LOGAN.

SHOCKING GUN ACCIDENT.

Young Ernest Myers of Providence, Instantly Killed.

Logan, Cache Co., Sept. 30.—A shocking accident occurred last evening at College, which resulted in the death of Ernest Myers, of Providence, a boy 12 years of age. The boy was at work on the college road, noticing two other young fellows who were hunting deer for him. When they came over to him, he began examining a shotgun one of the lads carried, and while doing so the gun went off in some way and Myers received the entire charge in the head. One side of his face was entirely torn away and death was instantaneous.

The boy was taken to the hospital and Drs. John and Dixon were summoned and dressed the deep, ugly wounds, putting nearly forty stitches in the face to draw the flesh together, and the child was made as comfortable as possible. It is thought that with good care the boy will be but slightly disfigured.

He was well known here and highly respected, and his untimely death is a severe shock to the family. He is buried at Jerome, and the body will be transported to Ogden for interment. The date of their arrival and the time of funeral will be announced later.

SALEM.

DEATH OF WIDOWED MOTHER.

Mrs. Augusta Martin Succumbs to Attack of Typhoid Fever.

Special Correspondence.

Salem, Utah Co., Sept. 30.—One of the saddest deaths that has ever visited Salem, occurred on Tuesday, Sept. 15, when Sister Augusta Martin succumbed to typhoid fever, after an illness of two weeks.

Her husband died three years ago, leaving four children to her tender care. She bore the burden of her loss heroically, never complaining, never murmuring, keeping her own sorrow to herself and sympathizing with others in time of grief.

It was in the house of Brother and Sister Martin that Elder David Cannon died while on his mission in Germany, a few years ago.

She had a brother in Idaho, who will take the children to his home at Christmas, and the rest of the family are in the family of Brother C. O. Baht.

Decceased was forty years of age, and lived and died a faithful Latter-day Saint. Her children and relatives have the sympathy of the entire community.

SMITHFIELD.

Death of Mrs. Knox — Bennett-Greene Nuptials—Bounteous Crops.

Special Correspondence.

Smithfield, Cache Co., Sept. 29.—Mrs. Elizabeth Tweedy Knox died this morning at 9 a.m. of old age. Decceased was born in Durham county, England, June, 1817; joined the church in its infancy, and emigrated to Utah and settled in Smithfield, where she has resided till her demise. Her son, William Knox, has lived with her the past year, caring for her in her old age.

Decceased has a daughter living in Randolph, Utah.

BENNETT-GREENE NUPTIALS.

Melbourne Greene, of Smithfield, and Miss Bennett, of Minden, Wash. Gentle Valley, were united in the bonds of matrimony Wednesday, Sept. 29th, in the Logan Temple.

The reception was tendered them at the residence of Mrs. Greene, the groom's mother, Wednesday evening.

This wedding was much more modest than the former, as it makes the rapid growth of fall wheat, and makes nice plowing.

We had our first frost last night, and that very light.

Beech growers are busy digging their root crops, and the beeches are ever lighter than expected yielding an average of only 7 tons to the acre. A little experience, a few loads of good fine manure, mixed with good, deep plowing and thorough cultivation, will surely give a crop of beets that will pay the farmer for his work, even at the time of sale.

A number of young men were scattered in the different branches of the priesthood.

PRIESTHOOD MEETING.

The regular monthly meeting of the priesthood of the Utah Stake was held Saturday.

Timely advise and counsel was given by Elders Partridge and John of the Stake presidency. The former stated that there was yet due from the Stake a little over eight hundred dollars to the Pioneer monument fund, and hoped that this amount would soon be disbursed and remitted the Bishops to renew their energies in the matter, and to meet their apportionment as early as possible.

A number of young men were sustained in the different branches of the priesthood.

SUGAR BEET EXPERIMENTS.

The Nebraska experiment station has just issued Bulletin No. 67. This is a condensed report on the sugar beet experiments conducted in 1898 on land in the Platte river valley at Ames, Dodge county, Neb. Standard Cattle Co., located at that point, in addition to furnishing land for the experiment plots also placed two thousand acres of sugar beets at the disposal of the station, for experimental purposes.

This area contains considerable numbers of varieties of beets, also soils of different character, rainfall, cropping, etc.

It was thus possible to carry on a part of the experimental work on a very large scale.

In spacing beets the most satisfactory results were obtained by having the spaces between the rows of beets either 12 or 18 inches, the plants being spaced apart in the row. This admits of more cultivation and yet brings the plants sufficiently close together to prevent their growing too large.

Experiments in 1898 and previous years have shown that shallow cultivation throughout the growing season is desirable. Deep cultivation did not increase the yield of beets. This is true on both heavy and light soil in Nebraska. Three to four inches is deep enough to cultivate the beets.

The use of barnyard manure increased materially the yield per acre, but not the sugar content or purity of the beets. The advantage to be derived from the use of commercial fertilizers is not sufficient to pay for their cost. With barnyard manure, however, the case is entirely different, and in use either for a previous crop or directly for the beet crop was profitable.

Of the varieties tested during 1898 and 1899, on both heavy and light soil, the best were the original Klein Wanzenberger, Klein Wanzenberger, Vilmin, Deprincq Elite and Knauer.

A very striking difference was to be noticed in beets growing in different sols. The fields covered by the experiments included a very light loam soil and a compact clay. A comparison of these soils for beet raising both in a year of average rainfall (1898) and of excessive rainfall (1899) showed that the heavy soil produced very much better beets, although the light soil was deeper, though not so much as the heavy soil.

No successful method of treating the leaf spot disease has thus far been discovered. Fungicides such as "Boronite" proved themselves only limited remedial value. Young leaves sprayed with the solution of several amounts set opposite the names of the respective shareholders, as follows:
