What a Lady Says.
I am sure no Cooking Stove that ever was made has given so great satisfaction as the CHARTER OAK. The arrangement of the flues is such as to always insure good draft and quick uniform baking, which enables the housekeeper to do a large amount of kitchen work with a moderate quantity of fuel; the Reservoir is unusually large and supplies all the hot water required.

Read the advt. of the Basket Company concerning their basket manufactory and place of sale.

MEMBERS FROM THE TROPICS, visiting this country, will find HALL'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND A superior remedy for the Coughs, Colds, and bronchial difficulties which a change from a humid to a temperate climate always engenders. Coughs who have used it are loud in its praise. In fact, it has no equal in the pharmacopoeia, or among proprietary medicines, as a cure for throat or lung complaints. Procureable at all druggists at 50 cents and $1. Great saving by purchasing large size. Price of the Honey of Horehound in one bottle.

Go to the Grand Central Hotel, New York. It is the only first-class hotel that has had the courage to reduce rates from $1.00 to 2.50 and $3.00 per day.

Nature Gives Us Teeth, But she does not preserve them. That must be done with FRAGRANT SODODONT. The dental tone and enamel casing are made invulnerable to all destructive influences by the daily use of this beneficial preparation.

UNITED ORDER RULES.—Having had frequent enquiries for copies of the "Rules that should be observed by Members of the United Order," since the first edition of the same was all sold, we have lately printed an authorized edition on fine fancy colored paper, on a sheet 12 1/2 by 20 inches, suitable for framing or mounting in the houses of the Saints. They can be had at this office, or mailed to any address for 10 cents per copy.

The Relief Society Woman's Mercantile Association is opening a store for the sale of home manufactures in the building lately occupied by the Woman's Centennial Territorial Fair, known as the Old Constitution Building, opposite Z. C. M. I. store.

We are now ready to receive some-made useful and ornamental articles of all kinds, which we will sell on commission.
Many of our citizens have felt the want of a place devoted exclusively to Utah productions, and now that we are, in accordance with the wishes of President Young, uniting our humble efforts in this direction, we confidently trust that we shall not only have the support of all branches of the Relief Society throughout the valleys of the mountains, but also of our brethren and all others who feel an interest in the future welfare and prosperity of Utah.

Commencing as we do without capital, we wish it distinctly understood that at present we can only sell on commission.

ELIZA R. SNOW, President.
PRISCILLA M. STAINES, Vice President.
ELIZABETH DAVIS, Secretary.

THE RAPID popularity gained in this territory by the OLIVER CHILLED PLOW during the short time it has been introduced here is something marvelous. This splendid plow has distanced all competition, and now stands at the head of the list, unequalled by any implement of the kind ever brought to Utah. With the Oliver Plow FALL PLOWING can be done QUICKLY and EASILY, and WITHOUT IRRIGATION, no matter how hard and dry the soil. It is offered on the most favorable terms by Howard Seabro, at the Bain Wagon Depot, one-half block south of Theatre.

HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM is an unfailing prescription for a faultless complexion. Sallowiness, roughness, sunburn, moth patches, freckles, discoloration, dark spots, unwholesome paleness, tan, pimples, eruptions, redness and every other kind of blemish disappear like magic by the use of Hagan's Magnolia Balm. A few applications applied with a soft linen cloth will leave the delicate hues of refined beauty and youthful bloom. Its application cannot be detected, and it is absolutely free from all possible harm, warranted purely a vegetable extract from the flowers of Southern France.

EVENING NEWS.

Saturday, November 25, 1876.

PRICE OF GOLD.

Corrected daily by Direct National Bank.
SALT LAKE CITY, November 25, 1876.
Buying at $1.08; Selling at $1.08.

Local and Other Matters.

THERMOMETER 62 degrees F. in the shade at 1 p.m. to-day. Fine, a few clouds.

Meetings.—Religious services in the various Ward meeting-houses to-morrow afternoon, commencing at two o'clock, and also in the evening.

Will Preach.—Orson Pratt will preach to-morrow afternoon at the Thirteenth Ward Assembly Rooms. Services to commence at 2 o'clock.

November will soon be gone, and it goes out with a good day—Thanksgiving Day, next Thursday. It cannot be called dull, dreary November this year, for it has been one of the pleasantest months of the twelve.

Social Party.—On Tuesday evening, Nov. 25th, Elder George E. Wallace, about to depart on a mission, will be the recipient of a complimentary party, at the Seventeenth District Assembly Rooms.

Theatre.—This is the day in the evening of which Mr. P. Margetts takes his benefit at the Theatre, and appears in three humorous or comic pieces. Consequently there will be lots of fun for the money. For he will be supported by all the local favorites, and it is no news to say that they will all try to outshine themselves.

Centennial.—We are indebted to Judge Haydon and the Illinois State Board of Centennial Managers for the "Eighteenth Annual Report of the Trade and Commerce of Chicago, for 1875, compiled by Chas. Randolph.

Also to Judge Haydon for the "State Address" of Hon. C. C. Norcross, of Iowa, at Philadelphia, Sept. 7, 1876.

The Ball to Roll.—We understand initiatory steps are about to be taken with a view to building a narrow gauge railroad between this city and the Weber coal mines, and that it will probably be put through in quick time. We hope the people will take hold and quietly and determinedly construct it, that the coal question may be permanently settled.

An Error.—A local item in our columns yesterday, announced that Hon. F. D. Richards had been unable to visit his office for a day or two in consequence of a slight spinal derangement. The announcement was an error, and we beg to take back the slight impeachment against the Judge in regard to the derangement, as he called this morning to assure us that his spinal column is O. K., and that it must be the spirit of "some other man" which is deranged, whereof we were glad on his account and sorry for the other man.—Ogden Junction, Nov. 24.

Biographical Annals of the Civil Government of the United States, During its First Century. By Chas. Lammam, James Anglin, Washington, D. C.

The second part consists of tabular records of the personnel of the various administrations, the presidential electors for the various presidents, electoral and popular votes, justices of the various courts, details of the various departments, postal matters, settlement of States and Territories, government publications, United States ministers abroad, treaties and conventions, etc.

The whole is supplied with a copious index.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The Political Crisis.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 18, 1876.

Editor Deseret News:
The present political crisis reminds us somewhat of the fable about the grave of the prophet Mahomed at Mecca. The caasket containing his body was said to be suspended in the air, by the hand of Allah, thus preserving it from contamination of earth. The secret of the suspended caasket consisted simply in the ingenious arrangement of two magnets between which the caasket, which was made of iron, was so nicely balanced that for centuries it hung there, the object of the worship of thousands of faithful Islamites who made the pilgrimage thither for the purpose of seeing what they considered to be the eighth wonder of the world.

The past two weeks have really seemed like two centuries, not only at the National Capital, but throughout the Union. Like Mahomed's caasket, the result of the election has been hovering in a state of uncertainty, between the hopes and doubts of both parties. At times the burden has seemingly inclined toward one side or the other, thus promising to put an end to all suspense, but the next moment the opposing magnet has gained the upper hand, and the result has become as doubtful as ever. Truly, this is a state of "betweenness," as some one of our friends was pleased to remark when commenting on the situation. What makes the uncertainty still harder to bear is the fact that nobody knows when it will end. So long as the opposing powers are of equal force, it is not likely that the dispute over the coveted treasure will come to an end, unless, indeed, to use a vulgar expression, somebody "falls down hard on the caasket, and hard enough to tip the balance one way or the other. Let not the weight of success crush the party upon which it falls.

The general depression of business, which has been the natural result of the state of affairs succeeding the election, has not seemingly affected this city. This may be due, in part, to the annual influx of the winter visitors, which usually begins two or three weeks previous to the meeting of Congress, and which has just set in. As might be expected, the immigration of this year takes unwonted dimensions, the habits of Washington during the session of Congress being this year enforced by two distinct classes of travellers. One class, who come once in four years and who come but once in a hundred years. The former of these classes everybody knows; they are the chronic office-seekers of the "opposition party," as they would say in England, who flock here after each presidential election in hope of "getting something." Also how many of those weak mortals will have to go home again, penniless, spiritless, officeless, after hanging around for a winter (or as long as their means will permit them) at the Washington hotels, treating members of Congress to drinks and Senators to wine suppers in consideration of golden promises of some lucrative employment, promises which our Representatives "in Congress assembled" know so well how to make and forget. By the latter class of visitors I do not refer to those "Centralists" who, clad in linen dusters and paper collars, used to make a practice of invading boarding houses in battalions of ten and twenty, staying twenty-four hours, and then departing, leaving behind them the utter blankness and devastation which we used to imagine could be caused by nothing less than a conflagration or an avalanche. No, this race has vanished, with the exception of a few straggling specimens, who look lank and hungry enough to inspire us with the hope that the race may die out before the next Centennial. The element I here speak of is the solid Centennial visitor from at home and abroad, who comes with his family to take up his residence here for the winter; comes to spend his money and see the sights, and those are neither few nor far, between here.

The principal events in Congress during the coming session, can scarcely yet be foreshadowed; they will depend, to a very great extent, upon the result of the election in the southern states. When this becomes definitely known, and not until then, will it be possible to prophesy with an approach to certainty, what will be done and what will be omitted by our legislators. In society the question is, what will not be done during the coming season. The "Centennial tea-parties" and "Martha Washington fairs" of last winter will be out of vogue; they will be supplanted by masquerades, champagne suppers and other exercises of a more expensive and "jolly" and probably less healthful character. The theatres and other public places of amusement have opened their seasons, and are now in full blast. It is a wonder, by the way, how easily the Washington public, otherwise fastidious, is duped into accepting bad theatrical performances for good ones. The best theatre we have here would at this time, otherwise the Washington public, otherwise fastidious, is duped into accepting bad theatrical performances for good ones. The best theatre we have here would at this time, otherwise the Washington public, otherwise fastidious, is duped into accepting bad theatrical performances for good ones.

Quiet Girls.—Over and over again are the sweetest natured as well as the cleverest women stigmatized as dull, stupid and plain, because they are disinclined to shriek and to cheer in the teeth of their head to the first man who philanthropically condescends to indicate that he is disposed to look with favor upon them. It may as well be stated that to be a noisy, forward, self-assured member of society, it is necessary that a girl shall have no deep feelings upon any subject; that she shall not think upon the things outside the special sphere of her operations, and that she shall have no person's welfare at heart so much as her own. In a word, she must neither possess a womanish taste nor a tender conscience.

Now, hosts of quiet girls are burdened with those encumbrances; hence, perhaps, their constant humiliation. If you want to find a girl who is a treasure in the home in which she lives; who does real, honest, substantial work; who possesses the strongest affection of those who thoroughly know and understand her; and who is endowed with as noble a soul as she has a pure mind, look for a quiet girl. It is from the ranks of the quiet girls that the best wives, and the truest friends, and the hardest workers come. Of the women who really distinguish themselves by their intellectual achievements the majority are subdued and modest—yes, lives—in company. Often treasures, the existence of which has been unsuspected, have been revealed in quiet girls. It always will be so; for a genuine woman will never show the sterling stuff of which she is made to the impertinent inquirer, who may be unworthy alike of her confidence and her regard. She will continue to reason those who pretend to understand her by rising to heights, when she is summoned thither, which are unapproachable to her complacent and courted critics.

What we would indicate is, that while noisy damsels will often turn out to be gaudy impostors, many quiet ones will amply repay the time, trouble and love which any one may bestow upon them.—Home Journal.

The Boston Journal says the election excitement has caused several sudden deaths in that city.

A home fell into a well near Kingston, Ontario, and may thank a yoke of oxen for helping him out.
