BREVITIES.

The ablest contributor to the Memphis Avalanche is a negro.

When a man is saddled with a bad wife, there are sure to be "stir ups" in the family.

Napoleon once said that more soldiers are killed by ill-cooked beans than by bullets.

Raid upon profanity—During the late freshet in Maryland, dam after dam was swept away.

Because a nose is well-red it doesn't necessarily follow that the individual behind it is mentally so.

Frogs legs are a popular article of diet in St. Albans, and the cooks are expert in preparing them for the table.

Position is everything—position of a comma, for instance: "There's a divinity which shapes our ends rough, hew them as we will."

Lord Sidmouth said, one day, "My brains are gone to the dogs this morning." Sir H. Nicolas at once ejaculated, "Poor dogs!"

The editor of the Bristol, Virginia, News gave his printers a holiday on New Year's day, because, as he said, he had nothing else to give them.

Nations in a state of war are like individuals in a state of intoxication; they frequently contract debts when drunk, which they are obliged to pay when sober.

A newspaper writer uses nearly a column to show that the quotation, "Knowledge is power," was suggested to Bacon by a passage in the Bible. It would be rash for anybody to steal from the Bible, but it was rasher of Bacon.

Among the obituary notices of an Ohio paper, we find the following: "Mr. Wm. Jones, of Malta township, aged 83, passed peacefully away, on Tuesday last, from single blessedness to matrimonial bliss, after a short but sudden attack by Alice Blossom, a blooming widow of 35.

One day James the second in the middle of his courtiers, made the use of this assertion:

"I never knew an honest man make his way at court." To this observation one of the gentlemen present replied,—"And please your majesty whose fault is that?" The king was struck and remained silent.

A gentleman, travelling inside a coach was endeavoring, with considerable earnestness, to impress some argument upon a fellow-passenger, who was in the same vehicle, and who appeared rather dull of comprehension; at length, being slightly irritated, he exclaimed: "Why sir, it's as plain as A B C!" "That may be," quietly replied the other, "but I am D E F."

Somebody says that the best way to get rid of weeds, is to put your cigar case and its contents at the service of your friends. Jones says the most effective means he ever tried was by squeezing the hand of a plump young bereaved in black. The next day she was in half-mourning and a second kindly pressure resulted in a pink gown with a white bonnet.

A ragged militia officer, and still more handy-legged negro, met at the bar of a public house, where the following conversation took place: "Cuff, you,re a good honest fellow, and I like to compliment a man that's lived an honest life, if he is black—you shall take a glass of drink with me Cuff." "Well, capting I's berry dry, so I won't be ugly 'bout it; some niggers is too proud to drink with militia officer; but when he's sober he jis as good as nigger—' specially if de nigger's dry."

While Noah was planting his vineyard, the devil came to him and said, "What are you doing here?" Noah replied, "Planting a vineyard." What is the use of a vineyard?" inquired the devil. Noah replied, "It is fruit, whether fresh or dry (grapes or raisins) is sweet and good, and its wine gladdens the heart. "Let us work on shares," says the devil. "Agreed," says Noah. Now what does the devil do? He brings a lamb, a lion, a hog, and a monkey, sacrifices them, and mingles the blood with the soil. Therefore, if a man eats only of the fruit of the vineyard, he is as innocent and nice as a lamb; if he drinks wine, he thinks himself a lion when he is not, and falls into mischief; if he drinks habitually, he becomes as selfish and unmannerly as a hog; if he gets drunk he jabbers and jumps about, and is silly and nasty, like a monkey.

A French paper tells the following story:

In observance of one of the rules which reflect so much glory on civilized Christendom, the Cicilian Revenue service has recently served Mr. Castiglia a bill of costs for the expenses of the Inquisition, in burning one of his ancestors at the stake, for heresy, in the year 1724.

On the 6th of August, 1725—this was in Voltaire's epoch—the Augustin Monk Romualdo and Gertrude, a nun of St. Benoit, were burned alive, on the Place Saint Erasmus, at Palermo, after an imprisonment of 20 years, on a charge of heresy. The Inquisition, according to custom, condemned them, besides, to pay the cost of the wood used in burning them. This holy tribunal only furnished matches gratis.

And now they come to claim from a descendant of the victims the cost of the judicial murder. It is hoped that they will not forget to add up the little sum of compound interest, to punish a neglect of payment so indelicate on the part of the family. But Mr. Castiglia, instead of offering with due compunction his last shirt in liquidation of so just a demand, obstinately refuses to pay, and solicits of Parliament a decree that he shall be left in quiet, and not persecuted for his money because miscreants burned his forefathers.
