LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

STAKE CONFERENCE.

The Semi-Annual Conference of the Salt Lake Stake of Zion will be held in the Salt Lake Assembly Hall, on Saturday and Sunday, January 8th and 9th, 1883, at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. of each day. The Bishops of Wards, Presidents of Quorums and the officers of the various associations and societies of the Stake are requested to be prepared with their reports or other business they may desire to submit for the consideration of Conference.

ANGUS M. CANNON, DAVID O. CALDER, JOS. E. TAYLOR, Presidency of the Stake.

Dead.—John Borlase, the man who was shot by David Jenkins at Sandy a short time ago, and who has since been at St. Mary's Hospital, reported better and worse alternately, died yesterday afternoon a short time after the News had gone to press. Steps should be taken to have the affair investigated, through which he came to his death, that the public mind may be satisfied as to the real facts in the case; whether it was a cold blooded murder or a justifiable homicide. Let justice be done and without any further delay.

Burglary.—Bro. W. R. Chapman, proprietor of the store known as the "Little Co-op," two doors south of Savage's Gallery, reports that a burglary was committed on his place sometime between Friday night and Sunday morning. A valise, containing articles, was taken from the counter. This was all that was missing. The thief or thieves must have entered by the front door, by picking the lock, as no other way of ingress was found. Nightwatchman Watson says he tried the door on Sunday evening and found it unfastened. The valise was of light brown leather, with straps and pocket. Look out for it and its contents.

Coasting.—Coasting is getting to be a dangerous practice. The youngsters with their sleds have monopolized about every side walk within the corporate limits, having sufficient incline to carry their wooden sleds along unassisted by aught but the force of gravitation. A day or two ago a little child, walking along with its mother, was caught on a runner and flung down with a force that nearly broke its neck, and yesterday a lady received a painful cut on the back of the head, through a similar occurrence. Such things will continue as long as the snow lasts and the young sliders have undisputed control of what rightly belongs to pedestrians.

Shot in the Cheek.—From the Enquirer we learn that Edwin Carter, of Provo City, returned home from Tintic last Sunday, badly wounded. On Saturday night, while in Cushman's store, Silver City, buying some mining supplies, two men—a Frenchman named Lamot, and Nathaniel Green, were there quarreling. Green drew a pistol and fired at Lamot, who sprang toward his opponent; the ball missed the Frenchman and struck young Carter, who was at the counter, a little to the left of the nose, the bullet lodging in the cheek. Dr. Pike is attending the patient and expects to extract the ball without danger to the injured youth. Green is in custody.

How He Was Shot.—Dr. J. M. Benedict arrived last night from Mt. Pleasant, as expected, bringing with him Peter Brennan, the man who was wounded in the shooting at that place on Monday last. He is at St. Mary's Hospital. He is shot in two places, a dangerous wound having been inflicted between the nose and the left eye, and another scalp wound on top of the head. Both were caused by a shot gun loaded with balls, in the hands of Thaddeus Hambrick, a poleman of Mt. Pleasant. The ball drew out of Brennan's gambling in Pritchett's saloon, where Hambrick was employed. It being desired generally to have the gambling discontinued, Hambrick and another man named Fowler were sworn in as policemen, and through their efforts the practice was broken up, and Brennan and others were fined. On Monday, Brennan was standing with others in Pritchett's place, where Hambrick and Fowler were both at work. Brennan applied an abusive epithet to Hambrick and accused him of informing on him and his fellow poker players. Hambrick gave him the lie and a return epithet, it is stated, whereupon Brennan drew a pistol and struck at him, the weapon discharging ineffectually as it struck the head of the policeman, and the force of the blow being decided by a bystander's grabbing Brennan from behind Hambrick then began shooting, and it is said Fowler did also. Bullets flew around promiscuously for a while, until finally Brennan sought refuge behind the counter, and was shot by Hambrick with a gun he had previously seized. Fowler was arrested and put under bonds; but Hambrick, it was considered, acted in self-defense, and was not taken into custody. Brennan is in a pretty bad condition. Even if he does not die from his wounds, he will probably have to lose his left eye.

Interesting Items.

Elder Thomas C. Callister, of Fillmore, son of the late President Callister, is spending a few days with his friends in Salt Lake. He reports that some very dull—almost unprecedently so—in his southern home. The railroad, while it has benefited some of the towns in that region has operated detrimentally to the interests of Fillmore. Large quantities of freight that used to be hauled through there, are now handled at Deseret, on the immediate line of the railway, and numbers of old residents of Fillmore are moving and settling in the towns along the track. Hardly any business is being done at the former place nowadays.

Among other items, he relates how Roy Parrish, the Springfield rapist, was captured at Kanosh, a town a short distance from Fillmore, while traveling in company with the fraud Williamson, as related in the News some time ago. Parrish was stopping at a house in Kanosh, one evening, Bishop Abram Kimball and several other gentlemen also being present, and Brother Kimball was reading aloud to the party from the columns of the News. Parrish was listening intently with the others, until the reader started on the item of a rape committed in Springfield, when Parrish was observed to hang his head and gaze fixedly at the floor. His entertainers immediately apprehended the cause of his embarrassment, and when Parrish got up to go, with the remark that his companion (Williamson) would be waiting for him, they said "We guess you are the fellow this paper speaks of, are you not?" Parrish replied, "Yes, I'm the man, but I'm not guilty of that crime." They remarked, "Well, we guess we can accommodate you with lodgings here to-night—sit down and stay awhile." Parrish demurred and would have resisted, but finding himself in the power of three or four-strong and determined men, he reluctantly resumed his seat and passed the night in his chair, the others sitting up with him to guard against escape. Next day he was taken to jail, and awaited there the arrival of Sheriff Turner from Utah County, as heretofore narrated.

Elder Callister will be in town several days yet.

Narrow Escape.—A correspondent to the Enquirer from Castle Dale, Emery County, under date of the 18th ult., gives the following particulars of a narrow escape from death of J. K. Reed and J. D. Kilpatrick, while crossing the mountains between Salina and Castle Dale: "They went out to get in some goods for Christmas. The snow fell so deep that they were compelled to leave their wagons on the way, intending to hire a team in on the other side to come as far as possible up Salina Canyon, and then pack through the snow to their own wagons. In coming up Salina Canyon, after dark and about two miles below S. Alred's ranch, and while passing over a very narrow dugway, the high wind whirled a clod of rock and precipitated the wagon, men and four horses a distance of 60 feet into the Salina creek. Reid was lying face downward on the hind part of the wagon and was thrown about 100 feet down the hill to the edge of a perpendicular bank, and then into the creek. The wagon went over him without injuring him. Kilpatrick was driving the team, and when the wagon started to go, he sprang from the side of the wagon, and struck on the edge of the bank below, and then fell into the creek up to his waist. He crawled on to the ice and snow just in time, for the wagon and horses fell into the exact spot he had just vacated. The parties as soon as possible went to work cutting the harness and getting the horses out of their entanglement. The best horse was so badly hurt that he died before morning; the others were also badly bruised; the wagon tongue was broken in twain, and the goods were smashed, scattered and wet, making the loss, including the horses, about $300. A sack of sugar was afterwards discovered, by feeling with a stick, under the ice, after it had been all night in the water.

This accident happened on the "wheelbarrow road" in Salina canyon, that was made last summer. A man would need good nerves to drive a horse across a narrow over some of the dugways."

Police Court.—A case of drunkenness (a woman), was fined $20, which in her case means 20 days in the custody of the jailor.

A nymph du pave, for ascending from jail without first obtaining permission, was brought back and fined $25 for her forgetfulness.

Ah Dong, a Chinese gambler, was yesterday fined $50 for indulging in his favorite pursuit.

"Banker's Daughter To-night."—Tickets for to-night's performance have been going off steadily for the last two days, and a good audience as well as a good entertainment may be confidently expected. The "Banker's Daughter" is a beautiful drama of the popular school, interesting, instructive, amusing, thrilling and magnificent. The complete Careless Orchestra will play this evening. Go early and get good seats.
