So lar as we have been able to determine, the recommendations of that committee are sound and based upon substantial reasons. But the intention is to convey the sewage to some point vious to any attempt that may be on the Jordan, and by means of that stream carry it away to the waters of Salt Lake.

It is to the disposition of the sewage, rather than to the method for its conveyance, that we desire to call attention. There are many objections as it appears to us, to carrying the refuse matter to the contemplated point of discharge. Among the chief of these are, the cost of piping so great a distance and the fouling of the Jordan to the injury of people dwelling near its banks, to say nothing of what may occur from overflow in certain seasons of the year. Perhaps these may not be considered fatal to the scheme, or the supposed evils may be greatly exag gerated. But the question arises, is there not a more excellent way? If there is, it ought to be favorably considered before anything definite is

The great city of London used to turn its immense streams of sewage government. into the Thames, a broad, deep and swift-flowing river purified by the ocean tides. But it was found to be a bad system and a wrongful one. Therefore another method was adopted to prevent the fouling of the Thames and secure the worth of the waste material. So, immense engines are now used to pump the sewage into receptacles from which it is forced to a point distant from the populated region, where it is utilized as both solid and liquid manure.

Somewhat similar to this, but less expensive and possessing better features, in our opinion, is the system now in successful operation at Pullman, Garden City and other eastern towns, in which a pipe system, similar to that advised for this city, conducts the refuse matter to points where it flows into receptacles prepared according to a patented process, by which the whole mass is thoroughly deodorized, the liquid separated from the solid matter and both made available as fertilizers. An eastern company has purchased the patents covering this en tire system, and will either build the whole apparatus and conduits, apply the material and leave the city to perform the work of construction, lease chanical part of the work is concerned. It is not set up in type and stereo-typed, as one would naturally suppose, but the machine that does it has a keyboard at one end and a pot of metal at the other, and the result of playing on the keyboard is to pro-duce solid linea with the letters acca-rately cast upon them. It is useless to say it can't be done, because it is done, and done successfully as a commercial enterprise." We do not pretend to say whether or not this system is the one that Salt Lake ought to adopt. That is for the City Council to determine. But it appears to be admirably adapted to the needs of this and other cities in this Territory that will need some practical system of sewerage before long.

We are not fully informed as to the If this statement is 'reliable it will expense, nor as to the value of the fertilizing material which can be used upon the fields and farms adjacent. These are matters to be well weighed

There are very few indeed who could not find time each day to devote an hour or two to reading. By this means one could easily read twenty or twenty-five books a year, and at the end of that time would be surprised to see the progress that had been made. Much more, by spending the time in this manner the habit of methed is ac-quired and a person becomes qualified to stand among men of culture and make a mark in the world. Some young men are discouraged from a course of reading because they have not received a classical education. Well, if by classics is meant Latin and Greek and Hebrew, it may be safely asserted that many young men are as asserted that many young men are as well off without them as they would be with them. Marshall declared it a vast improve-ment over the present law in such re-spects as to expense and that insolv-ents would gladly meet the trifling costs imposed by it, as they were less than those now prevailing. Carlisle regretted the necessity of its passage today. He was now more than ever convinced that it should not pass —the expense of legal advice re-quired by the bill was great. A gene-ral and simpler bill such as was intro-duced in a former legislature convey-ing most of the points in this was preferable. The bill opened the way for dishonsat persons to defraud their creditors, etc.

for dishonest persons to defraud their creditors, etc. Woolley was surprised at the eppo-sition of the gentleman from Cache County. He had examined the bill closely and should vote for it. On call of the ayes and noes the bill passed. Mr. Carlisle voting no and one councilor absent.
