Perhaps only polygamists are to be slaughtered; if so, how is it sonal ill feelings existed between the remaining one of the three and either to be proved which are polygamists and which monogamists? Would not the same difficulties exist as regardsof the others. Had the demon of drink not been introduced doubtless no dispute would have arisen, no fight would proof in the case of military as of civil inquiry? Or are persons merely susected of having contracted pluraj marriage to be punished without proof? If so, there is no need for martial law, because that kind of policy has been inaugurated already, and if the death penalty is to supersede the present punishment, it could as well be introduced into the civil as the martial law against polygamy. Men, a : now, could be arrested on suspicion. tried by a jury picked out of the stree and packed to convict, condemned to the full penalty of the law, and the sentence could be executed pending appeal, bail being, as at present, refused. No need at all for martial law; all that is required is, to change the penalty from fine and imprisonment to have occurred and Henry Gardner would have been alive to-day. The number of drinking dens in the country districts of this county, and especially near the city corporate line, crimination and unlawful and unwar-rantable bias were all criminally ex-hibited against the Mormons by these same officials, as proven beyond controversy by the fact that the 19 "Mormon" prisoners are sentenced for 50 years, while the 79 are sent up for only 254% years. Could there be anything more unfair, unjust and unpardonable? Talk about justice to "Mormons!" at the hands of judicial missionaries. is not only alarming but decidedly shameful, as we have on previous occasions clearly shown. An inquiry into the cause of this abominable traffic assuming such a comparatively mammoth proportion shows where at least a portion of the blame appears to attach. The license
