terests of the country. Wool has been placed upon the free list in the Mills bill, and all the wool-growers in the land are played upon, that their indig-nation may be excited against those who it is allowed to be passed through, but with an unfaltering faith in the mis-sion of this Academy, we appeal to every Latter-day Saint, who has the future welfare of the rising generation at heart, to may be be a set of the set of th who, it is alleged, have attempted to destroy this industry. Suppose it was true that sheep-owners would suffer to their utmost capacity during the comsome extent by the importation of wool without duty, would not the gen-tion of all friends of an education cral public be benefited by the consequent cheapening of woolen articles manufactured in this country? And is not the good of the whole people more than the interest of a comparatively small class? Are the County, have addressed to the NEW prejudices of sheep men to weigh the following communication: against the necessities of the nation? And is it statesmanship or demagogery which appeals to the sectional interests of the wool men and incites them against a measure that is for the welfarc of the country?

But it is not at all clear that even the wool growers and traders would be this direction. A party of settlers now materially injured by the free wool clause of the tariff reform measure, if it should become a law. There are certain grades of wool which are not raised in America but which are needed by manufacturers to mix with our native wools. To encourage their importation is to stimulate the home industry and indirectly the home it it should become a law. There are water from the main creek flowed lato the canal, and thereby became mixed together. B has been using this water on his land and has subjected himself to the rules and regulations of the ir-rigating company the same as the other shareholders. That short ditch he made was nearly half a mile from his land. B sold his land and bought it back again. The springs were not home industry and indirectly the home wool production. If the manufacturers can obtain cheap foreign woel they can manufacture cheap woolen goods; and the demand thus increasing, more native wool will be required and so the home market will be stimulated instead of repressed. Mr. Mills ex. plained the effects of the free wool provision in this way:

We say to the manufacturer we have put wool on the free list to enable him to obtain fareign markets and successrrigating company? According to the above showing, fully compete with the foreign manu-facturer. We say to the laborer in the factory would be imported and he may be that it may be imported and he may be never acquired ownership of or title to the waters of the springs. A right to water is acquired by actually apcmpleyed to make the goods that are now made by foreign labor and import-ed into the United States. We say to the propriating it to some useful purpose. B did not do this. He dug a ditch a consumer we have put wool on the free scort distance, and turned the water list that he may have wooles goods cheaper. We say to the domestic nto it. But this was not such an apwool-grower we have put wool on the free list to enable the manufacturer to propriation as the law requires. In order to have perfected his title to the mport foreign wool to mix with his waters of those springs, B should own and thus enlarge his market and quicken the demand for the consump-tion of his wool while it lightens the have actually irrigated land with them, or he should have made an burden of the taxpayer. The duty on wool now prevents nearly all the better classes of wools from coming into the country, when the domestic pro-duct can only supply about one-half of the amount required for home con-water into it, will not give title to the

A discovery having an important bearing upon the arts and manufac-tures has recently been made by Wil-WASHINGTON, July 27 .- At a meeting liam A. Gibbs of Essex. The discov of the House committee on manufacery is that perfectly pure air can be produced from the combustion of coal, The arrangement for effecting this re turers today, Chairman Bacon announced that the committee would nounced that the committee would proceed to an investigation of the so called whisky trust, and called J. M. Athoun of Louisville. The company's headquarters, witness said, were located in La Rue County, Ky. It was not engaged in distilling whisky but in handling the whisky of a number of firms who do a distilling bus ness in their own names. Witness said most of the large distilleries of fine Kentucky whisky, according to the other a powerful exhaust and blast fan.
