

VALLEY AND WATER.
Skill and Experience Wanted in Building
Seated Reservoirs.

It is needless for all who know Malad Valley that it is one of the most beautiful, productive and best cultivated valleys in the mountains. The only drawback is lack of sufficient water supply and that rather apparent than real. Every winter snow in sufficient quantities is deposited in the surrounding mountains to water the valley abundantly, but it is permitted to flow away in the early spring carrying with it a large quantity of mineral wealth. Many reservoirs have been built in the valley, but further work is required. We seek a man who has experience in building reservoirs and can furnish plans and estimates. It is desired to complete the work in a year or two at a reasonable cost that will save the amount of water sufficient to irrigate this valley, but it will be done and all that is wanted is a good English water engineer to do the work. There is a plentiful supply of well directed effort. The railroad company on the Little Malad is a striking illustration of the fact. The railroad company has done more expensive engineering work than has been done by any other company in the country. Engineering has raised the want of intelligence. It is now time to add water to every known source of water, yet nothing is done. Not even so short made to ascertain what might be possible. If a sufficient number of engineers can be found, the work will be done. W. H. Daniels and daughter, at 94 Main, Minn., are engaged in the business.
