The Japanese had 20 killed and 80 wounded. The Russians left 20 dead on the field. There was hand-to-hand fighting when the trenches were taken. The Russians retreated across the river. When the Japanese flag was raised over a tower surmounting the hill the Russian batteries answered shrapnel on it for an hour but without result.

DESPERATE ATTACK OPENED.

Tokio, Oct. 28, 4:30 p. m.—It is reported that the Japanese opened a desperate general attack on the eastern forts of the Kuekwan group, north of Port Arthur, during the morning of Oct. 26 and silenced the Russian batteries. A shell exploded the Russian magazines.

Simultaneously the Japanese attacked the forts on Rihlung mountain and Sunghowshan mountain, silenced the Russian batteries and stormed and occupied the forts in front of these mountains.

On the night of Oct. 26 there was a configuration in Old Port Arthur and on Oct. 27 a shell hit the Russian battleship Sebastopol and two Russian steamers were sunk.

Official confirmation of the above is lacking but the reports are believed to be true.

RUSSIAN PRESS COMMENT.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 28.—The morning papers today print Vice Admiral Rojestyevsky's report of the North Sea incident, with extensive comments, the contents of which does not mean conciliation. The Russian admiral's report is accepted without reservation as the true explanation of the happenings at Dogger bank, and stress is laid on the concurrence of Vice Admiral Rojestyevsky's report that he was attacked by torpedo-boats with the declaration of the fishermen that the torpedo-boats, of which the Russian fleet had done, ran in close to the trawlers before heading for the vessels of the Russian squadron. Attention is called also to the statement by the fishermen that a small vessel remained six hours at the scene of the disaster, while Vice Admiral Rojestyevsky reports that the whole Russian squadron proceeded to the southwest.

While it is the general disposition to throw the blame for all the loss of life upon the Japanese, some of the newspapers do not hesitate to intimate that it is Great Britain's private affairs that the Novosti baldly suggests the possibility that the torpedo-boats described by the Russian commander were boats loaned to the Japanese by the British government.

The Novosti Vremya says that, notwithstanding Great Britain's maritime superiority upon the sea, there is no need to flout the fact in the face of the Russian people, who are able to await eventualities, trusting in God.

The paper adds:

"The Japanese lesson given in the early days of the siege of Port Arthur has not fallen upon fertile ground. The Japanese now find it harder to surprise a Russian fleet than it was formerly."

The Russ congratulates Vice Admiral Rojestyevsky upon "beating off the Japanese attack," and says his report, if it is not expected it would, puts an entirely different face upon the whole matter.

COUNT CASSINI'S VIEWS.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, was deeply interested tonight in the dispatch from Russia that the Russian government had not yet received any request from Great Britain for the punishment of the officers responsible for the firing on the British fishermen, if any were found to be responsible. The ambassador said, speaking personally, that such a request to say the least, would be "unprecedented."

"Russia," he added, "cannot admit the right of any power to interfere in her internal affairs or even suggest a method of internal administration and it is to be hoped that no nation will make such suggestion."

The ambassador, in response to a further inquiry said very emphatically: "Await the facts, thinking people in this country will, I am sure, insist upon the facts before forming their opinions."

While the situation is delicate, the ambassador is very sure diplomacy will solve it peacefully.

OLD MAN DROPS DEAD.

William Collet Expires in His Room Following Hemorrhage of Lungs.

After William Collet had been dead 12 hours the police broke into his room this afternoon and discovered the body. From appearances the man had died of hemorrhage of the lungs.

Decceased was 59 years of age, roomed at 231 east Third South street with a family named Berry. Fred Berry, the head of the house, works at night in a saloon. His wife, who is sick, was awakened at 2 o'clock this morning by the sound of something heavy falling in the room of their lodger. Thinking that it was some plaster from the ceiling, she went to sleep again. Early this morning her husband went to bed and nothing was thought of the incident until they got up and found that Collet had not left his room. The police were summoned and shortly after 2 o'clock Detective Shannon and Officer Evans forced the door to find the man lying on his face. The lamp was still burning and everything in the room was in order.

Collet had been lodging at the place since Oct. 18 and appeared to be a sober and industrious man, with no bad habits.

The remains were removed to an undertaking establishment after Coroner Clark had been notified. It is not believed that an inquest will be necessary.
