BREVITIES.

Tailors' crockery—fashion plates.

The condition of Spain is becoming Primeval.

A million of people are out of work in England.

Mr. Fling thinks that it is a female boat club, which they call So-row-sis.

What is that which, by losing an eye, has nothing but a nose left? A noise.

Houston, Texas, is of opinion that in ten years she will be the "grandest railroad centre in the South."

Doctor Pheim thinks that loss of memory is not alarming, for it is only an affection of the membrane.

Miss Gorchakoff, a young lady from Kaluga, Russia, has just received the degree of Bachelor of Sciences from the faculty of the University of Paris.

The St. John (N. B.) Telegraph warns delinquent advertisers that on a certain day "their accounts will be sold by auction to the highest bidder."

A fellow made money at a country fair by letting people raise him by the ears at 25 cents premium for success, and 10 cents fine for failure.

The Chicago reporters publish accounts of prize fights under the head of "ethnographic," and call chicken matches "ornithological discussions."

An exchange praises an egg, which, it says, was laid on our table by the Rev. Bro. Smith. Bro. Smith seems to be a layman as well as a minister.

Mrs. Elizabeth Davis died a few days since, at Miller's Place, L. I., aged 88 years, leaving a husband who is 94 years old, with whom she had lived in wedlock 70 years.

Two years ago a Chicago lady, in the absence of her lord, swapped a pair of the family horses for five acres of land south of the city. She is now offered $20,000 for the land.

A blind infant, three years old, plays the piano in Baltimore in a most skilful and thrilling manner, using its elbows as well as its hands. It only needs to be idiotic to rival Blind Tom.

Gen. Jackson, in his old age, joined the church, and, illustrative of the old man's determined will in spiritual as well as temporal matters, it was said of him that if he determined to go to heaven all hell couldn't stop him.

The following lines in relation to the shooting of Prince Alfred appeared in a paper which, it is said, circulates only amongst the educated classes in Australia:

"Australians, we have a weight to bear—
That in this land of gold
An act most foul, most terrible,
It makes your blood run cold,
To think that our beloved prince,
So gentle, good and kind,
Should in the act of benevolence
Be shot behind."

It is known that a man cannot marry his grandmother, but here is a case not included in the list of excepted brides. A widower aged fifty, having dried his tears, paid his addresses to a very comely lass, the "daughter" of a worthy citizen of a provincial town. "She" had money, and even with a world of vile, ill-favored faults, looked handsome under the circumstances. The marriage was duly celebrated, and for four years all went well, until the young wife displayed the evidence of a splendid beard. Truth came out—the supposed "wife" was a handsome young man, and to prevent their being laughed at, both agreed to keep their secret.—Paris Cor.

The worship of reason is the denial of God. All Rationalists, therefore, to be consistent with themselves, should be avowed infidels; and all infidels are destructive both in the church and the state. The French thoroughly understood this when, in order to cut loose from the past, they formally dethroned the Christian God, and set up the Goddess of Reason instead in the person of a nameless prostitute. "The reign of Reason," thus inaugurated, was "the reign of Terror." It has been so in all past history, which everywhere illustrates that, to cut loose from religion is to undermine and dissolve the bonds of Government, law, and healthy social life.

General Wolfe once appeared in the mess-room of some of his officers just in time to overhear a young subaltern remark that, on a certain occasion, he "had taken a bottle of wine with Wolfe." He instantly reprimanded the youngster by asking him somewhat sharply, "do you not think it would have been quite as becoming in you to have said 'General Wolfe,' sir?" "Not at all, sir," was the quick witted reply, "who ever heard of General Achilles, or of General Julius Cæsar?" The General was pleased with the implied compliment, in spite of himself, and the result was a hearty laugh all around, and a fresh invitation extended to the pert young officer to dine with the General on the day following.

An illiterate woman, whose husband had become enormously rich by shoddy operations during the war, lately gave a carte blanche to one of our large publishers to send her a library, to be gotton up regardless of expense, des ring him, at the same time, to have all the volumes magnificently and uniformly bound. The order was ably and promptly executed, and the collection comprised the choicest literature that good taste and money could procure. Our shoddy friend, however, indignantly returned them, with an order to have them resold, on the ground that the books were all bound in purple, and did not at all suit her curtains and carpet, which were green.
