Elder Nephil L. Morris Speaks on The Dispersion of the House of Israel.

REFERS TO ZIONIST MOVEMENT.

Says the Work of Dr. Herzl and Associates Will be Fully Accomplished in Due Season.

A most interesting address on the dispersion of the House of Israel and that gathering in the latter days, was that delivered by Elder Nephil L. Morris. The speaker traced the history of the Jews from the time of the early day prophets and patriarchs, and showed that although they had become a race and a nation among men, the nations in which they moved had been blessed through their presence among them. The meeting was well attended, and was presided over by President John A. Winder.

The choir sang the hymn: "Glorious things of thee are spoken, Zion, city of our God." Prayer was offered by Elder George H. Emery. The choir sang the anthem: "Let the mountains shout for joy."

Elder Nephil L. Morris, president of the Salt Lake Stake, was the speaker. He began by referring to the anthem recited by the choir. This, said the speaker, had caused him to reflect somewhat on the reason for such an anthem, which, said he, had its origin among the Prophets of old, who gave expression to just such thoughts in their speech and poetry.

Elder Morris then took up the history of the House of Israel, whose importance, said he, either numerically or potentially, was of no great significance at the present time. They were, however, a class to be looked up to, for they had a lineage that which there was none greater in the history of man. They had descended from the Prophets and Patriarchs of old, who believed in one God and gave Him reverence.

Elder Morris referred to the commandments of the Jews, which, he said, had been given to them. He pointed out the fairness and impartiality with which their history had been written, showing that it was written without fear or favor, criticizing those who had written for their follies, and praising others for their good deeds. The Jews at the present time numbered perhaps 11,000,000. The predictions of the Prophets concerning the future of this people had been a remarkable fulfillment. In early times it was promised them that if they remained faithful and did right, the earth and its fulness should be theirs, but if, on the other hand, they were disobedient to the laws of God, it was predicted that they should be scattered among all nations and become a curse and a byword throughout the land. The speaker predicted the coming of the Romans, and showed how literally the predictions concerning them had been fulfilled. He spoke of the overthrow of Babylon and the dispersion of the Jews from the promised land. For 1,500 years they had wandered hither and thither without national identity, until today it could truly be said of them that they had suffered the wrath of a just Father.

The speaker read from the 22nd chapter of 1 Nephi, Book of Mormon, dealing with the dispersion of the Jews and their final gathering in the latter days. He called attention to the fact that the scattering of the House of Israel had been a blessing unto the world, for they had invested their fellow men with that spirit which contended for civil and religious liberty, and made men free and independent citizens. Elder Morris referred to the migration of the ten and a half tribes of the House of Israel northward, in which picturesque scene had fallen by the way and remained in northern Europe, where their influence was being felt at the present time. Thus the Anglo-Saxons had been blessed by the scattering of Israel, and men and women were now looking pleasure in tracing their lineage to the early-day Prophets and Patriarchs of whose history they were justly proud.

Elder Morris attributed the rise of this government to the transmission of families blood. He called attention to the prophecy that no kingdom should be set up on this continent and said that the Constitution of this country was in itself an evidence of the overruling hand of an all-wise God.

The speaker alluded to the statement in the Book of Mormon that the nation which should raise its hand against the Jews, Russia, said he, permitted the Jews to be wantonly slaughtered at the hands of the Russian government, and for this an all-wise God would surely visit with punishment. And this would doubtless continue until the demands of Providence had been fully satisfied.

Elder Morris referred to this country as a land of destiny. He said it was more free from racial hatred and prejudice than any nation under the sun. It had been made what it is by the Anglo-Saxons and they would continue to live in it and direct its policies for the benefit of all alike.

The speaker referred to Columbus as the accidental discoverer of America, whose growth and development was due to the liberty-loving, progressive spirit of its colonists. Here religious and political liberty had been established, and it was the belief of the Latter-day Saints that this government would be supplanted only by God's all-faithful measure of religious liberty.

In the Zionist movement had an important part, and as God lives the work of Dr. Herzl and his associates would see its accomplishment in due season.

In conclusion Elder Morris expressed the desire that the crucifix which had been hung upon the Jewish race, would be taken down, and that they would once again be restored to their original condition.

The choir sang the anthem, "Song of the redeemed," and the benediction was pronounced by Patriarch Angus M. Cannon.

ARCHITECT HODGDON

TESTIFIES

For Munyon's Paw-Paw and Says It Cured Him of Catarrh of the Stomach

No need to tell the people of Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and South-eastern Ohio who G. W. Hodgdon, of Pittsburgh, is as his name as an architect has been mentioned far beyond the confines of that city. He is an ardent believer in Munyon's Paw-Paw Tonic. This is what he says:

"Indigestion, which finally resulted in Catarrh of the Stomach, brought on a case of insomnia, for I was almost incapacitated for business. I was induced to try Munyon's Paw-Paw Tonic and the results were magical. Less than half a dozen bottles effected a complete cure and now I feel as well as I ever did."

It is such testimony as that which has in one brief year made Munyon's Paw-Paw Tonic and Paw-Paw Laxative Pills the most talked of remedies that the druggists handle. Those who have Dyspepsia, indigestion or constipation or who are nervous and cannot sleep make a serious mistake in not making an immediate trial of Munyon's Paw-Paw Tonic or Pills.

the cracksmen would in all probability have blown open the big safe.

After entering the front door by the use of a "Jimmy," the burglars encountered the following note:

"To all gentlemen burglars—Please do not use dynamite or its equivalent, for the door is not locked. Kindly use care in going through the contents, and remove them in their proper apartments."

The burglars proved themselves thorough gentlemen. They opened the safe and carried out books and packages, placed them neatly on a table, and then they discovered a box of fine cigars. After helping themselves to as many of these as they wanted, one of the fellows sat down to the typewriter and dashed off the following reply to the note left for them:

"Utah Bedding and Manufacturing Company—Gentlemen—We wish to thank you for your courtesy in leaving the door of your safe unlocked. It has saved us much time and trouble, and gives us an opportunity to attend to other work which we have in view. We trust you will find that our work has been thorough, and while we were not rewarded by the discovery of any currency, we feel amply repaid for our visit by the courtesy which has been extended to us. We have taken the liberty of using a few of your cigars, and find them excellent."

RESIDENCE RANSACKED.
Burglars Break Into Moon Home While Family Was at Church.

While A. F. Moon and family, of 270 Fourth East, were at church last evening, thieves entered the residence by means of a skeleton key and ransacked the house from top to bottom, securing about $50 worth of clothing, knives and forks and silverware. The burglary was discovered about 10 o'clock last night, and the police department notified. The doors were found locked as they had been left, but there could be no mistake about the visit of the burglars.

The police have been given a description of the stolen property and they are trying to locate it.

AMATEUR FARMING.
What a Young Salt Laker Accomplished Near Idaho Falls.

A young man in Salt Lake became disaffected with working by the week, and concluded to try farming. He had absolutely no experience in farm work. He subscribed for a farm journal and came to the Falls to rent a farm. He found 160 acres near Rudy. He gave him the land half of all crops. A more experienced man might have made a better bargain.

The result was 487 bushels of wheat from 15 acres, 109 bushels of oats from 5 acres of the poorest land, 103 bushels of potatoes from an acre and a half. An experienced farmer would have doubled it, but this was the result with an absolutely inexperienced young man of 22 years, who had lived all his life right in Salt Lake City.

He paid $19 a month for board and laundry. He goes back to the city this fall with $250 in his pocket instead of, as he himself remarked, having $2.50 coming next Saturday. And he believed a week, who had lived all his life right in Salt Lake City.

DRIVER HELD UP.
Was Relieved of $50 While Delivering C. O. D. Packages Saturday Night.

W. F. Crow, a driver for Auerbach's store, reported to the police on Saturday night that he had been held up by a lone highwayman and relieved of $50, money he had collected for his employers. The hold up occurred about 9 o'clock near Eighth South and Ninth East, just as Crow was about to drive down town after delivering a package.

He said he was on the seat of his wagon when a large man wearing a mask over his face, and carrying a big gun, seized the horse by the bridle. He was promptly ordered down from his seat. The robber backed the driver up against the horse and then quietly robbed Crow of about $50. A small boy happened to witness the hold up and ran to a nearby store and telephoned for the police. The robber, after securing what money Crow had, disappeared down the street, and no trace of him could be found. Crow did not report the matter until he had concluded what work he had on hand. He has been working for Auerbach's for several months, and resides at 42 Tenth East. He said the hold-up was about six feet tall and wore a beard.

SPRING CREEK WATERS TESTED.

City Chemist Harms Reports on His Findings After Exhaustive Examinations.

SHOWN TO BE OF GOOD PURITY.

Both the Chemical and Bacteriological Examinations Produce Very Satisfactory Results.

City Chemist Harms has just completed several tests of the waters of Spring Creek, which the city council is now figuring on purchasing, to increase the city's water supply. Concerning the result of the analyses Mr. Harms makes the following comments:

"Notwithstanding the chances for contamination possible at all hours, both the chemical analysis and the bacteriological examination show the water to be of good purity, fully meeting all sanitary requirements and perfectly fit for all culinary and domestic purposes."

"This water contains a fair amount of solids of mineral matter. Organically considered, the yield of ammonia is very small. Notwithstanding the chances for possible contamination at all hours, no contamination whatever by sewage, drainage or seepage has been taken place. Both the chemical analysis and the bacteriological examination show the water to be of excellent quality, fully meeting all sanitary requirements and perfectly fit for all domestic and culinary purposes. See also general remarks."

"The subterranean and the various creek waters are of identical character, excepting the organic purity, which is greater in the flowing well than in the surface waters."

"No objection whatever can be urged against the character of the mineral constituents, the same constituting the ordinary ingredients of nearly all drinking waters. Objections to the quality, such as calcium chloride, magnesium chloride, excess of iron or traces of poisonous metals are entirely absent."

"Concerning quantity, the water carries a fair amount which would fall between our City Creek and Parley's canyon water, the former carrying 11 grains and the latter ordinarily 12-24 grains of total solids per United States gallon. (Emigration canyon water carries 25-40 grains.)"

"No particular objection can be urged on the quantity of solids, although a water, as low as possible in mineral matter, is the more desirable one for general drinking, household (savings of soap), and manufacturing or boiler purposes. Few authorities have attempted to fix a minimum standard for drinking water, the former carrying 11 grains and the latter ordinarily 12-24 grains of total solids per United States gallon. (Emigration canyon water carries 25-40 grains.)"

"Regarding organic matter: Tests made right on the grounds upon the water at the time of collection and confirmed by the laboratory tests show all the sources of supply to be of excellent purity. The well or subterranean water is certainly remarkable for its organic purity. No contamination or pollution by sewage, seepage, or drainage has taken place, notwithstanding the possible pollution at any time by conditions as they exist at present. Comparing the organic matter of the City Creek and Parley's water, the last examination of these supplies, made Aug. 9, 1904, showed:

"City Creek—Free ammonia, .15 part per million; albuminoid ammonia, .15 part per million; total, .30 part per million. Oxygen consumed, .80 part per million."

"Parley's Creek—Free ammonia, .15 part per million; albuminoid ammonia, .15 part per million; total, .30 part per million. Oxygen consumed, 1.13 parts per million."

"(Both these sources gave a much higher purity on this date, Aug. 9, 1904, than at any previous tests made.)"

"The water is absolutely colorless, colorless, sparkling, proper temperature—in brief, inviting to the eye and palate. For domestic, culinary and manufacturing purposes, the Spring Creek water forms, in my opinion, a very desirable source of supply. It is, however, essential that proper steps be taken, so as to avoid any possible chance of contamination or pollution of the water from the surrounding territory as to conditions existing at present."

"In conclusion, I beg to state that all samples were collected personally in the presence of George W. Snow, city engineer, in absolutely sterile bottles, and all samples submitted as soon as practicable to the respective analyses and examinations. It is scarcely necessary to state that absolutely new apparatus, absolutely pure chemicals, and reagents were used and all samples subjected under exactly the same conditions to the most severe and thorough tests, with greatest care and scientific accuracy."

TOM KING'S HOARD.
How the Embalmed Woman's Hand Came Into His Possession.

The explanation of how old Tom King came into possession of a woman's hand which was found by the police Saturday evening, is simple. Tom used to work at the St. Mark's hospital, and while there he purloined many things, including the hand. He kept the hand as a sort of mascot, and had it wrapped carefully in an old sock.

The officers searched Tom's room back of the city jail in quest of articles they have mislaid recently, and their search was rewarded by the discovery of dozens of articles, including blankets, quilts, knives, forks, spoons, clothing and bottles. From time to time these articles have been missed by Jailer Kimball, and recently he suspected Tom of the theft. But why he kept the hand, and how long it has been in his possession he could not explain, because of the fact that he was too intoxicated when the discovery was made.

War Department Sends Order in Case Of Private Kurn.

Captain Raybourn of G company, Twenty-ninth Infantry, has received notice from the war department of the dishonorable discharge of Private John H. Kurn, the escaped convict. Kurn enlisted last summer at Fort Douglas under the name of plume of a James D. Canby, and it was not long after that Sheriff Emery showed up at the post with a warrant for "Canby's" arrest, as he had escaped from the Missouri state prison at Jefferson City, where he had been serving 20 years for forgery. The man was turned over to the officer, and is now "back to the old home" at Jefferson City. Captain Raybourn notified the war department at the time, but no attention was paid to his communication, so the other day he wrote again, and this time the department took cognizance, and now the captain has been notified that the man is dishonorably discharged.

guns for the Pennsylvania class of armored cruisers are nearly completed.

The naval gun factory will make 18 of the 8 1/2-inch guns required, the others having been contracted for by private companies. Of the 250 6-inch, 50 caliber guns required, those for the Pennsylvania class of armored cruisers have been completed, and 144 guns required for the battleships of the Virginia class and the armored cruisers of the Tennessee and St. Louis classes are being manufactured.

For the armament of all vessels building 453 3-inch, 50 caliber guns are required. One hundred and twenty-five of these have been provided for, the further orders have been suspended pending the development of an efficient semi-automatic gun of this caliber. A vast amount of work has also been done by the gun factory in alterations and repairs of ordnance material. Estimates for the improvement of the gun factory and increases of the plant are renewed.

Smokeless powder has received attention. The report says the normal output of private powder factories and of the government factories at Indian Head and Newport News is not greater than is required to meet the demands of the service. Armor deliveries in the year have increased, and the manufacture of armor, the report says, has progressed in a satisfactory manner.

There have recently been some delays in ship construction, caused by the non-delivery of armor, but the opinion is expressed that this was not due to delayed armor deliveries, but to unusually rapid ship construction. To obviate the recurrence of this a re-alignment of armor contracts has been made by the bureau. During the year 13,440 tons of armor have been delivered.

Projectiles, however, recently caused the bureau difficulty, some of
